WALKER MAY ASK COURT AID

FIND COURTS GO AROUND LAW TO GIVE PROBATION

Charges Altered to Permit Leniency.

Revelation of the methods by which 936 defendants have been granted probation in the Criminal court during the last year were made yesterday as State's Attorney Swanson and his chief assistants prepared for a conference this morning at which they will discuss the probation system in the court.

Records of the Chicago crime commission show that, although Illinois law forbids probation for defendants convicted of many of the more serious crimes, this provision is circumvented when judges change the non-probation charges to charges which permit probation.

The probation discussion has arisen in the state's attorney's office because of the action of Judge James J Kelly of the Criminal court who on Friday granted probation to three shotgun bandits—St. Clair McInerney, George Dilley, and Ralph Trimble—after they had been convicted of robbing loan companies. McInerney and Dilley were rearrested by the police on other robbery charges.

When Probation Is Barred.

Under the law judges are prohibited from granting probation to defendants who have previous records or who have been convicted of murder, manslaughter, rape, kidnaping, perjury, arson, larceny or embezzlement [if the amount taken is over $200], incest, burglary of an inhabited dwelling house, conspiracy, or violation of the election laws.

An exception is made in cases of robbery with a gun. Through some quirk of the law, prosecutors say, probation in such cases is left to judicial discretion.

Crime commission records on the Criminal court show that Chief Justice Harry Fisher, Judge Charles A. Williams, Judge Philip Sullivan, Judge Rudolph Desort, and Judge Kelly have granted probation to men who were charged originally with manslaughter, rape or conspiracy. Release on probation in such cases is rare, however, the record showing it to have been granted in only one manslaughter, one rape, and three conspiracy cases.

Charges Are Changed.

The records in burglary, larceny and embezzlement cases, however, show a wholesale changing of charges, according to court attaches. These records disclose that practically every judge who has sat in the Criminal court during the last year has granted probation in cases of these classifications where the original charge did not permit such action.

Following is a crime commission tabulation of Criminal court probations from August, 1931, through July, 1932. The table by months, shows the principal charges on which probation was granted and a total of all probations for the period, including those on a number of charges not included in the tabulation:

	Robbery.	Burglary.	Larceny.	Embezzlement.	Total
August	7	1	5	1	21
September	11	8	29	3	68
October	5	22	42	..	103
November	22	16	30	4	121
December	19	12	19	7	85
January	7	8	13	5	59
February	12	8	5	1	44
March	16	23	13	4	98
April	15	17	13	1	66
May	20	7	13	3	57
June	23	13	25	8	103
July	30	21	24	3	106
Totals	176	146	234	40	936

In larceny cases the charge is invariably left as it is originally stated in the indictment because, it was pointed out, the amount involved in the theft either makes it a probationable case or prohibits the judge from granting probation. The law is circumvented by arbitrarily fixing an amount not to exceed $200, it was shown. Expensive automobiles, sometimes practically new, are given a value of $200 in the findings of the judges.

Swanson Opens Fight Today.

The commission records reveal that burglary is the charge which is most frequently changed to permit probation. This charge is made petty larceny, receiving stolen property, or malicious mischief. Robbery charges are frequently changed to larceny when a final court judgment is entered and probation granted. The charge of manslaughter on which probation was granted was changed to "leaving the scene of an automobile accident."

At the conference this morning State's Attorney Swanson, his assistants and lawyers representing the vic-

Sheriff Bars Roads to Let Miners Work

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 14.—(AP)—To repel efforts of outside miners to interfere with operations of working pits in Christian county, all highways leading into the county were barricaded tonight.

The barricades were set up at midnight and 1,500 citizens of the county were deputized by Sheriff Charles Wieneke to guard the roads. His action was taken following a meeting attended by between 1,500 and 2,000 mine workers, Chamber of Commerce and American Legion members, and representatives of a citizens' committee.

The county authorities were represented by Sheriff Wieneke and State's Attorney Harry B. Grundy. The meeting decided that no interference with the operations of the mines, at work again under the $5 daily wage contract, would be tolerated.

Sheriff Warns Intruders.

"All coal miners who want to work in Christian county," the sheriff said in a statement, "will be furnished adequate protection. All intruders seeking to illegally enter Christian county for the purpose of fomenting trouble will be summarily dealt with by myself and my deputies."

The meeting of the citizens' committee and allied groups was called following reports that miners opposed to the wage scale planned a "march on Taylorville."

W. C. Argust, district manager of the Peabody Coal company, who attended tonight's meeting, said 2,000 men would be working in the four mines here tomorrow and he expected the mines would be operating at their full capacity of 26,000 tons daily.

Move to Repudiate Scale.

Benld, Ill., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The policy committee of miners objecting to the new $5 daily basic wage scale tonight decided to call a state convention of union miners at which they will seek to repudiate the agreement recently declared in effect by officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

In the meantime, leaders declared, the protesting miners would seek to make their objection effective by refusing to work at the $5 scale. The action, they said, constituted the calling of a strike by the rank and file of the miners. William A. Roberts, Springfield, a member of the policy committee, announced the plans.

The Benld meeting today was attended by a crowd estimated by leaders to exceed 10,000.

Demand Another Count.

Harrisburg, Ill., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Approximately 6,000 miners attended a mass meeting here today to solidify their opposition to resuming work in the coal mines of this district under the $5 basic wage scale agreement until another count is made of votes cast in the referendum on the wage scale.

POLICEMAN WHO SLEW BONUS VET SHOT TO DEATH

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Patrolman George Shinault, who "couldn't sleep" after he killed ex-Doughboy William J. Hushka in the B. E. F. ouster of July 28, himself was mysteriously shot and killed here tonight.

The slaying occurred as Shinault was on duty on E street, northwest, only a few blocks from the bonus camp where he shot the Chicago veteran.

First reports to police headquarters were that a Negro had emptied a pistol at Shinault, but this could not be verified immediately because of the excitement attendant on the discovery of the policeman's identity.

Shinault, who had been exonerated in the killing of Hushka, who later was buried as a soldier in Arlington cemetery, could not get his shooting of the veteran off his mind.

"He's the third man I've killed," he said afterward. "It's awful when you stop to think of it. And this last one, why, it's on my mind so I can hardly think—or sleep."

Dies Carrying Girls in Lake; One Drowned

Loren Piper, 34 years old, of Zion, was fatally stricken with heart disease yesterday as he was wading out to a sandbar in Lake Michigan, off Bartlett beach, just north of Zion, with his two small daughters on his shoulders.

The elder girl, Shirley, 10 years old, was drowned after she had wriggled in panic from the grasp of a youth who swam to her rescue. Laurel, 8 years old, was rescued.

Mother Sees Tragedy.

The tragedy was witnessed by Mrs. Piper and a crowd of bathers. The beach is part of a subdivision development just outside of Zion, and there is no life guard patrol there.

Piper's cry for help was answered by Milton Parkinson of Zion. Parkinson swam out and seized both girls, but Shirley slipped from his grasp and sank. Her body was recovered several hours later.

Death Laid to Heart Attack.

Parkinson, after carrying Laurel to safety, returned to the water and brought in the body of Piper. A rescue crew of Illinois Bell Telephone company employes worked over the body for more than an hour. Later, an examination by Dr. John H. Blanks of Zion disclosed that there was no water in the lungs and that Piper had apparently died of heart disease.

Piper was a commercial artist. He was employed by the National Office Supply company of Waukegan. Mrs. Piper is a daughter of T. H. Ferguson, street commissioner of Zion.

BIG SNAKE LEAPS ONTO FERRY BOAT DECK; 100 DROWN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BOMBAY, Aug. 14.—One big snake caused such a panic on a crowded ferry boat near Kolhapur today that the craft capsized and 100 persons were drowned. The boat was crossing the river with 130 passengers when it passed a floating tree on which the snake lay coiled. The snake sprang to the deck and started a stampede among the passengers who rushed in terror to one side and overturned the boat. Most of the crew and some of the passengers managed to swim ashore.

FAMED CHICAGO CRIME CLEARED AFTER 30 YEARS

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Just why he was so mysterious about his identity and furtive of manner, as if he were a fugitive with some fiendish crime on his conscience, must be surmised or else forgotten. Nor is it clear why he wished to unburden himself of these ancient secrets. By his own statement he has nothing to fear and nothing to atone for. He didn't kill Redline nor participate in the postoffice robbery, on which the statute of limitations has run long ago. Clara is dead, so no harm could come to her.

But his story has been investigated and every detail that could possibly be verified was established as fact. So, because his story is a good one, we shall let him tell it, and because he tells it well we shall call him Marlow, after a celebrated narrator of fiction.

No Commonplace Individual.

Marlow, whatever his place in the social scale may be, is no commonplace individual. A man with his thin face and finely chiseled features, his fixed, appraising stare and his habit of prying into personal affairs should be a novelist, a bartender or a big time gambler. But he'd probably get ahead in any trade.

"Here's the spot," Marlow announced. He had crossed the Illinois Central yards at 16th street and stopped at the first tracks west of the suburban car barn. "About ten feet from this side of that building and fifty feet from the north end," he continued, gazing abstractedly at the ground. "$75,000 in loot and the remains of Redline are buried, fifteen feet deep."

Before going on with his story, Marlow walked back across the yards, obviously reluctant to tarry there, to Indiana avenue where a chauffeur waited in a $6,000 automobile. He directed the driver to the northeast corner of 16th street and Indiana avenue where a building was recently demolished.

McFadden's Patch.

"Some thirty years ago," he resumed, "this place here, up to 13th street, was known as McFadden's Patch. It was a peaceful neighborhood, comparatively, except for the eighth day of each month, pay day on the Illinois Central, when fist fights were not uncommon. There were but three saloons—McFadden's, Mitchell's, and the saloon of Patrick H. McHugh, which stood on this corner.

"In those days I was an honorary vice president of the Italian Labor Pleasure club." Marlow took from his pocket a gaily embossed dance program of this society, dated Dec. 17, 1898. "There were numerous other honorary vice presidents, many of them Irish, and among them I remember William A. Sheahan, the road supervisor; Michael Burke, the road storekeeper, and Section Foremen Patrick and Danny Nalon, John O'Brien, Big Dan O'Herne, and others. They made it their duty to see that the sanctity of the ballot box, which always rested on a beer keg in McFadden's saloon, was respected, and that the Italians voted right.

Violated Only Once.

"The purity of the ballot box was never violated but once, when some rival of 'The Bathhouse' stole it. The thief was well punished when his identity was learned. He suffered with a throat affliction and was obliged to breathe through a silver tube. One day some of the boys, encouraged by McHugh's potent beer, ordered him to remove the tube and place it upon the bar for inspection. Some one grabbed it and ran away, and if St. Luke's hospital hadn't been so close by a promising political career would have ended right there. But I am digressing.

"In those days we lived in that building right down there on 16th street, across from John G. Shortall's home on Prairie avenue. The house was No. 20 then and it was known as Mrs. Dailey's boarding house. Immediately east, at the last steps you see there, was John Alexander Dowie's rescue mission for wayward girls. A little farther down Prairie avenue lived the Marshall Fields, the William G. Hibbards, the Pullmans, Mrs. H. O. Stone, the Armours, the Allertons, and other rich people. Everybody in that section of Prairie avenue in those days, including Fernando Jones, was a millionaire.

"Besides Mrs. Dailey, who was killed many years ago in an elevator

Seeks to Stay Roosevelt in Removal Quiz

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker returned here tonight to resume his fight against removal by Gov. Roosevelt, after a Sunday afternoon conference with John C. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, at the Larchmont home of A. C. Blumenthal, with whom Mr. Walker spent the week-end.

While the mayor, who faces questioning tomorrow afternoon on his relationship with the missing Russell T. Sherwood, was silent about his plans of meeting what remains of Samuel Seabury's charges of unfitness for public office, his attorney, John J. Curtin, hinted at a direct appeal to the courts to stay the governor's hand.

Protect Client's Rights.

Mr. Curtin suggested that if Mr. Roosevelt intends to confine the hearing to questioning of the mayor on the basis of the testimony given at the ex-parte proceedings of the Hofstadter committee, it might be necessary for him to seek an injunction to protect the rights of his client.

One court action challenging the right of Gov. Roosevelt to remove the mayor has been started by George Donnelly, secretary of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce. It rests on the contention that the home rule laws nullify the power of Roosevelt given to the governor in the state constitution. It is to be argued Friday, by which time the removal hearing probably would be concluded.

The mayor's lawyer, who has denied any part in the Bronx man's move, intimated that the action he has in mind would question the procedure being followed by the governor rather than his right to act in the case. It was understood that no court action by the mayor was contemplated until the litigation already started has been argued. While it is pending Gov. Roosevelt has said he would withhold decision.

Governor May Call Witnesses.

However, it may become unnecessary for Mr. Curtin to appeal to the courts, for it was rumored here tonight that Gov. Roosevelt is considering the advisability of calling several of the witnesses who testified before the Hofstadter committee on his own account.

The governor, in refusing to order Mr. Seabury to try his whole case over again, as the mayor and Mr. Curtin asked him to do, gave Mr. Walker the privilege of naming any witnesses he wanted called for cross-examination or to give direct corroborative testimony.

Thus far neither the mayor nor his counsel have availed themselves of the privilege, and Mr. Curtin, upon his return to Albany, said he had not decided which, if any, of the witnesses whom the mayor has said could support portions of his explanations would be asked to testify in his behalf.

Some Notable Witnesses.

Notable among those the mayor named as corroborative witnesses were Paul Block, his wife, Mrs. Janet Allen Walker; Evelyn Wagner, his stenographer; Edward Stanton, and Owen D. Young, who, he has said, told him that the General Electric company owed a "moral but not legal obligation" to finance the Equitable Coach company.

With the governor preparing to question Mr. Walker about the mysterious Sherwood, a $10,000 a year accountant whose Wall street operations amounted to nearly $1,000,000 in five and a half years, it was rumored that the alleged agent of the mayor missing almost a year, would return in time to testify in the mayor's behalf. This rumor seemed to amuse the mayor, who termed it "ridiculous."

Eight of Mr. Seabury's conclusions await refutation by Mr. Walker. Three of them deal with the mysterious Sherwood, whom the mayor, in testifying before the Hofstadter committee, repudiated as his fiscal agent. The others are more general.

ANOTHER DRY CHIEF ENLISTS TO AID HOOVER

Poling Calls 'Allied Forces' For Him.

Attorney General Mitchell orders whole justice department to enforce liquor law in full. Says Dyer and Mann acts also will be enforced. Details on page 2.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover left Washington tonight for a three day fishing trip on Chesapeake bay, carrying with him the knowledge that still another professional dry organization had caught hold of the band wagon and would go along with the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

DR. D. A. POLING. [Acme Photo.]

Just as the commerce department's inspection vessel Sequoia shoved off in its capacity as presidential yacht, Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied forces for prohibition, announced that his organization would give its official support to the Hoover candidacy.

With the allied forces in the Republican campaign array, the President is assured of an almost unbroken support from the organized drys. The Anti-Saloon league and the W. C. T. U. are the only important holdouts and the former has indicated that it would favor if not work for the Republican candidates.

The allied forces, claiming a membership of a million and a half drys, is considered one of the most aggressive of the prohibition organizations. Its support of the President, as explained in the statement issued by Mr. Poling is of the nature of a choice between what the leaders of the organization term two evils.

Executive Committee of 231.

It carries, on the other hand, the official approval of a majority of the organization's executive committee of 231 men and women. Out of 205 members of the committee who answered the questionnaire sent them immediately following President Hoover's acceptance speech of last Thursday night 187 voted in favor of supporting Mr. Hoover's candidacy.

According to Mr. Poling, the vote on the question of confining the organization's activities to a campaign for dry members of congress was overwhelmingly "no" and the question of supporting a third ticket brought an unanimous negative vote.

Poling's Statement.

Mr. Poling's statement opened by explaining that the allied forces have not changed their ideas concerning prohibition, then went on:

"Our endorsement of President Hoover is based upon the belief that in contrast with Gov. Roosevelt, his election will safeguard the gains made under prohibition, will move towards the elimination of existing evils resulting from non-observance and non-enforcement in some communities, will prevent naked repeal and the return of the saloon system, will not commit any public officer or candidate to any policy of repeal or modification against his own conscience or the sentiment of his constituents and will confirm the principle of federal control for a national problem."

While supporting President Hoover, said the statement, the allied forces will conduct an aggressive campaign for the election of senators and representatives "who are against repeal and the reestablishment of the old liquor traffic."

Asked for a specific statement as to the position of allied forces on the proposal of President Hoover for a new constitutional amendment restoring state control but retaining federal prohibition of the saloon, Dr. Poling said no action had been taken on this question because of a divided membership.

Refused "Easy Way Out."

"Some of our people were for supporting the President's demand for a change while others thought no change whatever should be made," he said.

"It is worthy of notice that we give Mr. Hoover an outright endorsement and do not fall back to the mere question of electing dry senators and representatives. That would have been an easy way out, but we refused to take it."

Though President Hoover's trip down the Potomac to Chesapeake bay was scheduled as a period of rest and fishing, the group which accompanied him signified that political planning would by no means be laid aside.

In the party were Secretary of War Hurley and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, two of the most active cabinet campaigners; Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles, one of the President's frequent advisers; Walter Newton, political member of the White House secretarial staff; Will Irwin, Mr. Hoover's friend and Boswell; Clarence M. Woolley, chairman of the board of the American Radiator company; and Capt. Joel T. Boone, the president's physician.

No definite time was set for the return from the trip, but it is probable that Mr. Hoover will be back in the White House Wednesday night.

PLAN FIGHT ON REPEAL

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The National Woman's Christian Temperance union, told by one of its convention speakers, Mrs. Mary Harris of Atlanta, that "those in public life who have betrayed us will be driven out," laid plans today to prevent repeal of the dry laws.

An informal committee has met to decide upon a policy of political action to carry out the declaration of Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the organization, that both the Democratic and Republican planks on prohibition will be resisted "every step of the way."

Favor Definite Policy.

Delegates, while apparently unwilling to endorse any particular candidate for President, have begun to express a belief the convention must adopt a definite policy.

Some of them, while opposed to the Hoover plan of state control, believe election of Gov. Roosevelt will be complete approval of repeal, and therefore there is some disposition to support the President, Mrs. Boole indicated.

The committee believes the "policy of political action" must be to elect drys to congress and to the state legislatures with the understanding they will prevent the passage of any measures to repeal or change national prohibition.

Conventions Opposed.

Should this attempt fail, the strategy will be to seek to prevent state conventions from passing on repeal or modification measures because of the belief such conventions can be stampeded. The committee indicated it believed it would be better for the dry cause if any proposed changes are acted upon by the state legislatures.

HOOVER BACKED BY PROMINENT BAY STATE DRY

Boston, Mass., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—That many of the rigid drys have no intention of deserting President Hoover because of his demand for a change in the 18th amendment was demonstrated today when Dr. Richard C. Cabot, president of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon league, declared that he would vote for the President's re-election.

Dr. Cabot, internationally known as a dry, disagreed with the President's position on liquor but indicated that other and more important issues had influenced him in reaching his decision to support the President.

"I shall vote for Mr. Hoover in spite of the fact I think he's wrong on prohibition because I think the prohibition issue is not the most important issue facing the country now," Dr. Cabot said. "I think he's exactly the right man for the right place both in relation to the economic crisis and as regards our relations with Europe. He's a great man."

JUDGE HORNER WILL RESUME HIS TOUR TODAY

Judge Henry Horner, Democratic governorship nominee, starts out from Mount Vernon today on the fourth week of his "get acquainted" tour of Illinois. It will carry him through the coal fields of the southern part of the state and over to the Missouri boundary.

He will spend today and tomorrow in Williamson and Franklin counties, stopping at Marion, Herrin, Benton, West Frankfort and other cities. On Wednesday he will strike north, going into Springfield for the night and leaving there for Logan county where one of his scheduled stops is Lincoln. On Thursday he will be the guest of honor at the Fulton county fair at Lewistown.

HOOVER PRAISED BY CRUSADERS FOR RUM STAND

Cleveland, O., Aug. 14. — (AP) — Herbert Hoover's stand on prohibition, as outlined in his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination, was commended in a formal statement issued today by the national board of trustees of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization.

The board, however, pointed out that "the President's solution does not conform in method of procedure with our platform," and announced its intention to "bend every effort to secure the election of senators and representatives, both national and state, irrespective of party affiliation, who are willing to support the principles for which we stand."

100 Italian Warships Pass in Review Before King

TARANTO, Italy, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A hundred warships and four squadrons of airplanes completed Mediterranean maneuvers today by passing in review before King Victor Emmanuel. The king was aboard the yacht Aurora, which belongs to Permier Mussolini, who is in Rome. The crews of the naval vessels, lined up in formation, gave the king a loud triple "Viva il Re."

NO RELAXATION IN ENFORCEMENT, MITCHELL WARNS

Dry Laws Not Affected by Plans for Repeal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The commitment of both major parties to the revision or repeal of the 18th amendment must cause no relaxation in the enforcement of the prohibition laws, Attorney General William D. Mitchell warned today in an order to all department of justice officials.

"The suggestion has already been made to the department by those who should know better," Mr. Mitchell said, "that because some changes in the prohibition system are under discussion and may be adopted, the department of justice should relax its efforts to enforce the existing laws. Such a course is unthinkable.

"So long as the present constitutional and statutory provisions remain in effect it is impossible for state governments to legalize and regulate liquor traffic. To relax in the enforcement of the federal law without substitution of any lawful state control would produce chaos and an orgy of uncontrolled excesses. Regardless of one's views on prohibition, there should be no difference of opinion on this point."

Demands Cutting of Cost.

The principal theme of the order was economy and the necessity of cutting costs by every possible means. The warning against relaxation in the enforcement of the dry laws was the last of a series of nine admonitory sections.

Particular stress was laid by the attorney general on the chance to save money in cases growing out of such acts as the Dyer act covering the interstate transportation of stolen automobiles, the Mann, or so-called white slave act, and the new law making an interstate kidnaping a specific federal crime.

Mr. Mitchell pointed to a growing modern tendency for states to shoulder their responsibilities on the federal government.

Offenses against such laws as the Dyer and Mann acts and the kidnaping act are also offenses against state laws and the state enforcement agencies have a primary duty to administer justice, the attorney general declared.

The primary responsibility for the detection and punishment of kidnapers, he said, rests with the state governments.

Warns of "Interference."

"Under all statutes of this general type," said the attorney general, "care and judgment should be used to avoid superseding state prosecutions and to avoid assuming responsibility and expense of prosecutions which can and will be adequately conducted by state authorities.

"A very considerable saving can be effected by judicious effort in these directions. It is not meant by these instructions that criminals should be left unpunished, but it is obvious that where prosecution and punishment by both state and federal governments in the same case is not in the public interest proper coöperation with the state authorities will place the cases where they belong. Where the state authorities neglect, refuse or fail to do their duty it may be necessary, to avoid failure of justice, for the federal government to take over cases which really do not belong to it."

Attorney General Mitchell asserted "the department has been receiving splendid coöperation from its field officials in its economy measures."

Food Poisoning, Not Snake Weed Cow Ate, Kills Two

ROOSEVELT ATOP ANTHONY'S NOSE GREETS GARNER

They Meet on Hill in View of West Point.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—"Hello Jack" came the hearty greeting from the Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States to the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency of the United States.

"Howdy, Gov. Roosevelt," was the somewhat formal return of the red faced John Nance Garner of Texas.

"How's my running partner?" called the beaming Roosevelt.

"Fine, just fine, Frank," said Jack Garner, dropping the formality. "You appear as if you had been training for a prize fight."

An Unconventional Meeting.

The two men met today for the first time since they were nominated at Chicago. The place of their meeting was about as unconventional a spot as could be found in the state of New York. Gov. Roosevelt seems to have a knack for things out of the groove.

It was on top of Anthony's Nose, highest eminence of the Fishkill range of the Hudson highlands, a spot near Peekskill, N. Y., which overlooks West Point and was a look out station during the revolutionary war. The governor had just rounded up a review of three regiments of the New York National Guard at Camp Smith, Mr. Garner had motored up from New York City, where he had arrived this morning. The governor had left instructions with state troopers to bring Mr. Garner out to the camp and while the governor waited for him he told his chauffeur to drive up the perilous narrow road up Anthony's Nose, on which the officers' quarters of the camp is located.

Pretty soon along came Garner and the cheery salutations were exchanged. "Come on, pile in with me, Jack," Gov. Roosevelt invited. "We're going over to Peekskill to lay a cornerstone."

Governor Lays Cornerstone.

Mr. Garner "piled in" and drove on the governor's parade to the historic old village of Peekskill, where a new state armory, nearly completed, was dedicated and the cornerstone laid in place by Gov. Roosevelt while Speaker Garner looked on.

Immediately afterward the governor and Mr. Garner, sitting side by side, motored to the Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park. They discussed many issues of the campaign, and it was reported the vice presidential candidate told the governor in effect that Roosevelt was boss, and he would look to him to guide the public position of both of them on important issues.

Governor Roosevelt is understood to have hinted rather broadly to Garner that it will be best not to press his proposal for relieving unemployment by building thousands of new postoffices in hamlets all over the nation. It is the hope of the Roosevelt managers that Garner's nickname, "Postoffice Jack," may be dropped during the campaign.

Roosevelt and Garner also discussed at length the speech of acceptance delivered by President Hoover on Aug. 11, going over the answers they will give to the various contentions advanced by the President in his own bid for reelection.

Comes to Get His Orders.

At Hyde Park Speaker Garner and Gov. Roosevelt sat out on a great cliff commanding a superb view of the Hudson, where Mr. Garner told newspaper men frankly that he had come to get "my orders from my boss."

"That's why I'm here," the Texan said, in his brusque fashion. "I want to find out what the governor has for me to do, and I'm going to be a good soldier and go out and do it. I haven't had time enough yet to find out what he wants, but I'll see you fellows in the morning and talk my head off if you want me to."

After having dinner at Hyde Park, the governor took his running mate up to Albany, and Garner is to spend the night there at the executive mansion.

Hoover Calls Business and Industrial Groups on Aug. 26

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover announced today that he had set Aug. 26 as the date on which he will call together the members of the recently organized business and industrial committees to meet in Washington, as the opening move in a "concentrated campaign of action along the whole economic front."

The committees were established some weeks ago, and prior to the President's announcement of July 29 that he was pushing forward a nine point campaign in an effort to set the wheels of economic rehabilitation moving. The conference definitely set today was announced at that time as one of the nine methods by which Mr. Hoover intended to attack the depression.

There are twelve committees in all, one from each federal reserve district.

Plans Concerted Program.

"I have called a national conference for Aug. 26 of the business and industrial committees of the twelve federal reserve districts for the purpose of organizing a concerted program along the whole economic front," the President's statement says. "The conference will deal with specific projects where definite accomplishments in business, agriculture, and employment can be attained, and will coördinate the mobilization of private and governmental instrumentalities to that end."

He recalled his July 29 statement and added:

"The areas of positive and definite action have been further explored by informal discussions between representatives of various groups and industries with government officials during the last two weeks."

In addition to the organizing group meeting on Aug. 25, Mr. Hoover said that he would appoint special committees to advise on particular questions concerning agriculture, labor, railways and other industries and groups directly affected.

Personnel of Conference.

The committee chairmen and officials who will hold the preliminary organization meeting are:

Carl P. Dennett, Boston; Owen D. Young, New York; George H. Houston, Philadelphia; L. B. Williams, Cleveland; Edwin C. Graham, Richmond; George S. Harris, Atlanta; Sewell L. Avery, Chicago; J. W. Harris, St. Louis; George D. Dayton, Minneapolis; Joseph F. Porter, Kansas City; Frank Kell, Dallas; K. R. Kingsbury, San Francisco; Secretary of the Treasury Mills; Secretary of Agriculture Hyde; Secretary of Commerce Chapin; Secretary of Labor Doak; Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board; Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Paul Bestor, chairman farm loan board; Franklin Fort, chairman federal home loan board, and James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board.

From Chicago District.

Members of the committee from the Chicago reserve district, all of Chicago, are: George A. Ranney, vice president and treasurer, International Harvester company; Robert E. Wood, president Sears Roebuck & Co.; John Stuart, president Quaker Oats company; Daniel F. Kelley; Fred W. Sargent, president Chicago and North Western railroad; George M. Reynolds, chairman executive committee Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company; Melvin A. Traylor, president First National bank; Albert W. Harris, chairman board Harris Trust and Savings bank; Philip H. Clarke; Solomon A. Smith, president Northern Trust company.

SNELL ASSAILS SEAWAY VIEWS OF ROOSEVELT

Chicago headquarters of the Republican national committee made public yesterday a statement by Congressman Bertrand H. Snell, Republican leader of the house, criticising the attitude of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, toward the St. Lawrence waterway project.

REPRESENTATIVE SNELL.

"The attitude of the Democratic party and its presidential candidate," read the statement, "is clearly indicated in the statement of the spokesman chosen by Gov. Roosevelt to reply to the recent charges of Senator Dickinson of Iowa, that Mr. Roosevelt, wittingly or otherwise, deceived the American people by reading into the Democratic platform a declaration favoring this waterway which was not in the text adopted by the Democratic national convention.

"This spokesman for the governor and his party, Senator Gore of Oklahoma, accused Senator Dickinson and the Republicans of 'training their heaviest artillery on mere trifles.' It is not surprising that the Democratic presidential candidate regards the great lakes-St. Lawrence waterway as a 'mere trifle,' because it is well known that he always has favored the New York barge canal route from the great lakes to the sea, and embraced the St. Lawrence only after it was perfectly clear that the administration would successfully conclude negotiations with Canada to furnish, through the St. Lawrence, the Atlantic route for the products of the farmers in the great northwest.

Central States to Benefit.

"I am led to wonder what the people of Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas and the other great states of the west who will benefit from the St. Lawrence development think of this expression of the attitude of the Democratic party.

"If anybody thinks the development of the great lakes-St. Lawrence seaway is a 'mere trifle' they are very much mistaken. It is one of the most important proposals now before the American people.

"Our people in New York state are unqualifiedly for this development. They do not agree with the Democratic high command that it is a 'mere trifle.'"

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat in Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. Avoid fatty meats and starches. It's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce, as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

INDIANA AWAITS DECISION TODAY ON 50% TAX CUT

Fate of Record Slash Up to Legislature.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The nine year fight of the Hoosier taxpayers for governmental economy may culminate late tonight—the last law making day of the Indiana legislature's special session—in a cut of about 50 per cent in direct general property taxes. This is probably the largest state-wide tax reduction on real estate and tangible personal property in any middle west commonwealth in the last two decades.

Nothing has yet happened in Illinois to approach it, although the Chicago Real Estate board is aggressively urging a 50 per cent cut on local real estate. The committee on public expenditures, however, has predicted a cut in Chicago taxes of less than 9 per cent for 1931 and 15½ per cent for 1932, which is less than a third of Indiana's probable accomplishment.

410 Per Cent Increase.

When the Hoosier taxpayers started they cried aloud that the Indiana tax bill had increased 410 per cent in the preceding 20 years. They cited a state tax bill of $21,825,127 in 1900, compared to a bill for $111,459,767 in 1921. The longer the Hoosier taxpayer fought the higher mounted their taxes until they reached $145,676,944 for 1931.

The tax rate has shot up until it is now an approximate average of $2.90 per $100 of assessed valuation. The special session of the legislators has passed a law, which has become effective, limiting the rate to $1.50 for all state and local purposes. This law also limits the state rate, now 29 cents, to 15 cents, which it is predicted will cause a state deficit of about $5,000,000 for 1933.

Sales or Income Tax.

Reports from Indianapolis last night said that leaders of the Democratic house and Republican senate—which have been jockeying for political advantage for 39 days—were attempting to agree upon an income or a limited sales tax, which would eliminate the anticipated deficit. But it was believed that the $1.50 limit in tax rate will remain the law, for real estate and personal property. For those classes of property that will be an approximate decrease of 41 per cent in taxes.

But that is only two-thirds of the results. The Hoosier taxpayers have been decreasing property valuations for taxing purposes, so that 64 counties have lower assessed valuations than they had nine years ago. The tax valuations reported to the state in June showed cuts from 20 to 45 per cent. They were so drastic, that the state tax board boosted valuations from five to 20 per cent in 35 counties.

The final result was that the assessed valuations of $5,073,241,146 were reduced approximately $1,000,000,000, according to the estimate of the state tax board of July 30. It necessarily follows there will be a cut in taxes of about 20 per cent, due to lower valuations.

Taking Indiana's $145,676,944 tax bill for 1931 as illustrative, the 20 per cent reduction in valuations will cut that bill to $116,541,000. Then the 41 per cent reduction in tax rates—from $2.90 to $1.50 per $100—should further reduce the state tax bill to $67,859,000, which means a gross reduction from the 1931 tax bill of $77,817,000. That, in the reported opinion of both Democratic and Republican politicians, is too drastic. At least, the expected deficit in state expenditures must be collected in new forms of taxes. So some of that proposed reduction may be eliminated.

State Expenses Cut.

The state expenses for 1925-'26—the Indiana fiscal year ends Sept. 30—were reported as $14,611,506. The state appropriations for 1926-'27 were $12,038,852. The original appropriations for 1933 were $13,636,877, but this special session of the legislature has chopped off $1,792,351, leaving the current state appropriations at $11,844,526. The $1.50 tax rate—15 cents for the state—on the estimated tax valuations will extend about $6,100,000 in state taxes—which will be $5,744,000 below the state appropriations, if all of the taxes are collected. Legislators predict that the deficit will be more than $6,000,000.

If the legislators, by means of an income or sales tax limited to an estimated $6,000,000, then Indiana for 1933 will pay that $6,000,000 plus $67,859,000 of general property taxes, or a total of $73,859,000. That is approximately 50 per cent of its $145,676,944 general property-tax bill for 1931. It has been set out in detail, because it seems probable that the Indiana legislature will today mark an epoch in middle west tax reductions.

Larger Share of Gas Tax.

According to indications, the Indiana legislature will give the local communities a larger share of the state gasoline tax. In Indiana the tax is four cents a gallon and the gross income is estimated at $19,000,000 a year. Heretofore the state has retained three cents of the tax. Under an act of the special session the state will give the counties two cents and retain two.

Another act gives the cities and counties half of the automobile license fees. Still another act prohibits the issuance of county road bonds for the next five years. The counties will have exclusive jurisdiction over roads, which is expected to curtail township expenditures for that purpose. On Saturday the legislature legalized parimutuel betting machines. This law becomes operative Sept. 1, so that it will give the dog tracks near Evansville an opportunity to operate, as well as the state fair in Indianapolis next month.

The law also permits the use of these gambling machines at the Indianapolis Memorial day auto races and at state fairs. From the betting machines the state hopes to get $500,000 to $1,000,000 revenue a year.

Income Tax Rates.

The proposed income tax which was indorsed in the Democratic state platform of 1930 would place a one per cent tax on individual incomes of $1,000, two per cent on $2,000 and three per cent on $3,000, and three per cent on net income of corporations. The bill has certain allowances and variations.

The Republican majority in the senate appears to favor a limited sales tax, patterned after the chain store tax of Indiana. A third suggestion for raising revenue is to confer upon the state tax board the power to adjust the limited $1.50 rate "in emergencies." If this plan is adopted, some of the saving in direct taxes may be eliminated.

It may be that the legislators are attempting to "kid" the property owners. The legislature in 1919 adopted a $1.50 tax rate limit, and then repealed it at the next session. However, the Hoosier Taxpayers' association is certain it will win this time.

By law the legislature must conclude its special session at midnight tonight when Indiana taxpayers would know definitely what the tax fight has brought them in the way of savings.

DOCTOR DENOUNCES ACTORS WHO IMITATE STUTTERERS ON STAGE

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Comedians of the stage, screen, and radio studio who evoke merriment by imitating stutterers were taken to task today by Dr. James Sonnett Greene, director of the Hospital for Speech Disorders.

After recalling that stuttering is an affliction "as painfully tragic" as blindness or deafness, Dr. Greene criticized producers for "capitalizing the affliction of more than one million children and an undetermined number of adults in the United States."

Dr. Greene's chief point, however, was that stuttering has been traced directly to the imitation of such comedians by children. Clinical data at the hospital, he said, has revealed that because many of them inherit a highstrung nervous system, children with natural imitative tendencies become afflicted with disordered, spasmodic speech.

"Their susceptibilities to the pranks of screen and radio comedians, unless they are adequately treated," he said, "may cause their becoming cripples for life."

ARREST TRIO FOR LOOTING SCHOOL ROOM OF BLIND

Three young men were arrested last night by Policemen James Patterson and James Walsh of the Sheffield avenue station for looting a room of the Burley school, 1630 Barry avenue, July 29, and taking four typewriters and a $250 radio. The schoolroom is for blind children only.

The prisoners are William Meddy, 21 years old, of 1729 Fletcher street; Joseph Klopp, 22, of 3114 North Ashland avenue, and Henry Caruso, 28, who refused to give his address. Meddy and Klopp, police said, were members of the hoodlum band which in February, 1931, tortured and attempted to bury alive George Wittbrod in St. Nicholas cemetery. They did it as a joke, they explained at the time.

Several days after the schoolroom was looted three of the four typewriters were anonymously returned. Last night Klopp, Meddy, and Caruso asserted that they had planned to return the fourth typewriter and radio. Their consciences had been bothering them, they said, because they had stolen from blind children.

Parmalee Prentice, and Mr. Prentice of New York are at the Drake and visit her daily. Her younger daughter, Mrs. Mathilde Oser, is expected from Switzerland within a couple of days.

PTACEK SHIFTED BY THE MAYOR, ALDERMAN SAYS

Sonnenschein Explains to Lawndale Leaders.

The transfer of Capt. John Ptacek from the Lawndale to the Austin police district, for which he blames Ald. Henry Sonnenschein of the 22d ward, Mayor Cermak's secretary, was ordered by the mayor himself after Capt. Ptacek had refused to retire on a pension. This became known yesterday following a meeting of Lawndale business men in Sonnenschein's office at 2533 South Central Park avenue.

Capt. Ptacek, for 28 years commander of the Lawndale station at 2656 South Lawndale avenue, and long a favorite of Mayor Cermak, was shifted to the Austin station three weeks ago. He charged on Saturday that his transfer was obtained because he refused to permit gambling at the request of Sonnenschein.

Sonnenschein Meets Denemark.

Yesterday Sonnenschein received about 15 members of the 26th Street Business Men's association, led by Emil Denemark, west side automobile dealer and a supporter of Len Small.

Sonnenschein told the delegation that Mayor Cermak had ordered the transfer of Capt. Ptacek because he wanted the district cleaned up and that the mayor had written from Europe demanding that the present captain, John Ryan, clean it up. There are said to be 340 speakeasies in the district.

Some of the business men expressed the belief that Capt. Ptacek was best fitted for the position because of his long experience there and his understanding of the Bohemian people. They were told by Ald. Sonnenschein that the mayor felt a younger captain should be in command.

At one time the conference was enlivened with verbal clashes, one of the business men declaring that if Capt. Ptacek is good enough for Austin he ought to be good enough for Lawndale.

Ald. Sonnenschein's Reply.

Ald. Sonnenschein, the reports are, replied:

"He's lucky he's still on the force."

Capt. Ptacek had charged that Sonnenschein went to him with a request that some personal friends of his be permitted to open a cigar store at 22d and Sacramento boulevard. Examination disclosed the place was fitted up for the operation of a handbook and Capt. Ptacek refused to approve the license, according to the captain's story.

"Three times I notified Joe Fallon, Capt. Ptacek's right hand man, to close that cigar store," Sonnenschein told the business men. "I finally appealed to the mayor and he had it closed by the gambling detail. This, however, had nothing to do with the transfer of Capt. Ptacek. That was done by the mayor, through Commissioner Allman, for the good of the service."

Denemark Tells of Petition.

The meeting ended, it was stated, with the business men apparently reconciled to giving Capt. Ryan a chance. Denemark told Sonnenschein that a petition for Capt. Ptacek's return had been circulated in the district and signed by 30,000 persons. Sonnenschein asked to see it, but Denemark said he was keeping it in his office and would present it to Commissioner Allman "in due time."

Some of the business men, after the meeting, expressed the opinion that the whole controversy over the transfer was engendered by political opponents of the administration.

Among those who attended the conference were Otto Hartmann, acting secretary of the 26th Street Business Men's association; Leonard Serdiuk, Edward Bleier, Rudolph Hajicek, and Harvey Mitchell.

Hurricane Kills 17 in Texas; Many Injured; Heavy Damage

Houston, Tex., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Seventeen persons were dead, at least 50 were injured and property damage was estimated today at many thousands of dollars in the wake of a tropical storm which buffeted south Texas last night.

The list of dead and injured slowly mounted as crippled communications were repaired and rescue workers moved into the stricken area, which centered roughly about this city with a radius of 75 or 100 miles.

The storm moved slowly through south Texas in a southwest direction tonight with rapidly diminishing force, after sweeping an area near Taylor, about 200 miles northwest of Houston.

Storm Rages for Hours.

Striking the Texas coast between Galveston and Freeport, 34 miles from Galveston, late yesterday, the storm raged for many hours, the wind attaining a velocity of about 70 miles an hour at Houston. From Galveston and Houston it moved north to Taylor before turning southwest.

"It is following the usual course of such disturbances," the weather bureau at Dallas reported. "It probably will blow itself out without further violence."

Protected by the great seawall, constructed many years ago after a storm in 1900 had devastated the city, Galveston reported no great amount of damage, although a number of flimsy structures on low beaches were swept away, houses were unroofed, windows were broken and trees were uprooted.

Galveston in Darkness.

Galveston passed the night in darkness, power having been shut off to lessen the danger of fire. About $10,000 damage was done to buildings at Fort Crockett, army post.

Early reports that the city was isolated were denied, although telegraph and telephone wires were out of commission at intervals and the causeway connecting Galveston with the mainland was clogged by motor vehicles stalled when motors were drowned out by rain.

Ask Red Cross Help.

Eagle Lake, Tex., Aug. 14.—(AP)—W. E. Welford, mayor of Eagle Lake, tonight said he had urged Red Cross intervention here because of a condition of prospective poverty facing tenant farmers.

"The early rice crop virtually was destroyed by the storm of last night," said the mayor, "and the cotton crop was badly damaged."

HOOVER ACCEPTS GIBBONS STATUE; PRAISES PRELATE

Knights of Columbus at Colorful Ceremony.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover looked out through the bright sunlight this afternoon at 15,000 Knights of Columbus assembled near Sacred Heart church, turned toward the bronze statue, just unveiled, of the late Cardinal James Gibbons and in the name of our country, accepted this memorial to "an American of burning patriotism."

On the platform, two cabinet members, the governor of Maryland and the apostolic delegate from Rome clapped appreciation. On the grass, and in the streets for several blocks, the thousands of Knights of Columbus, assembled here for their golden anniversary convention, applauded the interdenominational tribute to the priest who, President Hoover pointed out, "carried his religion in the daily toil and complexities of life."

Religious Work Praised.

"Cardinal Gibbons," the nation's chief executive went on, "truly loved human beings. He loved God and to a degree that is seldom equaled he succeeded in carrying into the minds of other people the feeling that the truths of religion are really their primary aids in solving the perplexities of every day living."

The dedication of the statue was the focus for the Knights of Columbus convention which begins tonight with a banquet. For the statue is a gift of the supreme council of the organization. And it was Martin H. Carmody, supreme knight of the order, who today offered to the President and the nation this memorial to a "true priest and patriot."

The flaming crimson robes of the church, the khaki of the army, the bright blue of the bands, and the black cutaways of officialdom: They made a colorful mosaic aymbolic of the various groups that paid homage to the cardinal whose humanity and patriotism every speaker stressed.

Apostolic Delegate Prays.

First the most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States, with a cerise cape on his shoulders, a gold and amethyst cross on his breast, offered prayer. Then Mr. Carmody told of the "reverence to God and the support of good government" which had combined to make the former cardinal of Baltimore, premier see in this country, both a Christian and a citizen.

Margaret Gibbons Burke of New Orleans, grand niece of Cardinal Gibbons, stepped to the edge of the platform where sat President and Mrs. Hoover, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Secretary of Labor Doak, and other officials, and pulled a slender cord. The white cloth slipped off the statue and the face and figure of a gentle, forceful man shone in the sun. A sun so bright that in the midst of this unveiling a woman fainted and was quietly hurried to an ambulance.

Emphasizes Americanism.

Then President Hoover, emphasizing the Americanism of the departed priest, praised his versatility of interests; reminded his audience that "both reason and reasonableness" were the prelate's building tools.

The Rt. Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, sketched the life of Cardinal Gibbons, so much of it spent in Baltimore. And the members of many faiths met there before the church, stood at attention while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and the last rays of the sun touched the bronze statue.

Ship Brings $696,000 from Sunken Liner to England

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Italian salvage ship Artiglio landed at Plymouth today with $696,000 worth of gold and silver which has been recovered in the last week from the sunken liner Egypt. The cargo consisted of twenty-six boxes of gold bars, 40,000 sovereigns and fifty-three bars of silver. The Artiglio probably will leave Plymouth tomorrow to resume salvaging the Egypt's gold.

Distillers to Pay Dividends in Receipts for Old Liquor

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Stockholders of the National Distillers Products corporation, who for several months have heard rumors that they might be paid a special dividend, were informed today that their hopes would come true.

A special dividend will be paid in warehouse receipts for whisky—ripe, aged, mellow fifteen year whisky.

The distribution of this liquid dividend will be made on Oct. 1, 1934, it was announced today by Seton Porter, president of the company. As a concession to preferred stockholders, who might also desire to share in this distribution, they were informed that they might convert their stock into the company's common, on which the whisky dividend has been declared.

Or, if they don't want the whisky, they may retain their preferred shares and receive an extra cash dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Oct. 1, 1934.

Due to Prohibition.

"Due to the long period during which prohibition has been in effect, there seems to be a popular misconception regarding what constitutes good whisky," said Porter in a statement which is now being mailed to shareholders.

"The raw spirits which are initially manufactured, assuming the use of the best materials and methods of distillation, are gradually transformed into whisky solely by aging under proper conditions and, as generally recognized, steadily improve with age. All of the company's large inventory of whisky manufactured prior to prohibition and not already bottled has, therefore, been aged in the wood for fifteen years or more. This irreplaceable inventory has now been reduced to about 700,000 cases."

Authorized by Law.

Distribution of this novel dividend, which is probably unique in the annals of American corporate business, has been authorized by the directors who specify that delivery shall be made to each common stockholder of record on Sept. 15, 1934, of warehouse receipts for one case of 24 full pints of fifteen-year whisky for each five shares of common stock. The warehouse receipts will be placed in trust for stockholders.

"The whisky represented by the warehouse receipts can be withdrawn from bonded warehouse only as authorized by law," explained the company's president, "and upon payment of government taxes by the owner."

YELLOWLEY DISPUTES IT.

E. C. Yellowley, federal supervisor of liquor permits in the Chicago district, said last night that, according to his understanding of the law, a distillery company could not distribute whisky in the form of dividends to stockholders.

Commenting on the New York dispatch stating that the National Distillers Products company contemplated paying dividends in the form of warehouse certificates for the liquor, Mr. Yellowley referred to the Grommes & Ulrich case in Chicago in 1923, in which Federal Judge Evan A. Evans ruled that this form of distribution was illegal.

"My understanding of the law is that they cannot distribute liquor in the form of dividends," said Mr. Yellowley. "They would have to obtain permits for the withdrawal of liquor from a bonded warehouse and the permits would not be issued. If they attempted to distribute the whisky without permits they would be guilty of illegal withdrawal and transportation."

Can Be Sold to Druggists.

Federal authorities say that the warehouse receipts, however, could be sold to druggists who hold permits to purchase liquor from bonded distilleries and dispense it under prescription for medicinal purposes.

In the Grommes & Ulrich case, Robert Mulcahy, a former alderman, S. J. Goodreds, Harry Tansey, Charles A. Williams, a former judge; John Early, former prohibition enforcement officer; Roscoe Andrews, former prohibition director, the Grommes & Ulrich corporation, and others were charged with conspiracy to sell stock in the company and pay dividends in the form of liquor.

Judge Evans, in instructing the jury, ruled that such distribution of liquor was illegal, but that it was for the jurors to determine whether there had been a conspiracy to violate the law. After a long debate, the jurors, having only a question of fact as to the existence of a conspiracy to decide, returned a verdict of not guilty for all six defendants.

The whisky delivered to the stockholders in this manner was subsequently confiscated and destroyed by the government, including 5,000 gallons delivered to Mr. Mulcahy.

FIND COURTS GET AROUND LAW TO GRANT PROBATION

Swanson Will Map Fight on System Today.

tims of the three robbers to whom Judge Kelly granted probation, will discuss the advisability of taking court action to determine just how far a judge can go in probation matters. Assistant prosecutors have suggested that as a test a mandamus suit could be filed in the State Supreme court to compel Judge Kelly to expunge his probation order in the case. A decision on this proposal is expected to be reached at the meeting today.

Judge Kelly yesterday called Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker to ask him to see that Sergt. Timothy Dwyer, who rearrested McInerney and Dilley, be present in his court at 10 o'clock this morning. Chief Schoemaker told the judge that he, Dwyer and the assistant state's attorney who prosecuted the case would all be there.

During the day the prisoners were booked on new charges of robbery and larceny of an automobile, the complainant in both cases being Randall Bruce, 4830 Cottage Grove avenue. They will be arraigned today before Judge Edelman in the Felony court.

Some Cases of Probation.

The crime commission has made available its records on some of the cases in which Judge Kelly has granted probation during his 15 months in the Criminal court. He has some 200 probationers now under his jurisdiction. The cases made public yesterday are:

EDWIN KROLL and ALEX BUNY, charged with conspiracy, robbery and murder; granted probation on the conspiracy charge; found not guilty by Judge Kelly on the murder charge.

CHARLES FIELDS, burglary; released on probation over the objection of the state's attorney and the complaining witness. Fields was granted probation on a previous occasion.

ARTHUR STRANC and ZIGMUND MOLL, burglary and larceny; released on probation over the protest of Prosecutor Homer Dodge. The probation reports showed previous records.

JOE MENA, receiving stolen property; released on probation over the objection of Prosecutor Dodge. He had previously been tried for murder.

OTHING BROUN, granted probation in the same case with Mena. His record showed he had previously served a three months' sentence for carrying a revolver.

In the case of Strano and Moll the following colloquy took place between the judge and Prosecutor Dodge:

JUDGE KELLY—I'm utterly indifferent as to what the state wants. Your record was made clear when you obtained convictions in these cases and your duty ends there.

MR. DODGE—Your honor knows I haven't been unduly harsh in cases before you, but if you don't want me to, I'll not express my opinion in matters of probation.

JUDGE KELLY—No, you have been most helpful in some instances, but you might speak up for some of these poor unfortunates once in a while.

GARTER KNIGHTS FORGIVE FORMER KAISER AND SON

King George Agrees to Forget "Bygones."

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The knights of the garter have held a secret chapter meeting at the college of heralds to settle another delicate situation arising over an embarrassing tenure of that most noble order.

The knights of the garter rank first among old holders of British decorations. The most ancient and most noble order of the thistle, the most illustrious order of St. Patrick, and the most honorable order of the bath follow in that sequence. Behind them precedence lengthens out through six more.

The garter knights are the immediate and esteemed associates of King George. Their banners hang in the chapel of St. George, Windsor castle, where the royal family worship when in residence there. Award of the order is largely in the hands of the king himself. Abroad it is worn only by kings and emperors.

Mikado a Member.

Among the foreign wearers are all the European kings except Carol of Rumania, Boris III. of Bulgaria, Alexander I. of Jugo-Slavia, and Zog of Albania. The mikado is also a member.

The present difficulty arose out of the obstinate action of former Emperor Wilhelm II. and his heir, the former German crown price, in retaining possession of the baubles which signified their membership in the knighthood, conferred upon them by Victoria. These include a gold collar weighing 30 ounces, the star and the garter itself, worn on the left calf just below the knee.

When war broke out the two cousins, Wilhelm in Germany, and George in Britain, broke off personal relations. Wilhelm and his son were struck off the rolls of the order, and their banners were removed from the chapel.

The German emperor on his part dispatched his chief staff officer on Aug. 5, 1914, to the British naval and military attachés in Berlin carrying two large uniform cases. One contained that of an admiral in the British fleet, another that of a British field marshal. They were delivered with the curt explanation that the kaiser could no longer wear the uniforms of his "traitorous allies of Waterloo." They were duly brought back to London.

King Wants to Forget.

Now it is reported that the king wishes to forget old quarrels. This is the reason given for the chapter meeting. It was attended by the duke of Connaught, uncle of both George and Wilhelm, and the senior knight of the order.

Besides him the bishop of Oxford, chancellor of the garter; the earl of Lonsdale; the dean of Windsor, who as registrar has the keeping of the knights' standards, and the registrar of the college of heralds, were present.

The meeting was called to reconsider the decision of 1914. Events at Lausanne and indications that German war guilt will ultimately be erased from the treaty of Versailles influenced the chapter to decide on wiping the slate clean. It recommended that the two names be reinserted in the roster, and their banners returned to the chapel.

But here another difficulty arises. Knights of the Garter do not sit in the pews at St. George's, but in stalls, their standards hanging above. Until recently all these stalls were occupied. One was left vacant last month by the death of former King Manuel of Portugal. Therefore, there is no room for both the fallen German royalty, and their banners will merely be hung somewhere inside the church.

Turkish Dictator in Line.

The empty place, rumors in London reliably report, will be filled for the first time by a son of the people. At present only one man ranking lower than a baron wears the order's famous four-inch wide blue ribbon. That is Sir Austen Chamberlain, former cabinet member. The new selection is reported to be the Ghazi Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Turkish dictator. Highly placed diplomatic sources state that a recent feeler from London had gratifying results in Ankara.

The order is not inherited, and on the bearer's death the insignia reverts to its owner, the British throne. It would therefore remain in Turkey only during Kemal's lifetime.

Two significant recognitions from Britain have already disposed of preliminaries. In 1930 the British Mediterranean fleet visited Kemal in the first call upon a former enemy after the peace. A few months ago the British government gave the ghazi, who had defeated combined forces of the empire at Gallipoli, the official history of the war in the Dardanelles inscribed to "a great commander, a noble adversary and generous friend."

The prince of Wales or another of the king's sons, all knights of the garter, will carry the insignia to Turkey for the investiture before the end of the year, it is creditably reported.

POLICE BULLETS FLY AT MOTORIST; CROWDS IN PANIC

Carlton Hines, 24 years old, a visitor from Rochester, Minn., was slightly wounded early this morning when he was struck by a police bullet fired at a hit-run driver at the crowded intersection of Broadway and Lawrence avenue.

Scores of men and women being discharged from nearby theaters and the Aragon ballroom ran for cover at the shooting. The neighborhood was blocked for nearly half an hour by the crowd remaining.

Vernon Hoppe, 25 years old, of 2741 Carmen avenue, was arrested as the original cause of the disturbance. He says he is athletic director of Welles park playgrounds. He was driving west in Lawrence avenue when in front of the Aragon ballroom he veered to the left and struck the eastbound car of Charles W. Johnson, 5033 North Ashland avenue.

Policeman James Hennely of the Summerdale station tried to halt Hoppe, but the latter ignored the order and Hennely fired at him. Policeman Theodore Lubeck of the detective bureau also fired. One of their bullets grased the leg of Hines, who had just arrived in town a half hour before. Hoppe was caught a short distance away and booked for reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

COUPLE ROBBED OF $2,876.

Isaac Safier, owner of a shirtwaist concern at 3238 Madison street, and his wife were held up early yesterday at the door of their apartment, 3713 Arthington street. Two men took $76 from Safier and jewelry valued at $2,500 from his wife.

HITLER SUMMONS AIDS TO MAP NEW DRIVE FOR POWER

Meet Tuesday to Launch Nazi Comeback.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Political maneuvering to determine the composition of Germany's next government was deadlocked today as the result of President Paul von Hindenburg's dramatic refusal yesterday to invest Adolf Hitler, whose National Socialist party is the strongest in the reich, with complete power.

Hitler, who left Berlin immediately after his fruitless interview with the old field marshal, remained aloof from the political arena pending a meeting tomorrow of his closest advisers to launch his next move.

Hitler to Preside.

In addition to the outstanding members of the Nazi party, the lesser leaders also will attend this meeting. These will include hundreds of Nazi members of federal, state, and local parliaments.

The gathering, which will take place in Berlin, probably will last two days. Hitler will return from Munich to preside.

The nation today was on the brink of it knew not what, but the people accepted the potentially dangerous situation with German calm and sturdiness. It was a sunshiny Sunday throughout almost all Germany and millions of persons took their ease on the beaches, dropping for the time being their political hates.

Hitler Leaves Loophole.

The calm of today contrasted with the bloody Sundays of past weeks, with numerous political clashes piling up long casualty lists.

The newspaper Lokal Anzeiger reported today that in his discussions yesterday with President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Franz von Papen, Hitler left a loophole for solution of the political dilemma. According to this story, Hitler did not demand entire power for himself, but instead asked only that he be accorded "leadership."

On the basis of this report it was pointed out that the Nazis, the Centrists, and their respective allies might form a coalition government after the new reichstag convenes at the end of the month. Such a coalition would be able to command 354 votes out of the 607 in the chamber.

There was no indication, however, that Chancellor von Papen had altered his announced plan of going before the reichstag with his present government and daring the members to unseat him.

If he carries out that plan he will defy 586 votes, including those of the Nazis, Nationalists, Socialists, Centrists, Bavarians, and communists, leaving the government at best only twenty-one upholders. Such a vote of nonconfidence would be one of the most blistering repudiations ever received by any chancellor.

In the last few days there has been some talk abroad about a possible Nazi "march on Berlin" scheduled for this Sunday. The fact that these reports were groundless was proved when harassed Berlin residents stampeded to get away from the city's almost unbearable heat.

BOY INJURED BY DYNAMITE CAPS.

Coldwater, Mich., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Robert K., son of Hector Mastagh, wealthy farmer at Homer, was hurled through the side of his father's barn late yesterday when two dynamite caps which the child was playing with exploded. Robert lost a finger from each hand and all finger nails.

FIRST WORLD JEWISH CONFERENCE ATTACKS HITLER'S MOVEMENT

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's national socialist movement in Germany was the cause of considerable concern to leaders of the first world Jewish conference, which convened today with nineteen countries represented. The Hitler movement was attacked as anti-semitic.

Two American delegates—Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the American Jewish congress, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York—condemned anti-semitism as a relic of barbarism. Repeating his declaration made at the Washington, D. C., Jewish congress, Rabbi Wise said: "We believe that Schiller and Leasing more truly express the soul of Germany than Hitler and Goebbels."

CHILE ABOLISHES UNEMPLOYMENT; 150,000 ON JOBS

Remainder Classed as Professional Beggars.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 14.—Socialist Chile has solved its jobless problem. Unemployment has been officially abolished by the government. A statement issued from the presidential palace of Carlos G. Davila declared that "work, food and shelter had been found for the 150,000 surplus unemployed" and that the government refused to recognize the claims of others who, it said, were only professional beggars.

The government indicated that there was no further need for private charity, as it was the duty of a socialist regime to care for all destitute and unemployed. The statement also said there was no need for any one in the republic to roam the streets.

"Our relief plan embraces everybody who is in need of assistance," the document said.

Abundant Credit Supplied.

It pointed out that unemployment had been eliminated by supplying economic activities with abundant credit at low rates of interest. The central bank had been authorized to issue 400,000,000 pesos (about $50,000,000) in "discount notes" to revive agriculture, mining and industry. The number of unemployed allotted to each industry has been stipulated. As a result of this new issue of paper money everybody was provided with a job, the government insists.

Therefore, Chileans who refuse to work under the official scheme will be classed as "willful unemployed." They have been deprived of the right to free food or other assistance provided by the state.

With Chile's jobless problem "solved," the social revolutionaries have turned their attention to future elections. They are determined that the voters shall turn out 100 per cent at the elections for the next congress.

Punishable by Fine.

A new law imposes a fine of $5 for those who neglect their civic duty —"due registration of a free and unfettered vote" for the first election of the socialistic republic.

The edict lays down a period of one month for the compilation of the new electoral registrants. The person whose name appears on the roll and fails to go to the polling booth on the first Sunday in October will be handed over to the courts. Should the offense be repeated at any subsequent election it will be punishable by imprisonment.

A preamble to the law says that the government is tired of electoral apathy and is determined that voters shall be forced to take an interest in the political development of their country.

"A fundamental point in the structure of a socialist and democratic government," it adds, "is that the governors of the people should be elected by the whole and not a section of the electorate."

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE.

MOVE TO DEPORT APRISTA LEADER DEFEATED IN PERU

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A motion requesting that Victor Raul Haya de Latorre, leader of the Aprista opposition party, be deported was defeated in the assembly last night.

The Aprista leader is held in the national penitentiary as a result of his political activities. The motion that he be deported was presented by members of his party, who asserted he was on a hunger strike.

Majority Deputy Hoyos Osores, who was director general of prisons when the Aprista leader was jailed, said Haya had made a deposition setting forth his gratitude for the good treatment he was receiving.

IMPERIAL PARLEY NEARS END; HUNT FOR AGREEMENT

Canada and Britain Strive for Common Ground.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 14.—Some high speed carpentering and joining must be done at Ottawa during the next three days if the imperial economic conference, which is scheduled to close Thursday, is to complete the jigsaw puzzle which will represent its findings and agreements.

Canada and Great Britain are still struggling to reach some common ground and at the last minute Australia which it was thought had come into line with Britain has put in further demands which the British do not think they can meet.

The Australian demands are, however, more theoretical than real. They want a substantial preference on beef as well as the monopoly which they have in mutton. They have no beef at present for export of the quality required, but they hope to have it in the future.

Canadian Situation More Serious.

The Canadian situation is regarded as more serious, for both Britain and Canada face political as well as economic questions. Each government is asking the other to risk its political existence at home and each in the opinion of the other is not offering enough to justify the political risk.

Stated briefly, Canada is asking the British government to tax food. The cry, "Your food will cost you more," has lost two elections for the British Conservative party and is likely to lose many more. Britain is asking Canada for free or preferential access to her markets for British manufactures.

Canadian manufactures, however, are highly developed and Prime Minister Bennett depends for his support on the industrial provinces of Canada. More than that he depends for Canada's national revenue on them. Of the eleven provinces of Canada, The two industrial provinces, Quebec and Ontario, are carrying practically the whole burden of federal finance. If Bennett offends them by giving too much away to British industrialists, Canada goes broke.

Has Cabinet Trouble.

Parallel with this and partly consequent on it is Bennett's difficulty inside his cabinet over the suggestion that British exporters should have the right of appeal to the Canadian tariff board which has been authorized but not yet constituted. This, the Canadian industrialists say, means allowing Britian to interfere in a purely domestic Canadian affair.

The Canadians are also annoyed at what they call an attempt to rush them into premature decisions. The British insist that the conference end on Thursday and announce that they are sailing for home on Saturday. The final struggle is expected to take place tomorrow when Bennett and Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation, meet.

CLEANING PLANT BOMBED; LAID TO SLASH OF PRICES

Damage of $500 was done by a dynamite bomb which was exploded at the front of the Checker Cleaners, 7411 Cottage Grove avenue, last night. The blast aroused the neighborhood and shattered scores of windows near by. On Saturday night another cleaning shop, the Lincoln Cleaners and Dyers at 7046 Ogden avenue, Berwyn, was damaged by a bomb.

Lewis Williams of 6828 St. Lawrence avenue, one of the owners of the Checker Cleaners, which operates 31 branches, told police that the Cottage Grove avenue shop was opened only last week. He said that the Checker Cleaners operated as independents and on an open shop basis. The chain has been doing work at less cost than the organized shops.

Williams also said that racketeers warned him a year ago about price cutting. At that time, he said, he complained to the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office. Having received no threats recently, he said, he made no further reports to the prosecutor's office.

FRANCE DOUBTS PEACE TALK, WILL KEEP VIGILANT

Herriot Answers Hoover and Stimson Speeches.

METZ, France, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Herriot replied in forceful terms today to President Hoover's speech of acceptance and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's address on the Kellogg Briand peace pact.

EDOUARD HERRIOT
Acme Photo.

At the opening of the Moselle canal he declared that while France was on the side of peace she must be forever vigilant because she still was confronted with "appeals to violence and "eulogies of war."

Doubts War Outlawed.

"We hear the voices of friends who assure us that war has been forever exorcised," he said in reference to the American pronouncements. "We would like to believe them and without delay associate ourselves with their optimism.

"It is easier to conceive in a country practically inviolate than on this soil so often torn up. Despite the most solemn engagements, despite the Briand-Kellogg pact which Secretary Stimson recently commented on in such elevated terms, we perceive also appeals to violence and eulogies of war which we should be able to think had been stilled forever.

Wise to Keep Eye Open.

"People of wisdom are both pacific and vigilant. President Hoover insisted on the necessity of maintaining the land and naval forces at a level high enough so that no foreign soldier could penetrate her soil.

"Firm in her wish to develop all the works of peace. Anxious to participate in all sincere efforts, but guaranteed against any impudence by the cruel memory of the past, all France models herself on a city which preserves its soul faithfully from any soiling—a soul which has not ceased to furnish an example of independence in dignity."

AROUND EUROPE— AIR RACE DRAWS 61 PLANES, ACES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Europe's crack airmen will take off next Sunday from Tempelhof airdrome competing in the continent's leading air event, the "Europa Rundflug." Seven countries, including the United States, have 61 planes entered in this annual race over a 4,600 mile course. Only sport planes may compete, there being two classes, heavy and light.

The race is divided into three stages, each stage covering approximately 1,500 miles. The laps are Berlin to Rome, Aug. 21-22; Rome to Paris, Aug. 23-24; the 25th is a rest period, and the last lap is Paris to Berlin, Aug. 26-27. None of the laps is on a direct lines, but swings to the intermediate principal cities to extend the distance.

The single American entry is a Monocoupe 110, manned by Capt. Hubert and Lieut. Papana, both of the Rumanian Royal air force. Fritz Morsik, who won the race in 1929 and 1930, heads the German entry of 32 machines. Two prominent Italians, A. Colombo and F. Lombardi, will fly the the new type Breda machines. Two women are entered, Fraulein Elli Beinhorn, popular German aviatrix, and Miss Spooner, Britisher. Fraulein Beinhorn has just completed a world tour in a tiny plane. In the race she will pilot a Heinkel two seater, capable of 153 miles per hour.

Leave for West

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Rosamond and Gifford Pinchot II., niece and nephew of Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, are on their way to Nevada to obtain divorces from their respective mates, their friends learned today.

Society was surprised to learn that Gifford had decided to free himself of the former Janine Voisin, daughter of a French automobile magnate. At the same time Rosamond agreed she had enough of William Gaston, young playboy lawyer. Brother and sister slipped out of town quietly Saturday.

At the apartment of Gifford Pinchot II., the French wife admitted that her husband left.

"Yes," she said, "my husband and his sister have gone west. I really couldn't say whether my husband will apply for a divorce while he is there or not. We have discussed it but it has not been finally decided. For the present both of them will visit on a ranch."

LICENSE CHIEF DEFENDS GARAGE FEE PROPOSALS

Fred Fischman, superintendent of the city license bureau, yesterday said the city's loss would not be great under a proposed amendment to fix a maximum fee for garages at $350 and increase their gasoline storage exemption to 3,000 gallons. The present storage exemption is 1,000 gallons and the garage fee is paid on a basis of $1 for each car capacity.

"There are only nine garages in Chicago with a capacity greater than 350 cars," said Mr. Fischman.

FRANCE ACTS TO SMASH BRETON AUTONOMY MOVE

Police Alarmed; Find Well Organized Machine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RENNES, France, Aug. 14.—Convoked last night by the government, a veritable war council, attended by an imposing array of surete generale inspectors, judicial authorities and local police officials, was in session here until early this morning to draw up plans to fight the Breton autonomist movement.

The movement sprang into prominence last Sunday when the monument commemorating Brittany's union with France was bombed and wrecked on the 400th anniversary of the annexation. A week of police investigations disclosed the movement as not merely the pastime of a handful of fanatic separatists, but a well organized machine, which threatens to grow to disquieting proportions.

Police Are Involved.

It is reported that some police functionaries are involved, having taken part in the spread of autonomist propaganda.

The inquiry already has spread far beyond the mere tracing of activities. Six men are now in jail here charged with the bombing. The war council was convoked to organize methods for suppression of separatism. The attorney general postponed his vacation to attend the meeting and advise the legal angle of the fight on the movement.

Findings Are Guarded.

The findings of the police are strictly guarded and the information obtained from the six arrested men, one of whom is Pierre Lerroux, editor of the Breton autonomist paper, Breiz Atou, has not been divulged.

In this connection, however, the police are known to be considerably troubled. The alleged bombers made complete confessions following their arrest, but suddenly about-faced two days later and denied everything. Rennes police are now interested in the source of the order to retract the confessions.

THREE HELD FOR ROBBERY.

Coldwater, Mich., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Leo Doll, 29, Frank and Clifford Granger, 26 and 22, residents here, are held by Jackson police following robbery of Mrs. Fannie Ryan and Peggy Dalton of Jackson late Friday night at the point of a shot gun. Doll, according to police, has confessed.

FIVE U. S. YOUTHS CRASH CASTLE IN SPAIN; ARRESTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SEVILLE, Spain, Aug. 14.—Robert Adams, 22 of Chicago and John Thurston, 22, of Evanston, Ill., today unwittingly strayed into the aftermath of Spain's royalist rebellion and into Seville's jail.

Accompanied by three friends, they landed from an American Export liner at Cadiz and came to see Seville, which was the scene of Gen. José Sanjurjo's attempt to revive the prestige of generals last Thursday. While sightseeing in the gardens of the historic Alcazar castle, once Alfonso's stopping place, they broke down a gate which was locked to see what was behind it. It led to the apartment of the republican dignitary, custodian of the royal properties, who had just been named a member of the commission to investigate the responsibility for the Sanjurjo rebellion.

Forty policemen, scenting an attempt on the official's life, rushed the five Americans and trundled them off to jail, where they are spending the night. The American consulate will be consulted in the morning. The other three members of the sightseeing party were William Nelson of Glenwood, Ia.; Robert Renochle and Edward Marshall, both of New York.

John Thurston, is a son of Earle Thurston, 1228 Monroe street, Evanston, an official of the Illinois Bell Telephone company. He is a Northwestern university student, and a member of the new senior class. Robert Adams, the Chicagoan mentioned in the dispatch, could not be identified locally last night.

RABER TO QUIZ BAIN'S SON ON 'DEFENSE FUND'

State Charges "Steal" in $40,000 Transaction.

A "$40,000 steal," as Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber terms it, is expected to play a prominent part today in his cross-examination of John H. Bain regarding the crash last summer of the bank chain headed by the witness' father, John Bain, south parks commissioner and ex-plumber.

The elder Bain, with his sons, John H. and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, are on trial for conspiracy. Judge John M. O'Connor is hearing the case without a jury. Today will be the third which the younger Bain has spent on the witness stand.

The transaction which Prosecutor Raber calls a "steal" was the sale of a second mortgage on the Montgomery Ward building at 79th and Halsted streets by the elder Bain to John Bain, Inc. Bain had purchased the equity in the property from William McAskill, a contractor, for $5,000. Bank records show that the $40,000 second mortgage sale was arranged on May 28, 1931, and that Bain collected the final payment for the junior lien on June 8, the day before his banks closed.

Receipt Signed by Son.

The receipt for the money was signed, however, in McAskill's name by John H. Bain. Prosecutor Raber has charged that the mortgage deal was concocted after the banks failed to cover up an outright abstraction of funds by the elder Bain.

Charles H. Meacham, an official of the Bain organization, testified for the prosecution that John H. Bain told him that John Bain was going to sell the mortgage. Meacham testified that he made out the checks to the elder Bain at the direction of the son.

John Bain and his son asserted in their defense testimony, however, that Meacham handled the whole transaction. McAskill testified that a month after the banks closed, John H. Bain asked him to sign receipts to replace those on which the younger Bain had signed his name. James Gammonly, personal bookkeeper for John Bain, testified that he got the $20,000 final payment on the deal at 5:30 p. m. on June 8, locked it in a file case and gave the key to John H. Bain. Later, he said, he looked in the file case and found that the money had been removed.

A $40,000 Defense Fund?

Prosecutor Raber said yesterday that he would ask John H. Bain if at that early date the Bains did not anticipate their indictment and trial on charges growing out of the then impending bank failures, and if the $40,000 fund was not set aside for the purpose of financing their defense.

Although the defense has some 60 witnesses yet to be called, Attorney Francis X. Busch said that he expected to close the testimony by Friday noon. Final arguments, starting next week, will probably consume two or three days. Judge O'Connor is expected then to take the case under advisement and give his finding after reviewing the transcript of evidence, comprising more than a million words of testimony and thousands of documents.

WATCHMAN IS FOUND DEAD.

FEES PAID 'EXPERTS' DROP 61 PER CENT IN FIRST HALF OF 1932

The city's payments to "experts" fell off 61 per cent during the first six months of this year, compared with the amounts paid them out of the city treasury during the corresponding period of 1931, City Controller Szymczak announced yesterday.

For three of the first six months of last year the city administration was in charge of a former Republican mayor. In those three months the city paid out $332,310, or 77 per cent of the total of $430,316 for the first six months. Also, a large portion of the payments made in a fourth month was for bills contracted under the former mayor.

A comparison of the amounts paid out by months for the two years follows:

Month.	1931.	1932.
January	$ 31,115	$ 4,027
February	113,675	30,501
March	187,520	55,009
April	33,125	23,583
May	36,347	19,724
June	32,534	31,784
	$430,316	$166,318

The controller gave out the figures coincident with the submission to the city council of the voucher list for June, 1932, showing payments of $31,784, some of which was paid on bills contracted in prior years.

Members of the council commented on the payment of $885 to A. A. Norton, stenographer, some of which was for services rendered last year. The aldermen said economy could be exercised here, since the city has hundreds of stenographers who could record the minutes of the council committee meetings as well as an outsider.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR WHITE SLAVE INVESTIGATION

Miss Ruth Clark, alias Fox, 27 years old, was held by Chicago avenue police last night for federal investigation as to whether she is engaged in the white slave traffic. She will be turned over to government authorities today.

Miss Clark was arrested Saturday because of the suspicions of two sisters, Irene and Florence Brizzolara, 23 and 21 years old, respectively, of 14 East Chestnut street, nieces of Attorney John A. Brizzolara of the same address.

On Saturday, Miss Clark called at the Brizzolara home, and offered the sisters employment as hostesses in a chain dress shop near the University of Wisconsin at Madison. Their pay would be $20 or $25 a week, she said. Suspicious, Irene left her sister alone with the visitor and went upstairs to telephone the Chicago offices of the dress shop chain. She learned that Miss Clark was not connected with it. Irene notified police, and Sergts Harry John and George Brady arrested Miss Clark. She refused to talk.

Police said that she was arrested once at Wausau, Wis., for pandering and once at Aurora for larceny. They said they suspected her of being a member of a white slave ring which transported Chicago girls into Wisconsin.

SPANISH POLICE FIGHT MOB IN ECHO OF REVOLT

SEVILLE, Spain, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Today's outstanding echo of last week's monarchist revolt was a revolutionary party demonstration against the Socialist majority of congress, which was accused of "offering cover to many monarchists." The police dispersed the manifestants without casualties.

ARMED DEPUTIES RIDE TRUCKS IN FARMER STRIKE

Iowans Picket All Roads; Predict Price Rise.

Le Mars, Iowa, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Armed deputies rode produce trucks into this western Iowa town today as the midwest farm strike entered its second week.

The strike, sponsored by Milo Reno, president of the Iowa Farmers' union, has met with its most popular support in marketing centers.

All highways leading to the city are being picketed by the embattled farmers bent upon boosting prices by withholding produce from the market.

One dairyman was manhandled Thursday and a truck load of milk he was taking to market was dumped out. Numerous other truckers have been halted and forced to return to farms with their produce.

Reno today termed the strike a success and issued a call to farmer's representatives in virtually all midwestern states to attend a meeting in Des Moines tomorrow for the purpose of extending the "selling holiday."

He claims that already farmers of western Iowa are being offered better prices and credits a ten cent advance in hog values to the movement.

*THE VERDICT OF SCIENCE

This is to certify that in 75 repeated tests made of four leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette by the Calorimeter method . . . it was shown that OLD GOLD is from 112 to 156 B. T. U's. COOLER than the other brands. Careful measurement of the heat of the smoke further confirmed the fact that the smoke of OLD GOLD is definitely cooler.

IT'S PRETTY hard to duck away from those tireless cigarette ads. Wherever you go, they're apt to float right up alongside of you and whisper their coaxing claim:

"Mine's Milder!" "Fresher!" "Kinder!"

But how about listening to some scientific facts, instead of adjectives?

In 75 laboratory tests* of 4 leading cigarettes checked by scientists of two universities, OLD GOLD was found to be the coolest cigarette, and therefore the most delightful in every way.

OLD GOLD won these tests because it is made of the PUREST and choicest tobacco . . . free of all heat-generating flavorings. That's the "why" of "not a cough in a carload." The "why" of OLD GOLD'S greater taste appeal and throat-ease.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A BILLION TO SAVE.

The chief task of the next congress is the drastic reduction of federal expenditure and its corollary the reduction of the federal tax burden. There will be no illusions as to the difficulty of this task in the mind of any one who has observed the workings of our politics. Almost every cut will be resisted, most of them plausibly, and as to many of the most substantial and expedient the resistance will be powerfully supported by organized, if minority, sentiment. The influences which have gradually built up federal agencies, and, in a staggering total, federal expenditures, will fight for their retention, and there can be no doubt that they will largely prevail unless the demand for economy has been organized and concentrated to the limit of political efficiency.

In a recent article Arthur Sears Henning presented to readers of THE TRIBUNE a list of expenditures which can be eliminated without the least encroachment upon the proper and essential functions of the federal government. They total over a billion dollars. Many of these retrenchments will be resisted by powerful political influences, as, for example, the reduction of unjustifiable veterans' benefits, now swollen to nearly half a billion dollars annually; federal aid for highway construction, superfluous navy yards and army posts, and unnecessary public buildings. There are scores of lesser items for which there will be active logrolling and which seem in themselves plausible objects of federal activity. But in the aggregate they account for hundreds of millions of the taxpayers' money. In times of prosperity they have been disregarded, but the nation can no longer afford to carry them.

The lesson of Mr. Henning's list is that if we are to have tax relief sweeping retrenchment must be accomplished all along the line of federal expenditure. The federal government must be restored to its constitutional field and restricted rigidly to its essential functions. The government beneficiaries must live on available income as citizens are compelled to do, and there is no income for indulgence in luxuries. The socialist minded do not concede this, but the American people are realizing it and their representatives at Washington must be given an unmistakable mandate if we are to escape the fate of governments and peoples whose bankruptcy through inordinate public expenditure has shaken the economic structure of the world.

MR. STIMSON ON THE AIR.

The implications of our secretary of state's address on the Kellogg-Briand treaty were so certain to offend Japan that we must assume that he was prepared to accept such consequences as will emerge from that utterance, although the first excitement has moderated. Such of the American public as are interested in our international relations in a practical sense may not share Mr. Stimson's willingness. Some of these at least, and we confess to being of their number, would prefer that the secretary of state had selected another occasion and another recipient of his admonition than Japan, a nation of formidable power, having important relations with us, and committed to a course of policy offensive, it would seem, to the present government at Washington, but regarded at Tokio as of vital concern to the welfare of Japan.

Japan is in Manchuria and we may suppose does not propose to get out because she lacks the blessing of Mr. Stimson. Her government, we are confident, does not share his estimate of the epochal results of the Kellogg-Briand treaty nor his implications from that estimate. Mr. Stimson declares that war, or, in other words, the use of military force, "has become illegal throughout practically the entire world" and "is no longer believed to be the source and subject of rights." But Tokio will not greatly fear that Mr. Stimson will gain much support among the governments of the great powers for a doctrine which would discredit their title to the territory taken from the defeated nations in the late war, to the German possessions in Africa and the Pacific, to the Polish corridor, to Trieste, Fiume, and the Tyrol, etc. It is true these were taken before war became illegal, but after all a treaty which by Mr. Stimson's hypothesis is to be made effectual by the "combined weight of the opinion of the entire world" can hardly be limited by a merely legal distinction. If there is such foundation in the conscience of the world as will sustain and effectuate the treaty of Paris, the acquisitions of the victors in the late war are sadly lacking in moral support and certainly must embarrass the governments upon which Mr. Stimson must rely for rendering the Japanese acquisitions untenable.

But, whatever the fate of Mr. Stimson's ardent expectations may be, we can be certain of one thing and that is that the relations of the United States and Japan have entered another period of strain and perhaps dangerous friction. If Americans regard experience at all they will realize that it is under such gradual and accumulating irritations that wars are made, and they will not permit idealistic aspirations to obscure practical probabilities. They will also understand that American policy, or at any rate the conduct of our foreign affairs by our government at this time, has placed us athwart the cherished ambitions and purposes of a powerful nation, a nation which does not share our government's zeal for altruistic experiment, but is bent upon making the utmost use of every opportunity to advance what it profoundly cherishes for the profit and progress of its own people.

And, parallel with this realization, they will, if they are wise, consider the fact that, as our intervention in Asiatic affairs develops, another activity of our diplomacy is progressively weakening our means of making our policy effectual or our rights and interests respected. We think such a course must inevitably produce disaster. The American people are not wise if they allow this consideration to be disregarded or postponed because of Mr. Stimson's somewhat premature announcement of the arrival of an era from which war has been forever banished by the "combined weight of the opinion of the entire world."

THE ILLINOIS MINE SETTLEMENT.

The settlement of the wage negotiations in the Illinois coal fields is welcome even though it means a reduction in wages to miners from a basic rate of $6.10 a day to $5 a day. Five dollars is better than nothing for the miners and for all those dependent on them.

The result of the voting on the proposed scale will never be known. The union officials who favored the wage reduction say the tally sheets were stolen as they were being brought to union headquarters. The opposition to the settlement within the union regards this story as a mere pretext for overruling the will of the rank and file.

Whatever the vote may have been, no one who views the outcome impartially can doubt that the union would have been destroyed if the settlement had not been accepted. The vote must have been close, as early returns indicated. If the number favoring the reduction was not a majority it was close to it. Union loyalty and discipline can swing a reluctant 20 per cent, perhaps; but in this instance the two sides were nearly equally divided. It would have been as impossible to maintain a strike under such circumstances as it has been impossible to enforce prohibition against a large body of men and women determined to defeat the purposes of the law.

There is a lesson in the Illinois coal settlement for other industries. Not fifteen years ago the miners' union was on top. The union leaders mistakenly supposed that as they could force the mine operators to raise wages so the mine operators could force consumers of coal to pay higher prices. The union had a strangle hold on the employers and thought the employers had a strangle hold on the consumers. How far wrong this assumption was has been demonstrated by subsequent events. The consumers found substitutes not only for Illinois coal but even for nonunion coal. At the same time the high price of coal encouraged inventors to find ways of burning coal more efficiently, so that less of it was needed despite increases in power output. It may be safely predicted that any other union which undertakes to dictate destructive terms to an industry will suffer the same misfortune.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.

The President no doubt will be interested to note that British editors generally put aside his effort at sincerity in the acceptance speech. As the London Times remarks, "After all, this is an election address intended primarily to influence American votes and there is no need to examine it too closely in any other light."

Considering that Mr. Hoover began by saying that he proposed "to speak so simply and clearly that every man and woman in the United States that may hear or read my words cannot misunderstand," the comment of the Times is rather a gem of concentrated insult. Mr. Hoover himself would agree that his words were intended to "influence American votes," but what the Times implies is that his words need not be taken "too seriously" for what Mr. Hoover really means or intends. An honest man, even in public life and seeking office, uses words to influence votes, but not by using words which do not mean what he means.

What this British comment suggests, besides bad manners and a quite insolent contempt for the President's assertion of sincerity, is, we think, wishful thinking. Mr. Hoover's remarks on cancellation and protection they would like to interpret in the Pickwickian sense.

Editorial of the Day

THE UNITED STATES AND EMPIRE TRADE.

[The Ottawa Journal.]

Writing in the Baltimore Evening Sun, Mr. Carroll Binder, well known United States journalist, endeavors to show that Canada's desire for empire preferences has been born of determination to retaliate against the trade policy of the United States. Mr. Binder, we think, misjudges the position. There is no planned or deliberate attempt on Canada's part to injure United States trade; such a policy would be extremely foolish. What does exist, however, is a conviction that the United States market cannot be depended upon, that the United States does not wish to trade with Canada, and that, consequently, it is up to Canada to seek markets elsewhere. Putting the matter another way, Canada's position is simply that she has to have markets, and that if she cannot find them in the United States then her task must be to find them somewhere else, preferably in the British empire. It is not a question of being anti-American; it is a question of being pro-Canadian.

Just why the United States does not want to trade with Canada and is apparently indifferent to trade with the British empire we cannot tell. It certainly cannot be because Canada and the British empire aren't good customers of the United States.

Canada's purchases from the United States are not as great now as in some past years, notably in 1929 and 1930. But they are still on a vast scale, and the United States' favorable balance is still important. Moreover, American trade relations with the British empire as a whole are so favorable it is difficult to understand why Washington should not be anxious to maintain them. Thus, last year the United States sold about 41 per cent of its total exports to British empire countries, while it only bought about 28 per cent of its imports from the empire.

Selling 984 millions' worth of its goods to the empire and buying therefrom only 591 millions, the United States had a favorable trade balance with the empire of nearly 400 millions.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By R.C.

MARKET LETTER.

RESPONSE to the revival of our market letters was so uniformly enthusiastic that the series will be continued, at least for the present. One appreciative follower writes: "Your helpful advice was just what I needed. I had been accustomed to buying on the rallies and selling on the dips, just contrary to your counsel, and therefore lost. I tried your system four days ago and have used no other since."

Another reader, whose crass ignorance of affairs financial hardly can be understood, writes: "You say to buy on the dips and sell on the rallies. That is all right, but how can one tell when it is a dip and when it is a rally?" The Wake-Line would like to explain this in detail, but thinks it unfair to others looking for advice to fill this limited space with such obvious differentiation.

Meanwhile, stocks on the bourse continued their sensational rise, reaching new highs on the present movement. Whether or not the initial buying movement originated in Europe on strength of the dollar after our bankers told France "Take back your gold," it extended to waiting investors here. Socks not in the wash came from their hiding places as stocks, some of them under suspicion of being in the "wash," were placed on the selling line. Hoarded currency, no doubt, was thus a factor in cash purchases.

Prominent in the advance were rubber issues, which had been tired so long. Their stretch of activity, following long continued punctures, was based not only on the premise of future demands for products but also on the premise that rising prices for crude would erase inventory losses previously charged off to capital fabric, and thus repair the damage of such blowouts. Goodyear and Goodrich were conspicuous examples.

Motor stocks likewise were in high gear, synchromeshing and free wheeling over the floating bodies of former holders, who could not endure the jars on margined holdings. This appreciation looks to the wishes rather than present orders of future customers. Repossessed cars still are greater than repossessed stocks, but easier riding is promised by the more optimistic engineers. Auburn, Chrysler, General Motors, and Nash took Prosperity Hill without shifting.

A. T. & T., long a slack wire performer, regained its place up among the tent poles, where so few remained above the $100 par value vendue price. Its high tension produced much better feeling among the station to station investment calls and gave stability when flashes indicated that perhaps the market was moving too fast.

Radio, as a sound issue, made its first noise for some time, while Paramount-Publix and Loew's, known as squawkies because of the moans of their holders, were something to talk about again. Unless there is a smoke screen as well as other screen behind this duo, they might go farther. On the other hand, beware of at least temporary fadeouts after this exciting rising curtain.

The Wake-Line still advises against risking savings or trust funds in margined purchases. "Better be safe than sorry." For investment, we think it the part of discretion to "buy on the dips" if you can find the dipper. In such case, look out for too much "water."

GEORGE ROGERS CLARK.

("The Hero of Vincennes.")

Clark, the old warrior, weary of hard campaigns,
Sat in his cabin, waiting his final sleep.
"One who has sown surely at last will reap"—
Proudly he spoke, conning his princely gains;
And yet not his—all for his country won—
Prairies and hills, forests and inland seas!
Thrilled as he dreamed, under the mighty trees.
He gave God thanks; yet fate had left him lone,
Sick and in need—he of the conquering hand!
Now he was old—had he lived all in vain?
Would they forget, they who should throng this land,
What he had borne—poverty, grief, and pain?
Thus, in his cabin, yearning for fair renown,
Brooded the Scout, as his life's sun went down.

KEEPING COOL IN HOT WEATHER.

WHAT are the facts about the advisability of using fans in hot weather?

Currents of air are cooling, provided they promote evaporation or throw against the skin air that is cooler than the skin itself. They are pleasant in hot weather if they cause a sensation of coolness or of cooling. Whenever they fail to produce one or more of these effects they may cause discomfort, at least. Therefore, fanning may cause either comfort or discomfort, dependent on the qualities of the circulated air.

One of the most efficient methods by which the body is cooled is the evaporation of sweat. When an ounce of sweat is vaporized it absorbs considerable heat. Most of this comes from the body. If the air driven against the body is very dry it absorbs the maximum amount of water and is therefore cooling and causes a pleasurable sensation. If, on the other hand, it is quite moist, it absorbs very little sweat, and for that reason may not be cooling.

In some fan installations the air is drawn over ice or through a spray of cold water. When there is no artificial ventilation the householder tries for the same effect by flooding the basement floor with water, ventilating the house through that route. In so far as exposure to ice and cold water chills the air the processes mentioned promote comfort. In so far as they humidify the ventilating air they promote discomfort. From the standpoint of hot weather comfort the best place for air to slake its thirst is the human body.

The next consideration is the temperature of the fanned air. In very hot weather the probability is that fans will promote discomfort. On moderately hot days the reverse is true. On a very hot day the chance is good that the air drawn into a room will come from some place where the air is quite warm. Such air will not cool the body, nor feel cool. For instance, a man has come in out of the sun. He picks out a room that feels cool. It has been somewhat protected against the heat. He opens the window and turns on an electric fan. The probability is that the air that comes into the room has been drawn from the sun heated outside, or some reservoir of hot air. The mere fact that a breeze blows strong, or that a fan is driving hard, or that the air is felt to be moving does not make for comfort. The answer to the question, Shall air be circulated? is: That depends on circumstances. If the air is hot and wet blowing it about promotes discomfort. If it is cool and dry it has the opposite effect.

The question is, Where is the line to be drawn in the particular case? For that there is no general answer. Each man carries his own answering apparatus.

DESTRUCTION OF LICE.

Mrs. G. L. writes: I read an inquiry in your column about cleaning the hair of lice. Several years ago blue ointment was recommended to me. This is an old fashioned remedy and inexpensive. It can be bought at any drug store.

ENLARGED LOWER LIP.

H. A. P. writes: 1. What is the cause of the lower lip extending itself downward and causing one to have a very large lower lip?

2. Is there any way in which this condition might be corrected?

REPLY.

1. There is infinite variety in the face pattern. Some people have large, outturning lips. The lower lip, in these cases, tends to sag. This feature is often noted in people of the pituitary type. In this group abnormality of the pituitary is said to be responsible. In acromegaly, another pituitary disorder, the lips are of the type noted. It is also somewhat noticeable in cretinism and myxedema—thyroid disorders. The causes of this lip type, other than these, do not occur to me.

2. Within limitations, surgery might be of service.

OPERATIONS FOR BUNIONS.

Miss K. C. writes: I am suffering from bunions; although I tried everything imaginable, nothing seems to help. A foot specialist tells me the only way to get relief is to have them sawed off. I have consented to have this done. Did you ever hear of sawing them off, and will it leave a stiff joint? Is there any chance of gangrene?

REPLY.

In severe bunions nothing short of an operation suffices to cure. In some cases there is so much enlargement of the bone and so much deformity that it is necessary to cut away some bone. If much is cut away the arch and even the joint may be impaired. Therefore, conservative operations are generally best.

VALUES OF MILKS.

G. W. H. writes: What are the comparative food values of whole milk (not pasteurized), buttermilk, sour milk (curds)?

REPLY.

Whole milk is richest in fats, but is less digestible. Sour milk that has been skimmed is poor in fats, but, being mildly acid, is more digestible. The advantage of buttermilk is that it is mildly acid, and therefore is more easily digested. Buttermilk made by churning is low in fat. In some conditions this is an advantage. In others it is a disadvantage.

BLISTERS ON THE FEET.

R. K. writes: I have blisters all over both my feet. These burst and smart. I get them every summer.

REPLY.

This is probably a skin disease of the foot and goes by the name pompholyx. Behind it there is sometimes ringworm of the feet. Pompholyx can be relieved by soothing salves. Do not empty the blisters early, and leave the dead skin on as long as possible. To prevent: In hot weather go barefooted or wear sandals or very thin open shoes. Dust the inside of your shoes and also your socks with a smooth dusting powder. Use it freely. Keep your feet clean. Wash them in cold water and expose them bare whenever possible. If you have ringworm of the feet have that cured.

VENTILATION.

Chicago.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would appreciate information regarding ventilation in a place where people work all day. I work in a laundry and the steam and heat are enough to kill one that has to work for a living. Is there a law to make the owner put in suction fans? He has one fan, but that has been broken since last winter and he does not seem to care enough to get it fixed. A. C.

"In every factory, mercantile establishment, mill, or workshop, where one or more persons are employed, adequate measures shall be taken for securing and maintaining a reasonable and, as far as possible, equable temperature, consistent with the reasonable requirements of the manufacturing process. 1. No, it was an act of congress adopted after the adoption of the prohibition amendment. A temporary war time prohibition law had previously been in effect.

2. No. Only by their representatives in congress.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUG. 15, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Conferences held today by President Wilson with the representatives of the four big railroad unions and later with the managers' committee of the roads have revived the hope that the general strike on the railroads of the United States may be averted. Further conferences will be held at the White House tomorrow, when the result of the President's efforts will be made known. "I have met both sides and have gone over the case with the utmost frankness," President Wilson said. "I shall be able to judge tomorrow whether we have found a feasible basis for settlement." The question of strike or peace seems to be in the hands of the managers of the railroads. It is based mainly on one issue, according to the best information which can be obtained. That issue is the eight hour day. It is understood that the brotherhoods made it clear to the President and he in turn to the employers that no settlement or arbitration would be considered unless the eight hour day is first granted. If the railroads will grant the eight hour day then the brotherhoods are willing, it is understood, to leave the scale of pay for overtime to arbitration.

PETROGRAD.—Along the Galician front the Russian sweep continues unchecked. The last formidable Austro-German barrier to Lemberg has been broken, and the Teutonic forces are making a general retreat on a ninety mile front in the direction of the Galician capital. The retreat of the Austrians from the Stripa continues, with the Russians pounding the Austrian rear guard. Podgiacy, on the Koropice, has fallen, and General Count von Bothmer's forces are taking up positions on the west bank of the Zlota Lipe, which Russian troops have crossed at several points. Continued gains for the Russians in the Sereth river region also are chronicled in the official Russian statement.

PARIS.—The Italian dreadnaught Leonardo da Vinci caught fire and blew up in the harbor of Taranto, Italy, and 300 of its crew were drowned, says a Turin dispatch to the Petit Journal. The date of the disaster is given only as a day in August.

LONDON.—Counter attacks by the Germans near Poziéres resulted in heavy fighting. The British report says the enemy "gained a temporary footing in a portion of the trenches captured yesterday." The official report from Berlin says the British were driven out of all positions taken. The French troops captured some trenches on the left of the Fay-Deniecourt road in the Somme sector last night, says the war office announcement.

ROME.—Italian troops continue to batter away at the Austrians on the Carso plateau in an effort to clear this territory preparatory to an advance on Triest. The Austrians, although badly defeated at Goritz, still are strong and full of fight.

CHICAGO.—Promptly at 11 o'clock yesterday the chimes of St. James' Roman Catholic church ceased playing and the body of Dr. John B. Murphy, in a flower covered casket, was borne slowly into the church. Three hours later, after the burial chant had been sung in Calvary cemetery by more than twenty priests, the body was laid in the vault of the famed physician's father-in-law, Ambrose Plamondon. Thousands of persons thronged about the church to get a glimpse of the casket as it was carried in.

FEDERAL SUBSIDIES FOR BARBARISM.

Orlando, Fla., Aug. 6.—Inclosed is an editorial from the Orlando Sentinel and also the description of the wanton killing of four prisoners in various prison road camps. I hope this will be the opening gun in a fight to stop the wholesale killings of young prisoners in the road camps, which in themselves are a disgrace to the states of Florida and Georgia. The four killings in a short period caused a shudder even in the newspaper world of Florida.

I am describing the fifth killing in a prison stockade near Orlando several months ago. A poor Negro prisoner was shot to death by a prison captain. The Negro was all trussed up in steel log chains. The man accused of the killing with a .45 steel jacketed bullet found in the Negro's body never denied this, but on examination by the coroner's jury just made the statement that the prisoner was trying to escape. This seems to me to be a preposterous statement, as the Negro, being bound in steel log chains, was evidently trying to escape torture only.

As the clipping shows, in every instance the prisoner was from a state north of the Mason and Dixon line or a Negro. This tends to show the feeling that is still rife in the south for the north.

A statement from a party of prison inspectors states that the living conditions in Florida prison camps are so bad that the whites are housed under conditions, as they put it, not fit for Negroes. This is a harsh statement, but must be true, coming from a Florida prison inspector. Yet we in Florida, Georgia, and Virginia, where prisoners do about 80 per cent of the road work, pay the highest gasoline tax in the country of 7 cents state tax and 1 cent government tax, total 8 cents in Florida, and like amount in the other two states. Our auto licenses are also highest in the country.

I lived from 1925 until 1931 in Virginia, and only one contract was given to a contractor for a small job on which a citizen of Virginia could get work, and that at niggardly wages for 13 hours a day. Yet these states which work the prisoners to compete with a citizen so that he can't get work, are getting millions of dollars United States federal funds for road work. And still these murders of prisoners go on in Florida. I have a clipping from a paper referring to another murder of a Negro in a Georgia prison, and the flogging of another man.

Florida, Georgia, and Virginia should have these federal funds curtailed or cut off altogether under conditions stated in news clippings and editorials. The north should boycott Florida's fruit and tourist season until that state stops killing young boys. ADAM AFFOLTER.

THE POWER OF THE PURSE.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Continuing in its tradition of coloring the news to fit its editorial policies, THE TRIBUNE today again proves that what is sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander.

After having pandered to the demands of Chicago bankers that the board of education cut its budget on pain of receiving no further loans, in today's paper THE TRIBUNE reports that "the field of managerial discretion among railroads was invaded again today by the interstate commerce commission. The commission required as a condition to its approval of a three year $99,200 loan to the Missouri Southern railroad from the Reconstruction Finance corporation that the company agree not to pay its officials more than $10,000 a year during the life of the loan."

The story went on to state another case in which the commission "invaded" railroad management. Surely if the Chicago bankers were justified in their demands in order to secure their loans, the commerce commission shows praiseworthy judgment in doing the same to assure repayment of United States loans to the railroads. MORRIS KAPLAN.

UNSIGHTLY ADVERTISING.

Winnetka, Ill., Aug. 9.—The committee of which I am chairman, feeling that no service will be done either to the Century of Progress Exposition or to the city of Chicago itself by making its highway entrances hideous with billboards, is endeavoring to find a way to discourage the plan of the outdoor advertising associations mentioned in your paper of July 22.

The matter was taken up with officers of the exposition, who stated that they had no power to prevent such practice, although it was deplored, and suggested that we go to the advertisers themselves.

It is obvious that nothing will be gained by appealing to the outdoor advertising associations, who have nothing to sell but advertising, but if we could reach the companies to whom billboard space is being sold it might be possible to convince them that public opinion is not in sympathy with any such plan. There is a large and growing antagonism among the citizens of Illinois towards those who thus destroy the beauty, or in many cases the safety, of our highways with this blatant form of publicity. This antagonism has been plainly shown by the fact that, during the past few months, 12,000 protests have been signed by interested individuals and mailed to those companies whose signs already appear on the roadsides of the state.

I am writing to you to urge that you continue to give publicity to this matter, that people may be awake to the situation.

Mr. H. A. Batten, vice president of N. W. Ayer & Son, in an article in the Atlantic Monthly for July, 1932, entitled "An Advertising Man Looks at Advertising," makes the following statement:

This is what I propose: Let every person who feels himself concerned in this matter make a resolve not to buy any more goods which are advertised in an unseemly or unethical way. No matter how good the product, or how long you have used it, let it remain on your blacklist until such time as the advertiser sees fit to reform. Go to the shopkeeper who sells the goods and tell him what you intend to do. Go to your friends and urge them to do likewise. If enough people would do this—if only a relatively few people would do it—there would be consternation in the enemy's camp. . . . The industrialist builds upon mass production. He must please the public. And if he has reason to suspect that the public does not like his goods, or his method of selling them, he will waste no time in setting matters right.

Our committee, and the many public interest groups in Chicago which are in sympathy with our aims, would like to approach the companies which are contemplating this widespread billboarding in 1933 in the spirit of Mr. Batten's suggestion.

MRS. HOWARD C. PHILLIPS,
Chairman, billboard and roadside committee, Lake Forest Garden club.

TO SPEED THE MAILS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—The postoffice department seems to be overlooking an opportunity to speed up delivery of the mail by not utilizing the services of the motor bus lines. Buses pass the doors of hundreds of postoffices in villages and small towns many times a day on regular schedules, while letters lie in these postoffices sometimes as long as 12 hours awaiting delivery by steam railroad. Train service has been greatly curtailed, especially on branch lines. Communities on these branch lines have seen their mail service gradually deteriorate and are exactly the communities which would benefit most if mail were carried on the buses.

In numerous cases letters if delivered by bus could be in the hands of addressees even before the letters ordinarily would leave the office of origin.

The writer is not connected in any way with the motor bus lines.

FAMOUS CHICAGO CRIME CLEARED AFTER 30 YEARS

Story of the $75,000 P.O. Robbery.

accident, there were at the boarding house her son, Old Mary, a maid of all work; Henry Redline, a clerk on the Illinois Central; Tom, a painter; Golden, a plumber; Jack White, a boilermaker, and a few others whose names I can't recall now. In addition to the roomers, Jimmie Halligan, a houseman for Mr. Hibbard; Clinnin, a coachman for Samuel Allerton, and other servants of the rich, came to Mrs. Dailey's for meals. There were two notables I forgot to mention—George Denby, a prize fighter, and a man named Riley, who later became famous as a three cushion billiard player.

"One of the residents of the rescue home was a girl named Clara, a pretty girl with dark, sorrowful eyes, who at times helped Mrs. Dailey wait upon the table. She was to become a mother and it was well known in the boarding house that Henry Redline was the father. Redline had refused to marry her, although the boys had offered to make up a pool to launch them at housekeeping.

A Quiet Street.

"One day Peter Van Schaack, the wholesale druggist, was sitting on Mr. Hibbard's front porch and we could hear them talking. The street was a quiet one, there being no automobiles, and Mr. Hibbard talked loudly because his hearing was impaired.

"'Peter,' we heard Mr. Hibbard say, 'my boy Billy is the best boy on this street. They are all pretty wild except my boy Billy.' 'I have some good boys, too,' said Mr. Van Schaack.

"Those remarks offended Redline, who turned to Jimmie Halligan, Mr. Hibbard's houseman, and said: 'Listen to your boss talk! It's no trouble to be good when you have all their money.'

"'If money is all you want,' said Golden, the plumber, 'come down to the postoffice where I am doing some repair work on the pipes. Just drill up through the floor and help yourself.' They all laughed at this, but a few days later Golden and Redline appeared at the cashier's office of the postoffice, a temporary brick structure known as the lake front postoffice, which was used while the present federal building was being constructed. It stood on the lake front facing Michigan avenue, near where the Art institute now stands.

Dressed as Workmen.

"Golden and Redline were dressed in workmen's clothes and they carried a kit and a steel tape measure, stolen from the office of C. Dougherty, roadmaster of the Illinois Central. They took careful measurements of the flooring and the corridors, with special reference to the location of the vaults.

"They next started to work under the building, gaining entrance through a trap door in a sort of shed next to the loading platform. Redline was working each day on the road, but when he could get off and at night he worked with Golden, carrying implements from the office to enlarge the tunnels.

"Their first obstacle was the wall of the postoffice proper, which they penetrated. Next they found various tunnels, through some of which they had to crawl, and they made their way to the wall surrounding the vault with great difficulty.

"The weather was hot, for it was the month of August, and they were forced to go out frequently for air. Nevertheless they persisted in their work and after several weeks the brick wall of the vault was broken through.

Visit Allerton Stables.

"About this time the Samuel Allerton family were away at Lake Geneva with their coachman and they offered Jimmie Halligan a few extra dollars to look after the stable for them. Redline and Golden asked Halligan to take them to see the stable, which he did, showing them the fine horses, one being a spanking bay that drove single, the gold and silver trimmed harness, and the well appointed rooms upstairs.

"A few nights later Redline and Golden broke into the stable and took the fine bay, which they hitched to an express wagon that always stood in an alley at the rear of a nearby residence occupied by Ald. Gunther, the candy man. They drove to the postoffice, taking two oat sacks with them.

"No one paid any attention to them, since there were a number of mail wagons around when they tied up the horse and entered through the trap door. Having already broken through the brick wall they drilled through steel plate and concrete of the vault, making an opening large enough for Redline, a little fellow, to enter. Once inside he started to curse, for they reached the vault in which the stamps were kept, instead of the money vault. They quarreled violently, each blaming the other for their stupidity.

Afraid to Stay Longer.

"But they were afraid to stay longer, so they took the stamps, packing them in the oat sacks. They took them to Golden's room and locked them in the clothes closet.

"Clara's baby had been born about ten days prior to this and Mrs. Dailey had secured a room for her nearby, visiting her each evening. Clara sent for me, and when I went there she told me Redline had threatened to kill her and the baby. She wanted me to get a revolver to protect herself, and I took her a .32, which I obtained from a State street pawnshop.

"Redline had been ordered to take an inventory of the equipment at Weldon slip, which was just north of where the breakwater turned east, and in performing this duty he ran across some metal boxes, apparently fire and water proof. The next night he and Golden took the stamps to Weldon slip and put them in the boxes, intending to hide them at some point near the breakwater. They hadn't opened the oat sacks, but they knew from reading the newspapers that the loot was worth $75,000.

Boxes Weigh 400 Pounds.

"At the spot I pointed out near 16th street the breakwater formed a right angle, running north and south and east and west, and the site of the present suburban car barn was then Lake Michigan. They loaded the boxes, the total weight of which was about 400 pounds, in a row boat tied up in the corner of the breakwater. Redline told Golden to go back and lock the door of the Weldon slip store house, and while he was gone some one came from behind a stack of railroad ties. Redline attempted to get out of the boat, but he was shot twice by the stranger. The boat capsized, and Redline, boxes and all, went down.

"All Golden found when he ran to see what the shooting was about, was the overturned boat. A week or so later he disappeared, and both he and Redline were soon forgotten. Golden had employed a diver to recover the loot but he was unsuccessful. That winter the railroad started to fill in some land and put five feet of slag from the South Chicago rolling mills in the water, which was about fifteen feet deep. Later all that section was filled in.

Clara's Baby Dies.

"The years went by and I almost forgot Clara, although for a time I used to keep in touch with her and help with a dollar or so when she needed it. The baby died when about 5 months old.

"Then a few months ago I received a call to go out to the county hospital. I was shown into a room where a middle aged woman was very ill. I didn't know her but she recognized me and called me by name, and when she told me who she was it all came back. We talked for some time about the old days at the boarding house.

"'I know I am about to die, but I don't care,' she said. 'I have kept track of you for thirty years, but never wished to bother you. But now I want to thank you for what you did, and mostly for loaning me the gun I killed Henry with. I am going to see him and my baby soon and I know that when I do and tell him why I shot him he will forgive me.'

"I tried to console her by saying no one would ever have blamed her for shooting Redline, for he had wronged her. But Clara was indignant and she glared at me as if I had deliberately insulted her.

Records Are Destroyed.

"'I didn't kill Henry because he refused to marry me,' she said. 'I killed him because he was a thief. I didn't want my boy to grow up and learn that his father was a thief.'"

The records of the postoffice inspectors are destroyed after ten years, but old timers in the inspectors' offices both here and in Washington remember the $75,000 stamp robbery of thirty years ago, when the robbers tunneled under the building and broke into the vault. A few suspects were arrested, but there were no prosecutions. The stamps, if recovered today, would be taken by the government, but Marlow says that had it been possible to recover them it would have been done a long time ago.

FRACTURES SKULL IN FALL.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—While visiting with friends at 1230 North Broadway, Matt Leidgen, 62, 1300 North Market street, fell down a flight of stairs late today. An ambulance took him to County Emergency hospital. He suffered a skull fracture.

FARMER KILLS WIFE WITH RIFLE, ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Worry of Mortgage Foreclosure Given as Cause.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hartford, Wis., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Herbert Pribinow, 47, a farmer on highway 60, two miles west of here, shot and killed his wife, Mary, 41, in the garage on the farm, and then committed suicide with the same rifle today. Pribinow was about to lose the farm he had owned for 15 years through a mortgage foreclosure, authorities were told, and worry over this is believed to have prompted the tragedy.

A 12-year-old daughter, Viola, witnessed the shooting. She told the story of what had happened to Police Chief John Murray of Hartford, Undersheriff Guy Chaplin, and Dr. Gregory Hessman, who were called to the scene by neighbors.

Awaits Wife; Then Fires.

The daughter said she and her mother were preparing to leave for church this morning, and went to the garage to get the automobile. When they opened the garage doors they were surprised to find Mr. Pribinow inside, with a rifle in his hands. Mrs. Pribinow asked him what he intended to do with the rifle, and he answered: "I'm going out to shoot gophers," according to the child.

"Then he pointed the rifle straight at mamma, and shot her twice," the child told the chief.

Two bullets were found in Mrs. Pribinow's body. The one which caused death was just above her heart.

When her mother was shot, the girl ran from the garage and screamed for help, she said. Neighbors attracted by her screams went to the garage.

Shoots Self Through Throat.

They found Pribinow and the wife dead. His body was propped in a sitting position against a wall. He had placed the muzzle of the rifle against his throat and had pulled the trigger by means of a contrivance he had fashioned from scrap iron.

Neighbors told Police Chief Murray of Pribinow's worries concerning financial troubles, and particularly the threatened mortgage foreclosure. They said he had taken to drinking heavily and that quarrels between him and his wife had been frequent of late. They were to have vacated the farm in a month.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 14.—As the congregation was assembling for vespers, a church on Alfortville on the outskirts of Paris was struck by lightning and took fire. It was almost entirely destroyed. The fire was not noticed until some time after the church had been struck, and by then it had a firm hold on the roof timbers.

LONG REFUSES WOMAN AID IN CONGRESS RACE

New Orleans, La., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Being knight errant to one lady politician is enough in one season, figured Huey P. Long, Louisiana's "Kingfish," in turning down a request from Mrs. Theodore G. Bilbo, twice first lady of Mississippi, who has congressional aspirations.

Mindful of Senator Long's success in the election of Mrs. Hattie Caraway to the United States senate from Arkansas, Mrs. Bilbo telegraphed him that she would enter the congressional race as a candidate at large if he would bring his sound trucks and oratory to Mississippi to aid her.

"I have no intentions of going into Mississippi," said the Kingfish today.

AUTO KILLS MAN ON WAY TO BUY LOT IN CEMETERY

Stolen Car Strikes Wagon; One Dead.

Arthur Kaplan, 40 years old, a cigar maker, left his home at 715 North Lawndale avenue yesterday with $80 in his pockets, and started out for the U'Bnei Anshe Luknik Jacob synagogue at 3435 Douglas boulevard.

"I'm going to the synagogue to buy a cemetery lot," he told his brother, Joseph. "I've got the money to pay the rabbi. I picked out the lot last week."

Not far from the synagogue, Kaplan crossed the street in front of 3115 West Roosevelt road. He was struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Rosenberg, 1435 South St. Louis avenue. He was taken to the county hospital where he died late last night.

Motorcycle Rider Killed.

Joseph Pach, 18 years old, of 133d street and Buffalo avenue, Hegewisch, was killed last night and five other persons were injured when he drove his motorcycle into an approaching automobile in Torrence avenue at 146th street. The motorcycle had no lights. Walter Binkowski, also 18, of 13258 Baltimore avenue, riding with Pach, was severely hurt. Mrs. Hannah Northstrom of 636 East 91st street, a passenger in the car, was critically injured and taken to St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond.

Dies in Crash with Wagon.

Marshall Hoyne, 38 years old, of 4935 South Kedvale avenue, was killed early yesterday when he drove a stolen automobile into a wagon at Archer and Hamlin avenues. His companion, Charles Lajzer, 21, of 3049 West 39th place, suffered a skull fracture and was taken to the Bridewell hospital. Harry Mayerhiffer, 1248 South Tripp avenue, driver of the wagon, was not hurt. The car used by Hoyne and Bajzer was stolen Thursday from H. W. Mayer, 111 East 70th street.

These deaths and four others yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll to 718 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Matthew Furlow, 10 years old, of 2940 West Ohio street. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered last Monday when he was run over by a garbage wagon trailer at the rear of his home.

Harry Wimmer, 9 years old, of 1527 Wabansia avenue. Injured Thursday by a truck in front of 1749 North Ashland avenue, and died at St. Mary's hospital. W. B. Mueller, 1714 Wavelland avenue, was the driver.

Mrs. Christena Long, 71 years old, of 1248 Wellington avenue. Died in Martha Washington hospital. She was hit Thursday by the car of Henry H. Schultz, 2146 Grace street, at Lincoln avenue and School street.

William Woodcock, 43 years old, of Bridgeport, Conn., a circus helper. Fatally injured while assisting in the moving of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus from Grant park. He fell off of a motor truck in the outer drive at 8th street and was crushed by another truck which was following.

Fatally Hurt in Crash.

Mrs. William Giese, 67 years old, of 4915 St. Anthony court, was fatally injured yesterday when an automobile in which she was a passenger overturned two miles east of Crystal Lake. She died in the Woodstock hospital. The Giese car was forced into a ditch by another automobile which did not stop.

Edward Lindgren of 718 Lenox avenue, Waukegan, escaped with only minor bruises yesterday when his automobile was wrecked by a North Shore line express train at the Washington street crossing, Waukegan.

Car Rolls; Kills Picnicker.

Max Roanelow, 39 years old, of Lake Villa was killed because an unidentified motorist was too careless in adjusting his automobile brakes. Roanelow and his wife were picnicking near Lenpier, Lake Geneva, Wis. They spread their lunch on the ground and sat down to eat.

Meanwhile the motorist had parked his car on an incline above the couple. Suddenly the automobile started downward. Mrs. Roanelow leaped in time, but her husband was run over. He died later in the Walworth County hospital. The owner of the car, after helping extricate Roanelow, drove away. No one obtained his license number.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

HUNT 2 ROBBERS FREED BY POLICE THROUGH ERROR

Two men, released by mistake at the Deering police station on charges of disorderly conduct a few hours after they had been identified as robbers, were being hunted by the police yesterday. They were Sam Orlando, 30 years old, 250 West 31st street, and Vincent Laguidice, 22 years old, 901 Wolfram street.

They were shown to holdup victims Friday night at the regular showup at the detective bureau. Oscar M. Enger, a driver for the Nathan Fox Tobacco company, 215 West Chicago avenue, pointed them out as the bandits who held him up last Monday in front of 3300 Polk street and took $327.

The prisoners were sent back to Deering station in the patrol wagon of the Chicago Lawn station. The wagon crew was unaware that Orlando and Laguidice had been identified as robbers, and Detective Louis Shaffner of the Deering station, who obtained Enger's signature to complaints charging the pair with robbery, was delayed.

When he got there he found that the two had been booked on charges of disorderly conduct and released on bond. That is the usual custom with prisoners who have appeared at a showup and have not been identified. The pair failed to answer the charges Saturday in the Stockyards court, and their bonds were forfeited.

MRS. F. TROOST, 83, DIES; PIONEER OF FOREST PARK

Mrs. Florence Troost, a Chicagoan for 76 years, died yesterday at the age of 83. Her death was the result of a hip fracture suffered when she fell a month ago in her home at 149 South Harlem avenue in Forest Park. She was the widow of the late Henry Troost, founder of the Concordia Granite works in the western suburb.

Mrs. Troost was born in Belgium. At the age of six she was brought to this country by her parents, who settled in Chicago. Mrs. Emily Armbrust, one of ..ve surviving children and in whose home Mrs. Troost lived, recalled yesterday that her mother frequently entertained the family with tales of Indians who came to the door begging for pennies in the early days.

Her husband started the granite works in Forest Park, where a street is named for him, and where their old home still stands at 940 Troost avenue, after his cooperage business was destroyed in the Chicago fire of 1871.

Kills Self Over Illness and 1929 Stock Losses

He was found by his wife, who told police Brady had been in ill health and despondent over market losses in 1929. Mrs. Brady said she had feared her husband would end his life.

RECONCILIATION DENIED; SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS SELF

Charles Valenta, 50 years old, 1839 South Racine avenue, shot and seriously wounded his estranged wife, Susie, also 50, and then killed himself yesterday. The shooting took place in Mrs. Valenta's home at 1843 Fisk street, after she had refused Valenta's plea for a reconciliation.

Paul Hucko, 1626 South Throop street, a son of Mrs. Valenta by a former marriage, said his mother left Valenta four years ago and refused to return to him because of his drinking. A month ago, Hucko said, his stepfather found him in his mother's home and threatened to kill both of them.

On that occasion, Hucko said, Valenta forced his wife to her knees, saying that he would give her ten minutes to say her prayers. At the end of that time he fired a shot which missed her.

MRS. MARCY OF EVANSTON IS 102 TODAY

One hundred and two candles will glow today on the big birthday cake that celebrates the anniversary of Mrs. Mary D. Marcy, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Kinley, 1327 Lake street, Evanston.

MRS. MARY MARCY. [Toloff Photo.]

George E. Marcy, her son, who for several years has spent much of his time on his ranch in California, has made his annual pilgrimage from the west coast to exchange felicitations with his mother—for today is also his birthday. A grandchild, Mrs. J. Harold Puster, will be on hand, with Mrs. Marcy's great-grandchild, Marcya Puster, to help eat the cake.

Mrs. Marcy was born in 1830 in Worton, near Bath, England. She came to America in 1856, and has lived in Chicago since 1910. It was in that year she came to the city with her husband, William W. Marcy. Her favorite occupation now is reading the Bible and the daily newspapers.

Vera Caspary Pens Story of Jewish Family

Excellent Chronicle Is Set in Chicago.

"Thicker Than Water," by Vera Caspary [Liveright]. Published today.

VERA CASPARY, author of that excellent novel [and best seller of a few years back], "The White Girl," the dramatic and penetrating story of a colored girl who passed for white, has turned her capable pen to the task of portraying a Jewish family living in Chicago.

VERA CASPARY.

"Thicker Than Water" is a family chronicle, covering 46 years of life in the middle west. It could well be the beginning of a saga, and a welcome one, too, because the author has succeeded in capturing the reader's interest and curiosity.

The Pieras are a family of Portuguese Jews, proud, aloof, superior, uncompromisingly snobbish. Rosalia and her brother Saul are the only ones left of this noble family whose ancient traditions and accomplishments are the Lares and Penates of the household. The others have married into other families.

Rosalia is, at 29, an unattractive old maid. Her intellect is the one grace of her character and by its charm and by premeditated flattery she succeeds in marrying Adolph Relsinger, an inferior German Jew, but nevertheless a catch for Rosalia. Melanie, her attractive cousin who has been scorned by Saul, marries an older man whose family lineage is of equal distinction to that of the Pieras. Her brother Saul, now that Rosalia is safely married, follows the inclination of his heart and marries Jennie, a poor but well bred Jewess.

Rosalia, after a few fitful years of married life, finally bears a passionately longed for child, a girl whom she names Beatrice. Melanie is blessed with several children, among whom are twin boys, and Jennie also flaunts proudly her fruitfulness before Rosalia. Rosalia's niece marries a Jew who later turns out to be Polish and that fact throughout life remains a thorn in the flesh of the haughty Pieras.

The story progresses to the next generation, the generation encompassing another era that brings with it new codes, new manners, new ideals. Melanie's son marries a Gentile and Rosalia's daughter also marries a Gentile who becomes fabulously wealthy. The last generation, represented by Beatrice's charming and only child, Rosalia, marries a Russian Jew, a penniless and idealistic artist.

The drama of the family includes in its scope and sweep death, suicide, and love.

If it were necessary to choose the most successful sections of a book that is almost uniformly successful, the reader would no doubt feel that those parts of "Thicker Than Water" devoted to a transcription of the last years in the nineteenth century and the early twentieth were ultimately the most memorable. The understanding of the Jewish family just beginning to be rich and powerful, feeling its way toward unorthodox thinking, becoming a part of the new and vital Chicago, built over after the fire, living by social codes now out of date but strangely noble and appealing, is perhaps, the finest achievement of the book.

This book does not seem to have a beginning nor an end structurally. The reader is only conscious of movement, unrestricted by technical devices. He feels that life was flowing among the Pieras steadily and magnificently before the book began and it will do so after the book has ended. Vera Caspary has for a fleeting moment captured the rush of the stream, has, to change the metaphor, put the mutations of life in a temporary frame.

A final word of praise must be given to the characterization as separate from the other features and intentions of the book. It is rare that a reviewer is permitted to observe dynamic characterization. The portrait of the proud Rosalia slowly changing according to life's demands, giving evidence that life's black splendor has not left her untouched, growing with the years, more mellow, more beautiful, more of a person, is the last and final triumph of a book whose excellence is steady, and it seems unstudied, sure, and real.

By Anna Nangle.

This offering is one of those murder mysteries in which the audience knows who did the dirty work and sits back to watch the police try to find out. With the help, of course, of the customary smart newspaper man.

The chief unraveller for the police is Detective McKinley, played by Victor McLaglen. The blood hound for the press, Russell Kirk, is interpreted by the flippant Edmund Lowe. And the man they finally apprehend is a smooth, gum chewing physician who murders his wife neatly and quietly—concocts an apparently hole proof alibi, as well as thoughtfully providing an innocent man to take the rap. A generous minded soul, he also offers a $5,000 reward for the capture of his wife's slayer.

Likewise involved in this affair are Jack Reed and his wife, played by Ralph Ince and Noel Francis. Miss Francis, incidentally, does some of the best acting in the film.

Frank Marsh [Richard Arlen], an acquaintance of the victim, is suspected of the crime, and were it not for Reporter Kirk's interest in Marsh's sister [Adrienne Ames] the boy would certainly have gone to the electric chair.

The entire cast is competent enough, but there's a limp air about the film as a whole. The dialogue is commonplace, and some of the attempts at humor are nothing short of pitiful.

The complicated action is never gripping or even particularly interesting, and you don't care much who gets blamed for anything.

With apologies for making a bum pun, I might say that this flicker of the flaming title of not so hot!

Mayor Orders City Censors to Prohibit All Gangland Films

In a letter received yesterday by his aid, Henry Sonnenschein, Mayor Cermak issued instructions to have the Chicago motion picture censor board refuse permits to any further films depicting gangster life and adventure. He mentioned specifically one production, "Scarface", as undesirable for exhibition here.

Inquiries to some members of the censor board last night revealed that "Scarface" was barred months ago, because of the lurid nature of the episodes involved, which are based on most of the sensational cases of gang warfare in Chicago in the last several years. It has been shown under another title in other cities.

Story of Great Film Dog Starts in War Dugout

Rin-Tin-Tin Is Found After German Retreat.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Rin-Tin-Tin, most famous of all movie dogs, was given a burial service such as he would have understood and loved, when Lee Duncan, owner and trainer of the dog; Duncan's semi-invalid mother, whom Rin-Tin-Tin idolized above all other humans, and three other friends whose occasional hand pats meant most in life to the great gray black dog, gathered together at Duncan's home on Club View drive, Hollywood, for their last respects to a beloved pal and a great actor.

Duncan himself dug the grave under a spreading white rose bush that was the special pride of Duncan's mother. Tender comrades helped lower the form that had leaped and skulked and trotted through more than a decade of starring pictures.

Duncan said a few words of farewell through misty eyes, and the greatest of all dog actors became a memory and a tradition.

Rin-Tin-Tin died on a studio lot where he had been taken for rehearsals for just one more picture. He was 14 years old at his death. He died h ,pily and unconsciously but near the last his dark eyes beamed affection even through the torture of a heart that sputtered and failed.

Rin-Tin-Tin's memory may not be an inspiration to his successor as an actor, his son, Rin-Tin-Tin II., now two years old, because dogs are not supposed to be capable of such things; but then, the fellows who say dogs do not understand, may be wrong. At any rate, there is plenty of inspiration and sentiment for Lee Duncan and his mother in the career and passing of their comrade.

Duncan found the dog as a puppy a few days old, in a dugout in war torn France where Duncan was a member of the 135th air squadron. The police dog puppy had been abandoned by German troops in their retreat.

"I salvaged the little fellow and through permission of Capt. Otto E. Sandman and Maj. Kneass, then at Bordeaux, was given a pass to bring him home with me," Duncan says.

"I trained him entirely through kindness. He was so quick to learn that teaching him was a pleasure rather than a fatiguing burden. He was tried out and soon became famous on the screen."

The dog's master, who never has been married, but divided his tenderness between the invalid mother and the puppy, made a contract for his services with Warner Brothers, and for years Rin-Tin-Tin was one of the most publicized stars of that studio's silent product.

In his career as an actor, during about 9 years in pictures and 2 years on a country-wide vaudeville tour, Rin-Tin-Tin never earned less than $30,000 in any year, and he often earned as much as $65,000 a year. The total of the dog's earnings as an actor will exceed $500,000. Duncan is reluctant to talk about this, because it is not so much Rin-Tin-Tin's money, as his feats as an actor that signalize his greatness in his master's memory.

The film for which the dog was trying when he died was "Pride of the Legion," an independent production for the Mascot Movie corporation. Rin-Tin-Tin was being understudied at the time of his death by his son, and according to Duncan, "the son has almost the same black eyes and coat as his father, and learns just about as quickly. I have trained him along the same lines."

Duncan says if Rin-Tin-Tin Jr.'s first picture is a success, there will be more later, but no dog can ever equal the great animal under the white rose bush where Duncan's mother goes to sit in the cool of the evening, and weep a little.

New Corsets Remove Fears of Fall Styles

Foundation Garments Are Designed with Skill.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

CAUTIOUS clothes collectors are looking at all the new dresses with a troubled gleam in their eyes . . . at least those who are worried over an accumulation of excess flesh and bulges where there shouldn't be any. It's a self-evident fact, that, in order to wear these lovely clinging new frocks, as well as suits and coats, the summer silhouette of the average clothes hound must either shrink under a spartan diet or rigorous exercise. But if you aren't too plump . . . or if you are merely flabby, lots can be accomplished with some of the new foundation garments.

These cleverly designed corsets, wrap-a-rounds, and all-on-one mergers are about the sleekest, smoothest foundations you can wangle your way into. Some of them are so cleverly made with brocades and elastic sections that every inch of your bulging anatomy is instantly hugged smoothly and slimly into the perfect 1932 silhouette.

This sounds like an impossibility, since the model has no restraining bones, but this smoothness is achieved with intricately cut sections . . . for instance, the important back panel is of brocade that just stretches up and down, the hip slimming side elastic sections obligingly stretch two ways and then always slide to the same position . . . two small triangular sections are inserted, one on each side of your diaphragm, and these two tricky restrainers keep you flat where you should be flat if you would be a slender, willowy figure of fashion.

This model is most unusual in that the elastic and the brocade are both of the same design, the silk brocade looks like the elastic and the patterned elastic looks exactly like the brocade. The well designed uplift brassiere is made of sheer net and lace.

Some new zipper models are worthy of especial notice because the small restraining inside tape is no longer fastened with a bumpy hook and eye . . . this new idea shows a narrow flat piece of elastic that shrinks to nothing under the way of the zipper.

The women's chorus contest of the Chicagoland Music Festival will be held tonight in the gold ballroom of the Drake hotel.

The six organizations in this competition, the winner of which will sing against the out of town women's choruses next Saturday in the Drake, are Cook County Council Glee club, American Legion auxiliary, Cathryne Bennett ensemble, Ladies of Isabella Choral club, Daughters of Isabella, Cecilian Chorus of the South Chicago Y. M. C. A. and the Grieg Ladies' Singing society.

The contest will be broadcast from 8 to 8:15 o'clock through W-G-N.

110 Thousand Will Sing at Big Music Fete

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One hundred and ten thousand persons putting their hearts and voices together into a community sing at Soldiers' field.

The mere statement pretty nearly tells its own story. It is part, and by no means the least important or least dazzling part, of what is on the program of the Chicagoland Music Festival next Saturday night.

For fifteen minutes the program will be turned over to the audience. In this quarter hour a vast assemblage will become not merely passive observers but active participants. One by one, Directors Classold, Bennett, Craven, and Pease will mount the raised platform, lift up a baton tipped with an electric light and conduct the throng through half a dozen of the songs that have become permanently interwoven into the affections of the American people.

Were you ever in the midst of a huge singing crowd, finding that, no matter what you happened to think of your own voice, you were being impelled along, your heart strings were being tugged, until unconsciously and in spite of yourself you found you were singing your listiest with your companions? It is a memorable, a dramatic experience.

Community singing as an essential part of American life goes back to the world war; at least is became general, not to say universal, then. Song leaders sprang up almost overnight, became a vital phase of American life almost as quickly. They were everywhere, in the army, in the navy, in the training camps, in every city and village. Music, song in particular, was immediately recognized as the vital force which it is.

Those who were in Chicago at that time will remember Frederick W. Carberry. He was a brilliant example of the song leaders of that period. He was untiring, he was almost hypnotic in his influence. Wherever a group of people had gathered together, at the theaters, at the movies, at concerts, at speechmaking rallies, there you would find Mr. Carberry on the platform, urging the audience to inspirit their soul with a few moments of song. In less than no time at all he used to have them singing as they never sang before.

Mr. Carberry lives in Milwaukee now, and in recent years he has become blind. But no physical handicap has checked his enthusiasm. Even now he occasionally gets out with groups of people and directs them in song as formerly. His good wishes are extended this week to the Chicagoland Music Festival. Who shall say that his example and that of hundreds and thousands of others of his kind did not have their effect on the great outcome, that he and they did not send America singing to its destiny?

Best of all, their influence was lasting. America sings yet. One of the features of the program next Saturday night will be a friendly warfare of song between the Lions and the Kiwanians. These two highly populous organizations make singing a regular and essential part of all their meetings. It is community singing and it is good singing.

They will sing in contest, and at another time the whole vast audience will sing. It is all part of a program which from start to finish promises to be gigantic, soul stirring drama.

Oconomowoc Has Gay Time at Centennial

Hold Many House Parties Over Week-End.

BY JUDITH CASS.

OCONOMOWOC, that peaceful Wisconsin settlement which at one time boasted a large summer colony of Chicagoans, has just concluded the gayest week-end of its quiet season. Both the summer colonists and the permanent residents had house parties of guests for the celebration of the famous old resort's centennial homecoming, which began on Friday with a parade and closed last night with a Venetian water carnival on beautiful Lac La Belle.

One of the outstanding features of the centennial week-end was the presentation of a summer carnival of the '90's, which revived memories of the days when Oconomowoc was one of the most fashionable resorts of the middle west. The first summer carnival at Oconomowoc was held in 1895 and for many years thereafter it was sponsored by committees of prominent Chicagoans who had summer homes on the lakes in that region. Ferdinand W. Peck, Walter L. Peck, Walter H. Dupee, George A. Seaverns and William Page were among the early summer residents who served on the carnival committees.

Before the days of automobiles, M. H. Tichenor, A. Montgomery Ward, Philip D. Armour, Patrick A. Valentine, and the Dixon clan were known for the beautiful horses and fine stables they owned. The Tichenor estate, facing Lac La Belle, is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. McKee. The old Montgomery Ward home has been sold, but Mr. Ward's daughter, who was Miss Marjorie Ward until her marriage about ten days ago to Robert R. Baker, maintains a large estate on the east shore of the lake in the city of Oconomowoc and spends much of her time there. Her husband also has an Oconomwoc residence. Their marriage, by the way, was as much of a surprise to the members of that colony as it was to their Chicago friends.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine still owns the rambling old house, where, in the days when she was Mrs. Philip D. Armour and later after her marriage to the late Mr. Valentine, she was hostess at the gayest of house parties. Mrs. Valentine loves her Oconomowoc estate and usually opens it for family reunions at Thanksgiving and Christmas time, and for winter house-parties. Mrs. Caroline Kohl, widow of Charles E. Kohl, also keeps her lovely Oconomowoc estate open during part of every year.

Dixons Have Summer Place.

George W. Dixon and his family are still faithful to Oconomowoc as a summer resort, and so are Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Faithorn [Elsie Dixon]. George Dixon Jr. brought John Carson and Fred Smith to his family's summer place for the centennial week-end and the Faithorns had Mr. and Mrs. William Terry as their guests. The Dixons are moving into town on Thursday because Mrs. Stanley Zaring [Marion Dixon], who presides over her father's household, will be occupied with her duties as president of the Service club. She has called a meeting of the board to be held on Friday morning at her Lake Shore drive residence to make further plans for the annual Service club revue to be held in October at the Studebaker theater.

Mrs. Frederick C. Thwaits of Milwaukee also had a large house party over the week-end at Oconomowoc. Her son, J. Earling Fitch, and his bride, the former Jane Wright Anderton, have been visiting her since they returned from France a fortnight ago, and her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Van Alyea, came from Milwaukee with her husband on Friday for the week-end. Dr. O. E. Van Alyea of Chicago joined the group on Saturday.

Most of the Oconomowoc week-enders gathered at the Country club on Saturday night for a Dutch treat dinner dance.

Regatta at Lake Geneva.

The festivities for the visiting yachtmen at Lake Geneva this week for the 35th annual regatta of the Inland Lake Yachting association started with a party last night at which Robert Porter of the Congress club was the host. The first races are to be sailed today, the Class "E" one starting at 9:45 o'clock [Standard time], the Class "C" one at 10:10 o'clock and the Class "A" one at 2:30 this afternoon. The same classes will race at the same time every day during the regatta which ends Friday.

Mrs. Otto Schmidt is giving a buffet supper for the wives of the visitors Thursday night while the men will be guests of her son, Ernst Schmidt, at the commodore's dinner at the Big Foot Country club. Every house on the lake is filled with house guests this week for there are people from Milwaukee, Pistakee Bay, Green Lake, Madison, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Neenah, Oshkosh, and Spring Lake, Mich., as well as from Chicago, at the lake for the regatta. Mrs. A. F. Gartz Jr., is chairman of the ladies' entertainment committee which also includes the following Lake Genevans: Mrs. E. P. Ellwood, Mrs. H. N. Gifford, Mrs. H. S. Hamlin, Mrs. Henry P. Isham, Mrs. Addin P. Kaye, Mrs. John F. Perrigo, Mrs. William N. Pelouze, Mrs. Otto L. Schmidt, Mrs. Clarence W. Sills, Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker, Miss Dorothy Colman, Mrs. Elizabeth Cutter, Miss Gloria Gartz, and some of the Delavan lake summer residents including Mrs. Anson Cameron, Mrs. Emory F. Jaeger, Harry G. Nye and Mrs. Elmer T. Stevens.

Hearing of the petition of Oakleigh Thorne Lewis [Bertha Palmer's husband], to change his name to Oakleigh Lewis Thorne, will be held today in the Superior court at Santa Barbara, Cal. The petition sets forth that he is the grandson of Oakleigh Thorne and a son of Charlotte Thorne [now Mrs. Phillip Chancellor], and the only surviving male issue of the Thorne family.

The change in names is being sought at the request of Mr. Lewis' grandfather in order that the large family

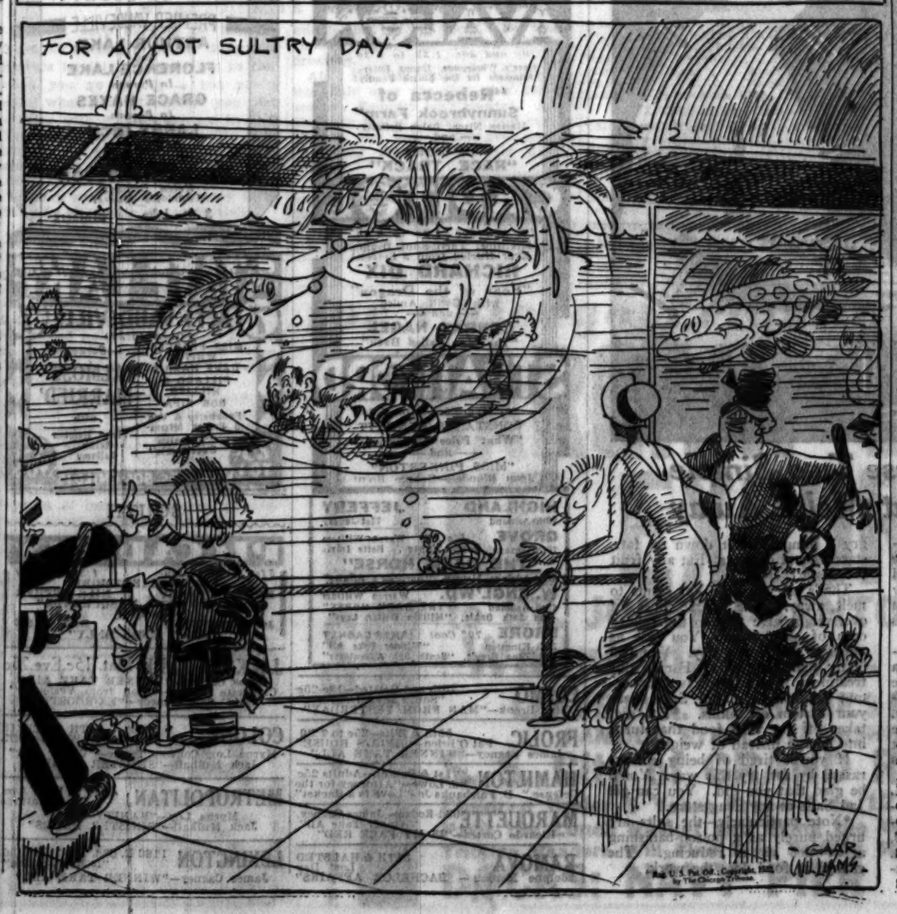
OUR SECRET AMBITION



I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Pierce determines to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of the mercenary Doria. He decides to sail himself. David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal, sails on the same boat. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat. Pierce overhears Gip threatening Gold and, unknown to her, arranges to get Gip third class passage, and from New York sends him to his Texas lumber camp for a six months' try out. Gold accepts Dorrance's offer of a position as his secretary on the Havana trip. She also does some work for Pierce, under Dorrance's instructions.

INSTALLMENT XLIII.

COMPENSATION UNDESIRED.

"You're not afraid of anything in the world, Gold."

"Of lots of things in the world, Doria. I'm afraid of softness, and this lovely warmth, and sun, and luxuries, and rich food, and rich people—of everything whispering to me, 'give your very soul out of your body to hold it all!' I'm afraid of getting soft; of letting this wonderful pleasure—become, that's what it is, Doria, wonderful pleasure—just drench me and sort of take me for its own."

"You're the darndest fool. So, just for that, you won't take my peach beach suit and——"

"I won't take anything from anybody without paying or working for it. But, Doria——"

Doria kissed her cheek.

"Doria, you're a sweet one to have offered; promise me, if you want anything from me and I can give it, you'll ask me, so that I can offer, too."

"And I shall take it, you can bet," said Doria.

Gold got color and life, sunburn, laughter and vitality all in that short coastwise trip. And the ship approached Cuba; approached beautiful Havana through a nearly indigo sea. Overhead the skies were as blue as the blue in Cuba's flag.

"We shall dock in a few minutes," she murmured. "Isn't it beautiful."

As Gold stood at the side entranced with beauty, Barney Pierce stood beside her. As Doria Hathaway placed herself near them, with a half bitter, wondering side glance at Barney, Elverton was at her shoulder.

Barney had made the trip not for love of her but because it suited him to prolong a little longer his conferences with Dorrance.

He had not been at all reluctant to allow her to make that explanation to herself; in fact, to declare that explanation his own incontrovertible way.

What a man! What a brute!

"But, my dear," he had said, dancing with her just once, and once only, last night, "the business is very big business, indeed."

"It's only business then, Barney?"

"My dear girl, what else should it be?"

He was now pointing out the dome of the palace to Gold Franklyn as Elverton was pointing it out to her, who knew it already.

They came into Havana harbor as the time neared sunset. It was one of the slow Cuban sunsets, not one of those sudden mighty ones that are equally beautiful in the grand manner, tremendous, fiery, and dramatic. Lovely carmine came first, melting into rose, into yellows, amber, violet, fading away till all the sky was washed a faint and tender green. Under the sky the sea changed with it. All the pleasure seekers on the Mercuria quietened, enraptured, as the ship sailed slowly past the lighthouse into the harbor. And in the quiet Barney was speaking to the girl beside him, words entirely prosaic and matter-of-fact.

"You've done a great deal of work for me, Miss Franklyn; my side of the work that you certainly would never have been asked to tackle if I hadn't suddenly decided I ought to sail with Dorrance and his lawyer fellow. You've been wonderful, and I'm afraid that, with Dorrance's consent—and I may say that I have his consent—I shall beg to trouble you further when we get ashore, though I could, of course, get myself a temporary secretary there, no doubt."

"Mr. Pierce," she said, trying for indifference, "it is all in the day's work for Mr. Dorrance, and that is how he looks at it, and how I look at it."

"But it's not how I look at it," Barney insisted. "I assure you that I've spoken to Dorrance, and he said——"

"He said: 'A box of candies will meet the case, or a little trinket, or theater tickets.' That is what Mr. Dorrance said to you."

"What makes you think that, Miss Franklyn?"

"Mr. Dorrance told me himself of the kind feeling you had about it, Mr. Pierce. And he asked in his good-natured way what I would prefer, so that he could give you a hint."

"The devil he did!" said Barney Pierce.

"I don't want any of it. Just 'thank you' will do. And I don't really consider I've earned that from you, because I've been working under Mr. Dorrance's instructions. He's my boss. Anything he tells me to do I shall do."

"And I don't count?"

"I'm grateful for your thought, all the same."

"I don't think I want your gratitude, child," said Barney Pierce.

"We shall dock in a few minutes," she murmured. "Isn't it beautiful?"

"I've seen it all before," he answered almost roughly. "Seen and done everything before! It's nothing to me! I want you to listen."

"I'll try to. But I'm busy looking. I'm enchanted—just looking."

"I might spoil it if I go on arguing? Never mind. I shall argue. You really are going into what you think is an enchanted world. There is no more dazzling playground to the newcomer than Cuba. I shall show you some of it." He paused, and went on: "But you're going to meet, through our friend Dorrance, a good many rich fellows with plenty of time for idling about and amusing you. That is why I say here and now that I shall show you the country club, and I shall take you to the yacht club, and the races——"

Her heart beat double time.

"Why?"

"Because," he paused again, "have you forgotten—you said that you remembered—that I like you so much?"

The ship's motion was now hardly perceptible. In the sunset Havana lay basking in unearthly glamour—white buildings flushed, palm trees dark, high-headed monuments standing up as if to welcome the traveler in. Her eyes were filled with the miracle of the first look at this jewel of a city, but her ears heard nothing of the mounting babel round them except Barney's voice.

"I like you so much."

"You mustn't try to make me forget that I am not on holiday; I shall be working," she laughed, cool and steady.

"Your work will be partly making contacts. It will be partly luncheons and entertainments—Dorrance hasn't any other woman with him, and some of his friends have wives here, and daughters. I know what I'm talking about when I say it will be quite in order for me to take you to the races. To the casino. Out riding. For, listen, child, am I not one of the important contacts that as a good secretary you should make?"

"I will do all that I think a conscientious secretary should do."

He smiled grimly.

"I haven't come to my point, which is this: In my opinion a box of candies or even a bracelet is no compensation for your trouble. Besides, doesn't a girl like to spend the money for herself?"

"We're not talking of money."

"We are now talking of money. You will find a checkbook awaiting you tomorrow morning at your hotel—you and Dorrance are at the Almendares, I know—and there will be five hundred dollars to your account at the Chase National bank."

She was less cool and steady, flashing at him:

"Don't you dare, Mr. Pierce!"

"'Dare'!" he repeated, flicking his fingers. "Go on listening, please. You are getting quite a small salary. That Van Toon woman doesn't hesitate to say you need new frocks——"

"You don't imagine that you are going to pay for them!"

"Be quiet. I'm not going to have you running about this tempting and exotic place without a spare cent in your pocket. With money a girl is——"

"Go on. What is a girl if she has money?"

"Safe."

Here're Novel Salads You'll Want to Try

Add Delightful Zest to Summer Meals.

BY MARY MEADE.

The Tribune salad bulletin, including twelve recipes, will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The Tribune's complete salad dressing recipe booklet also will be sent on request.

August days cry for salads. But so did July days, June days, and the delightful May and April days. And with four months down and at least one to go before cooler weather steps in to boost for warmer dishes, this pleasant but responsible problem of thinking up one or two new salads a day is becoming quite an item in menu planning.

So would a few new and almost new salad suggestions help? And if hot days have touched off a spark of artistry in your house and spirited something unusually palate-teasing from the salad bowl—send it in, won't you? We'll pass it on to the rest of the salad hunters.

CANTALOUPE CRADLE SALAD.

Satisfying toasted cheese sandwiches, frosty melon salad, tall glasses of tinkling ginger ale punch, fluffy wedges of lemon chiffon pie—a perfect answer to the old question of "What shall we have for lunch?" To prepare the salad, cut fully ripe cantaloupes in half, remove the seeds and chill. Now with a small ball cutter, scoop out the cantaloupe meat neatly and marinate two hours in French dressing to which has been added one tablespoon of minced fresh mint leaves for every half cup of dressing. Drain the shells and keep cold. Just before serving, line them with crisp sprigs of watercress and pile the melon balls into the depression. Arrange three chilled sections of fresh grapefruit in each melon, radiating from the center. Where their points meet, place half a crême de menthe cherry. Serve very cold.

FISH AND SOUR CREAM SALAD.

This tempting dish is almost a meal in itself. Add a plate of tiny toasted biscuits, a bowl of sliced peaches and summer berries, and a refreshing beverage—and what more could you ask? Finnan haddie is a delicious smoked fish, though salmon or haddock may be used instead.

1½ cups cooked finnan haddie.
1 cup minced celery, apple or cabbage.
½ teaspoon minced onion.
3 tablespoons vinegar.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon mustard.
1 cup evaporated milk.

Blend the fish, onion and celery. Mix the vinegar, mustard, and salt, and slowly beat into the milk. Add this dressing to the salad mixture and chill. Garnish with sliced beets or sliced hard boiled egg.

FROZEN TOMATO MOUSSE.

½ teaspoon allspice.
1 level tablespoon gelatin.
1½ cups heavy cream, whipped stiff.

Simmer the tomatoes, vinegar and seasoning for fifteen minutes and strain carefully. Add the gelatin, which has been soaked five minutes in one-fourth cup of cold water, and stir until dissolved. Cool, and when partly congealed, fold in the cream and turn into a freezer or the tray of a mechanical refrigerator and freeze. Serve on a bed of watercress and garnish with latticed cucumbers. Serve with toasted cheese wafers.

Ticket Sale for Opera at Stadium Will Start Today

Sale of tickets will be started today at the Chicago Stadium, Madison and Wood streets, for the first of a series of operatic performances at popular prices to be given next fall and winter. The first performance is to be given Saturday evening, Oct. 15. Admission will range from 50 cents to $2, and 20,000 seats will be available.

Maurice Frank, who has arranged with Sidney Strotz, general manager of the Stadium corporation, to present the performances, has been successful for a decade in the presentation of opera at popular prices. You Can Lose Fat a Pound a Day on a Full Stomach this way

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating: FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on fats, starches and desserts. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

If Atmosphere Is Goal Visit Villa Venice

Stage Show and Table Are Praised.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Once every summer, to compensate myself for the trip to Europe that I didn't take, I make a nocturnal pilgrimage to the casino of M. Bouché, out where the Milwaukee road jumps the Des Plaines river, and I return with a new polish upon my sense of cosmopolitanism. For the Villa Venice, over which Bouché has presided as host, impresario, landscape gardener and master gourmet for some eleven years, is not merely another roadhouse, devoted chiefly to the banal folk dancing of the American family; it is, rather, a blend of Ziegfeld, Michael Arlen, Brillat-Savarin and the night life de luxe of several European capitals. If you are a searcher for that elusive condiment to life called "atmosphere," here it is, not too far away from your own garage.

As admiral of the Des Plaines river Bouché will supply you with gondolas from Venice and singing helmsmen to chant Neapolitan folksongs for your boat ride through the twilight. As squire of a noble plantation he will escort you over eighteen acres of parkland, where the trees bloom richly with Edison flowers of silvery blue and mellow gold as if every summer night were Christmas eve. After sunset the gardens of M. Bouché are indeed a Jules Guerin decoration.

Then he will take you inside his airy château and invite you to enjoy, in an epicurean way, the varied pleasures of his café-theater. For the table I recommend poulette Bouché, most toothsome of the countless ways of serving chicken, with a magic sauce invented by the host himself, and crêpes Suzette. This little supper will cause you to forget the three star restaurants of the Paris guide books. While soothing the palate with these masterpieces of the cuisine you may feast the eye upon the Bouché revue, which is not merely just another floor show.

There is none of the master of ceremony business. There is none of the helter-skelter, hit or miss capering that is typical of cabaret entertainment. There are no exhortations to give the little girl a hand. Bouché, who is his own stage director, treats his program with a sense of the theatrical arts. The performers have their entrances and exits in an ordered manner, the movements and groupings always have pictorial value, and the dance floor upon which they appear seems an extension of the little curtained stage that serves for the tableaux and finales. There is, it seems, a dash of Max Reinhardt in the Bouché technique.

The[8] performers—twelve principals and eight ballet girls—are a cosmopolitan group. A survey of their origins discovers that six languages, not including the various American dialects of the chorus girls, are spoken in this troupe: Spanish, Portuguese, German, Italian, Javanese, and Finnish.

Princess Yo-Hay-Tong, slender, fantastic exponent of oriental dances, comes from Java, like the famous Mata-Hari; and her occasional partner, who calls himself Khalil Agli, is a migrant from Finland. Their numbers are exotic enough to cause one to feel that he has made a life study of the rhythmic ceremonials of the Dutch East Indies.

The Sisters "G" are a vivid novelty. Until you are told that they are German you think that they have come to life out of ancient Egyptian wall paintings, or maybe that they are twin Salomes, ready to unveil before another Herod. Their dancing, however, is in the modernistic style of contemporary Germany, and the influence of Mary Wigman has touched them.

The crisp, black bobbed little "G" girls are a hit at Villa Venice in all of their numbers. Their name, by the way, is Gutoehrlein—Karla and Elenore.

Another pair of dancing sisters, the Trianas, comes from Mexico. They are soubrettes of temperament and put dashing merriment into the customary Spanish ritual of castanet clinking, heel stamping, and hip shaking.

Then there is some graceful adagio work by Mlle. Audrey and Severin, some nice prima donna caroling by Señorita Curita from Portugal, and some romantic Italian singing by John Giovanni, who has the tenor gift of his racial inheritance. The chorus, whose nudism is sedate although fairly complete, has a graceful and winsome creature named Dolores Gould as its prettiest living picture.

Bouché's revue gives three performances a night, at nine, twelve and in the small hours, with a complete change of program for each show. After Sept. 15 the impresario will transport his revels to his winter casino in Miami.

Homeward bound along Dempster road one may drop into the familiar Lincoln tavern for a view of the dancers who respond to the urgings of Ted Weems' band, and then may stop at the well known Dells for a reunion with Sophie Tucker, now mistress of ceremonies and singing comedienne in that pleasant establishment. The younger set of the north shore suburbs does much of its summer dancing at the Dells, but many of the old timers are making the excursion chiefly to discuss the good old days with Sophie.

Twenty years ago this muse of the popular song began her career in Chicago in a musical comedy called "Louisiana Lou." She has traveled far and wide since then; she has starred in the revues, she has cut a swath in London, she has shouted the battle cry of jazz in the capitals of Europe. She has kept her avoirdupois under control, her voice mellow, and her sense of humor young. She has acquired distinction with the touch of gray in her hair; she has grown better looking with the years, and the old expansive and dynamic power to entertain with gusto are still hers.

The Dells has Gus Arnheim's band of prank playing musicians and several groups of dancing girls on its program. But Sophie, the one woman revue, might be called the whole show.

Best Postpone Wedding Until Fiance Has Job

Two Can't Live as Cheaply as One, Says Doris.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A few girls find themselves in the position of the earner, with the fiancé out of employment for the time being.

Now, it would seem as though one of the fairy tales that is clung to tenaciously is that one about two being able to live more cheaply than one. Frequently the girl who is still employed asks advice about marrying, even though her fiancé is out of work. Probably the two aren't able to go about where entertainment costs anything. She, therefore, thinks that if she has to stay at home she'd better have a husband to keep her company. The men, usually, are not anxious to marry until something brighter in employment outlook appears, but the girls are willing to take the gamble.

It's not wise to marry under the circumstances. Two cannot live more cheaply than one. Too, it is bad business putting the man in the position of a dependent right from the start. He might get to like it. Or, more likely, he'd get to hate the hand that fed him.

Let the man get on his feet again. Let him have some kind of job. It isn't necessary to wait until he has the old salary. But let him enjoy the feeling that he is doing his share toward the home. Once you take that away from a man you destroy his self-respect and you kill something fine in the individual.

So, instead of trying to force the chap into early marriage with your importunities, you girls would do botter to go heavier on your savings. Put more each week into your own savings account. Have in mind using this money some day for and in your home, if you want to. But don't press the marriage day until the man can do his share on the rent.

Sally Is Happy Over Plan for Party at Movie

Hundred Guests to See Marx Brothers.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The Four Marx brothers in "Horsefeathers!" If you saw the four Marx brothers in "The Cocoanuts," "Animal Crackers" or "Monkey Business" this should strike an answering chord. For they are, without doubt, the funniest, craziest group of comedians in the whole of moviedom. And if you've never seen them, there's an opportunity to do so now for that's what we're going to do at our new summer party—go to McVicker's theater on Thursday, Aug. 25.

McVickers has been closed nearly all summer as you probably know but Publix-Balaban and Katz are planning to open it on Aug. 19 with a smash program including the above mentioned jolly quartet in their latest picture. They'd like to celebrate the big event by having one hundred of you at a party there. Won't that be fun!

As I told you yesterday I'd like to have as my guests the hundred boys and girls who really enjoy a rip-roaring comedy, those of you who will have as much fun watching these clowns as I expect to have. If you are one of these write and tell me about it. I shall select those who write the best letters.

When you think of what's in store for you at this party, I know you'll be inspired to compose a winning letter.

These comedians plus the ridiculous plot around which "Horsefeathers" is woven make the picture most hilarious and if you'd like to see it with me at McVickers theater on Thursday, Aug. 25, be sure to write and tell me about it. Your letter must reach me no later than next Thursday morning for that's the day on which I shall select my hundred guests.

Each boy and girl must write his or her own letter and in it you may not ask for an invitation for any one else. Only one name should be signed to it and it should include your age. Just address it to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

'Last of Mohicans' Is 'Western' Film, Says N. Y. Attorney

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14.—Harry Carey had a contract with Louis Weiss and Artclass Pictures corporation to star in western films exclusively for that company. But if he didn't play in westerns, which ins Hollywood parlance is understood to mean cowboy films, Carey was allowed to accept other acting jobs.

So along came Nat Levine of Mascot Pictures and gave Carey the starring job as Hawkeye in "Last of the Mohicans," the classic of revolutionary Indian fighting.

Next to reach Harry was a letter from a New York attorney, which read: "As you know, the contract between Carey and Artclass specifically provided that Mr. Carey was not to act in a western picture for any other producer and that in direct violation of the agreement, Mr. Carey did accept employment in a serial known as "Last of the Mohicans" which is a western film."

After receiving the description of James Fenimore Cooper's story of New York colonial adventure as a "western" Mr. Carey engaged Attorney Newton Kendall to convince Mr. Weiss that Cooper wrote in the early 19th century, and that he did not write about the wild west.

Brushes Away Gray Hair, Keeps Permanent Wave

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair. No need to guess or gamble. Get a bottle of Brownatone today—only 50c. Then cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not prove it will actually give your dull, streaked, gray or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen—your money back.

Little Chats About Your Health.

Oldest Profession Brought Down to Date

Pharmacy is called the oldest profession, evidence showing that it extends back to the time of Moses, when the pharmacist was also the physician.

Today both professions are highly specialized and different, yet they are closely allied and interdependent.

As pharmacists we do not encroach upon the physician's work by counter-prescribing and by pushing the sale of medical preparations to the public, which practice tends to eventually send more advanced and difficult cases to the physician for attention.

We simply bring to our chosen profession all the skill and care which a highly skilled staff of specialists can muster.

It is a matter of pride with us that physicians have found our service dependable for more than 80 years.

estate at Millbrook, N. Y., which has been owned by a Thorne for more than 100 years may be passed on to one of the same name.

There seems to be no doubt that the petition will be approved and that the son which was born last week to Bertha Palmer and her husband will be named Birdseye Blakeman Thorne instead of Birdseye Blakeman Lewis.

Henry Faurots Go to Canada.

Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., who's been vacationing in the east for several weeks, returned to Riverside on Saturday morning and started off again at noon with her husband on a fishing trip in northern Canada.

They'll be back in early September in time to get their two little boys, who have been at a camp in Connecticut all summer, ready to return to school. And after that Mrs. Faurot will be spending most of her days in town working with the committee for the St. Luke fashion show, of which she is publicity chairman.

Miss Martha Williams Jenkins is planning to return to her studies at Smith college this fall, but before she leaves she will make her bow to society at a tea to be given by her parents, the Austin Dickinson Jenkins on Sept. 23, at their Hubbard Woods residence. She'll have time, too, to assist at all the other September debut parties for girls who, like herself, must "come out" early in the season so as not to miss any of their classes in eastern schools.

Hubbard Phelps, son of Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps, gave a demonstration of aquaplaning at a water carnival held at Watch Hill, R. I., last week-end for the benefit of the Watch Hill Improvement society. Bradford Shinkle Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford S. Shinkle of St. Louis, appeared with the Chicago boy in the exhibition. Young Mr. Phelps is spending the summer at a camp at Eastford, Conn., but visits his mother at her Rhode Island estate during the week-ends.

Miss Katrina McCormick is traveling in France with Miss Barbara Holmes of New York. Miss McCormick's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Simms, are also vacationing in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell are at Trout Lake, Wis., for a ten day visit with the Charles Arthur Tilts at their summer place there. The Arthur D. Bissells [Margaret Tilt] have been with the latter's parents for several weeks.

Mrs. Frances Beidler is expected to return to Lake Forest this week with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carton of Brussels, Belgium, and their month old daughter. The Cartons came over from Europe in early June and have been staying with Mrs. Beidler at Bass Rocks, Mass.

French Gloves, Shoes and Handbags for Smart Daytime and Evening Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Parisiennes are wearing slip-on and gauntlet gloves for late summer. They wear them made of piqué, net, and crochet with their summer frocks and with suits in kid or suede. The three gloves shown at the top of the sketch are three smart gloves to wear with early fall frocks and suits.

At the extreme left is a beige kid glove trimmed with brown embroidered squares, and held in at the wrist by a brown silk cord. In the center is a white cotton net glove of the slip-on type trimmed with two curved bands of fagoting bordered with folds of net. This glove is tucked at the outside of the wrist. At the right is a black suede glove with a white gauntlet cuff of white suede trimmed with black lines and circles.

Coiffures Are Increasing Their Importance in Autumn Styles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I must keep harping on hair because it's getting to be the thing that matters terribly. It's getting so that when you go to buy a hat you're asked what kind of coiffure you plan to wear with it. It's getting, in fact, that certain of the more skilled hairdressers tell you what kind of hat to wear to set the coiffure off best. And then there's always the hair beauty itself, not outdistanced in beauty value today by silhouette or complexion.

All of this hat tilting business has been good for the hairdressing trade. I wouldn't be surprised if there isn't a little trade promoting scheme on between the two businesses. More power to them if there is. For it doesn't profit a lady much if her hat is a grand hat and she wears it over an unbecoming coiff. Or vice versa, the unbecoming hat over a smart hairdress.

Anyway, when you're planning for the early fall chapeau, remember the companionate marriage idea about coiffure and hat. [The only companionate union, incidentally, recommended.]

The early fall chapeaux show an expanse of hair on one side, as they have been doing all summer. Or there's an unobstructed view of the coiffure in the back lent by the hat.

Heretofore the part on the left side has had the vogue. But rumor has it that the female party is swinging over to the right wing. The part should not be on the left, nor in the middle, but on the right side, where there's more hair for an effective dressing.

Also, I'm told, there is going to be less hair over the face this coming season. Severity isn't wanted. A judiciously placed ringlet or spit curl is allowed, but hair pulled over cheeks and over foreheads is not to be popular.

The hats are going feminine with a vengeance. So that rules out any anti-feminine cut or dressing of hair.

LETTS FALL OUT WITH MINORITIES; HATREDS GROW

Riga Decides to Shake Up School System.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 14.—The Letts and the minority races living in Latvia, who for many years have been held up by the minority organizations of the league of nations as the ideal happy family in Europe, have fallen out.

When the Letts achieved independence after hundreds of years of oppression under Germans and Russians they adopted liberal laws. The minorities were permitted to have their own schools, subsidized by the state, and in Riga, the capital, there are Lettish, German, Russian, Jewish, Lithuanian, Polish, and Estonian schools. In eastern Latvia there are even special schools for the White Russians, bringing the total number of languages taught here up to eight.

Race Hatred Develops.

Instead of promoting friendship among these various races, the schools and their teachers developed race hatred and chauvinism among the pupils.

The press and cultural institutions did more than their share to promote ill feeling among the racial groups. Today each group is organized to get as much money from the state as it can for itself. Bitter quarrels have developed. In their effort to improve this situation the Letts have decided to reorganize the school system.

The minorities particularly object to the rulings that all teachers under 45 years must pass a special examination in the Lettish language; that children entering minority schools may not be taught in any other language than that of their parents, and that the curriculum in minority schools must be adapted to correspond with that of the Lettish schools.

Aim at Imported Teachers.

The first ruling is aimed to eliminate imported teachers brought to Latvia to instill their particular brand of patriotism in the pupils.

The second ruling is aimed against Letts, Jews and other individuals who send their children to the German schools. These, although excellently managed and taught, teach the history of the Baltic and Latvia from the German point of view. The Letts argue that as this part of the world was under German domination for seven centuries the pupils learn very little about Latvia.

The Germans do not feel they are indebted to Latvia. Neither have they any feeling of loyalty to the Latvian government.

The proposed changes in the curriculum of the schools of the minorities is not radical. The Letts demand that the pupils should learn more of their country's geography, history and literature.

INQUEST IN CANAL DEATH.

An inquest will be held today into the death of John Dolecek, 36 years old, of 1510 South Kedvale avenue, whose body was found Saturday in the drainage canal at South Crawford avenue.

RUSSIA SETTLES LONG STANDING FISHERIES DISPUTE WITH JAPAN

MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Another step toward easing relations between soviet Russia and Japan, which have been especially strained by the Manchurian conflict, was taken today when it was announced the dispute over Pacific coast fishing rights had been settled.

Under a special agreement signed yesterday, the soviet government will refrain from auctioning to the highest bidder 330 holdings out of a total of 390 involved in the Russo-Japanese fishing convention of 1928. No action will be taken in regard to these holdings until 1936. This means that Japanese concessionnaires will not be disturbed for four years.

A refutation of reports that soviet Russia was launching a military mobilization in expectation of a clash with Japan was seen today in the fact that the customary summer orders were issued by the revolutionary war council. The usual indefinite furloughs were granted any only youths entering the prescribed age for compulsory military service were called to the colors.

Geraldine Ulmar, Actress and Vocalist, Dies at 70

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Geraldine Ulmar, actress and vocalist, who was born in Boston, Mass., died Saturday. She was 70 years old. Miss Ulmar retired from the stage in 1904 and devoted herself to the teaching of singing. She lived in Merstham, Surrey, England. She made her first stage appearance in 1879 with the Boston Ideal Opera company, remaining with that organization for six years. Subsequently she played Yum Yum in "The Mikado" in New York and in 1887 she made her London debut at the Savoy theater.

CUBS LOSE 2-0, 2-1 BATTLES TO CARDINALS

NO SCANDAL IN DISMISSAL OF HORNSBY: VEECK

Betting, Loans Not Involved, He Says.

Review of testimony presented at the St. Louis hearing and interviews with persons involved last night had developed the following points of interest in the investigation of gambling by Cubs players:

1. That no evidence has been submitted linking present members of the club with horse race betting.
2. That Rogers Hornsby's testimony was conflicting in parts and that it is perplexing that a man making his salary should be forced to borrow $11,350 from players under his charge.

Veeck Denies Bad Check Rumor.

President William Veeck repeated his statement that Hornsby was dismissed for only one reason—a difference of opinion as to how the club should be handled. He insisted neither horse race betting nor financial deals with players influenced his decision to remove Rogers as manager.

"Do you know that Hornsby played the races?" Veeck was asked.

"I have no evidence that he ever made a bet," he replied.

"Is it true that a bookmaker came to you with a rubber check he had received from Hornsby and asked the club to make it good?" a reporter inquired.

"It is positively untrue," Veeck stated. "I never have received a rubber check issued by Hornsby from anybody."

"We let Hornsby go for only one reason, as I have said. If any one wants to print another story, he can go ahead. But he will not be reporting the truth."

Discrepancy in Hornsby's Story.

A study of Hornsby's testimony before Commissioner Landis at St. Louis on Saturday reveals the following discrepancy:

LANDIS—There has been some sort of activity that has resulted in a lot of talk and a lot of accusations and a lot of publicity, all revolving around race track bets. Now, have you made any race track bets this summer?

HORNSBY—No.

Later Mr. Landis asked Hornsby this question—"Have you made a bet on a horse race since 1930? This is 1932. Have you made a bet on a horse race this year?"

Hornsby answered: "Well, I am not going to say whether I have or not."

Hornsby admitted that he had received a check from a man named Smith, a north side bookmaker, for $530 winnings on one day's betting, which was no good.

Investigation yesterday disclosed that a bookmaker by that name operated around Sheridan road near Irving Park up to a year ago. He is said to have gone out of business, having been caught in neighborhood bank crashes.

Ushers Deny Placing Bets.

Hornsby said the rubber check was now in the possession of a Mr. Schwartz. Hornsby testified that Schwartz was responsible for the check because he had recommended Smith to Hornsby as a reliable bookmaker.

There was no evidence identifying Schwartz. Andy Frain, business manager of the Ushers union, reported last night that he had three men of that name in his employ. They are Peter Schwartz, and his sons, Peter Jr., and Earl. All three denied placing bets for Hornsby or any other player.

Commissioner Landis asked Hornsby at the hearing if his bets had been made through an usher or any employé of Wrigley field. Hornsby replied in the negative.

The name of John the Barber was brought into the hearing when Landis

LEAD REDUCED TO HALF GAME OVER PIRATES

Second Duel Ends in Tenth Inning.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—The Cubs will be back home tomorrow, in first place, all right, but sad as a result of a double licking they took this afternoon at the hands of the world champion Cardinals. The first game was dropped, 2 to 0, in nine innings, and the second, 2 to 1, in ten innings.

Two 1931 Texas league pitchers, Tex Carleton and Dizzy Dean, were the conquering heroes. Pat Malone and Guy Bush were the vanquished.

The day's tragedy enabled the idle Pittsburgh Pirates to gain a game, and they now trail the Cubs by half a game. The third place Dodgers also gained a game and now are only two behind the Cubs. There will be three at cutting in Pittsburgh tomorrow, however, for the Pirates play the Dodgers in the only National league contest.

Miracle Catch Ends Opener.

Though the Cubs were well subdued by Carleton during the first seven innings of the opener, they made two brilliant efforts in the eighth and ninth innings, to tie or win. In the ninth with two on base, Manager Grimm hit a drive that was labeled, for at least a double, but Collins made a miracle barehand catch off the wall in right center and carried on to complete a double play which ended the contest.

In that crushing ninth Stephenson singled with one out and went to third on Moore's single to left. Grimm then drove the ball to right center. Just as it was about to hit the wall Collins made a leap and speared the ball with one hand. Stephenson was home and Moore was first to third when the miracle was performed. So Collins had no difficulty relaying the ball to Bottomley for double Moore.

Both Hard to Lose.

The second game was as hard to take as the first in the nature of its termination, for English led off the ninth with a double and the bases subsequently were filled. Also in the tenth Jurges led off with another double. He got to third on a sacrifice but was sunk at the plate, then with runners on second and first, Bottomley made a great play to terminate the Cub offensive for the day.

In the last of the tenth Gelbert singled with Jurges down. Frisch avoided the second out with a foul to Hartnett, but Bottomley singled to right, putting Gelbert on third, whence he scored with the winning run when Orsatti hit the first pitch for a single to right.

FIRST GAME

The Cards made things uncomfortable for Malone in the first inning, although they were held away from the plate. Reese opened with a single to center, but was caught stealing. Hartnett to Jurges. The decision brought such a yelp from Manager Street that he was chased by Umpire Quigley. Gelbert singled to center, but was forced by Frisch, who immediately stole second. Bottomley broke to Stephenson.

In the second inning the Cards broke through with their first run. Orsatti walked and paused while Watkins filed to Herman. Collins doubled off the wall in right center putting Orsatti on third. Cuyler made a nice play to get Mancuso's drive to right center, Orsatti scoring after the catch. Carleton filed to Herman.

First Cub Hit in Fourth.

English registered the first hit off Carleton with one down in the fourth, but immediately sank with Cuyler in a double play. The Cubs in the fifth got a man to third without the aid of a hit. Stephenson was safe on Reese's fumble and moved to second

CURTAIN! 100,000 SEE LAST ACT IN OLYMPIC GAMES

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 14.—The greatest athletic carnival of all, the Olympics of 1932, ended this afternoon with a show of color, ceremony and feeling surpassing even the display which the master tableau showmen of France produced when their turn came in 1924.

ELEANOR HOLM.

With 100,000 people in the stands who were themselves a mass of a thousand summery hues, the horseback athletes of various armies performed the final competitive event of the games, a jumping contest over obstacles set about the infield, and the next two hours were devoted to the presentation of awards. The track and field athletes had received their medals and salutes as they completed their contests, but there remained a number to be distributed to swimmers, oarsmen, boxers, fencers, horsemen, and rifle and pistol marksmen.

Demonstration for Mooney.

A political demonstration for the liberation of Tom Mooney enlivened the last moments of the long spectacle, but did not seriously disturb the occasion. Mooney is serving life in prison for blowing up a number of citizens with a bomb during a preparedness day parade in 1916.

A parade of the colors of 37 nations followed the distribution of the medals and then, at a signal from five trumpeters standing atop the high gate of the stadium, a salute of five guns or bombs crashed out. Baron De Coubetin of France, founder of the modern Olympics, delivered an address which was unintelligible for two reasons: first, that he spoke in French; second, that he blurred his French by crowding the microphone.

The meet died off in a sad, sentimental note of great bueaty as a chorus of 2,000 singers sitting in a block at the closed end of the arena, sent the hundred thousand away with the Hawaiian farewell song, "Aloha," ringing in their ears.

Make Surprise Move.

The song got to the silent spectators who did not fail to drop a tear or two as the music faded into the heart rending strains of taps played by the trumpeters just as the sun vanished and the Olympic flame blinked off. Somebody down below had turned a cock shutting off the gas.

The meet had ended and the athletes had left the lot when four men and two women in track shorts and

Thousands See Record Field Race for Swimming Titles

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The sprint swimmers of Chicagoland boys and girls from a field of 3,000 fought for championships yesterday afternoon at the Lincoln park lagoon. After more than three hours ten earned the gold medals, the awards for speed and endurance.

One hundred and forty-three races comprised the program. Thousands—just how many cannot be determined—watched the swimming tests. The throng came early, packing both sides of the course to capacity. The more spry climbed into the branches of the willow trees. Hundreds of others jammed the stone bridge to the north of the starting barge.

The Illinois Women's Athletic club with two individual championships, won the team trophy with 15 points. The Jewish People's institute was second with 12 points.

All Receive Merit Buttons.

Thousands more undoubtedly would have seen the races, but it was a physical impossibility for more to get a view of the 14 lane course.

All of the swimmers who competed received merit buttons. In addition to the prizes for first place those who finished second were awarded silver medals and third place winners received bronze medals.

Sixteen hundred and forty-two competed for the 100 yard championships. This field of contestants was the largest in the three years that THE TRIBUNE has sponsored the events.

More Than Thousand Boys.

The number of swimmers who reported yesterday morning follows:

BOYS.		GIRLS.
Class A	224	Class A	89
Class B	247	Class B	128
Class C	279	Class C	120
Class D	302	Class D	71
Class E	112	Class E	70
Total	1,164	Total	478

At 10 o'clock when the first of the contestants' numbers were passed out, more than a hundred boys and girls were waiting in line at the Lincoln Park Boat club. The throng continued to arrive, taxing the clerks who sat at five tables and handed out racing numbers and made up the sheets of preliminary events.

Each swimmer was also given a large bag in which his clothes were checked. The girls used the club house, where they were attended by Lincoln park matrons. The clothing of the boys was checked in the hand ball courts. Each swimmer's number corresponded to the number on his bag.

Tribute to Officials.

No other one day sports' event in Chicago draws as many entries. Even the Silver Skates Derbies, which in 1931 had 2,500 racers, has the advantage in that the events are held on two days.

That 1,642 boys and girls competed yesterday is a tribute to the efficiency of the corps of clerks, the judges, trainers, starters, and other officials.

The swimmers were guarded from the time they plunged into the lagoon until they finished the 100 yard course. In the lower age classes many of the boys and girls were taken from the water into the boats manned by the Lincoln park guards. The members of the Red Cross force patrolled the banks.

When 1,400 swam in the tests a year ago it was believed no more could be accommodated. But the cooperation of the members of the Lincoln Park Boat club, the Lincoln park officials with THE TRIBUNE made it possible to set a new record of 1,642 contestants.

Particular credit should be given to Harry Albrect, director of small parks and recreation for Lincoln park. With the advice of Oscar Knop, who had assisted at the first two swims, Mr. Albrecht prepared the course, ordered the placing of the barges and laid out 14 lanes for the swimmers.

SOX BASEBALL SCHOLARS LOSE PAIR, 5-0 AND 9-5

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox baseball school, under the direction of Assistant Professor Johnny Butler, was anything but a howling success yesterday. The day's lesson was restricted mainly to the development of some of the youthful pitchers, but they, as well as some fellows of more experience, were knocked around with such freedom that the sixth place St. Louis Browns found it comparatively easy to attain victory in both halves of a doubleheader. The scores were 5 to 0 and 9 to 6.

The first game found Bill Chamberlain, a southpaw who until recently was loose on the corner lots of Boston, making a noble attempt to prove his worth. He did this impressively for six innings, but no longer. In the seventh a cluster of hits flattened him for two runs, and because Irving Bump Hadley, a Sox alumnus, was doing a five hit job against his former mates the pair of tallies would have been sufficient. But Grant Bowler pitched the ninth, and by way of proving that one rookie was the same as the other the Browns clouted him for three runs.

Gallivan Gets a Lesson.

When the class reassembled for the second lesson of the afternoon, Phil Gallivan, another free lance until recently, was delegated to attempt to beat Sam Gray, one of the Sox's most persistent nemeses. Gray had no important troubles until the decision was safely stowed away, but things happened to Gallivan as well as some others.

Gallivan was excused from school before the third inning was over, partly because of some feeble fielding by Charley English, another pupil. Then Vic Frasier took a hand and was fairly annihilated in the fourth inning. That made room for Paul Gregory, who did right well until his removal, whereupon Bowler came back for another ninth inning jarring.

FIRST GAME

The finish of Chamberlain's delightful performance in the first battle didn't commence until after two batters had been set down in the seventh.

Ferrel doubled to left, and it proved the beginning of the end. Melillo promptly tripled to the right center field score board and Ferrell scored. Schaefin singled past Hayes to count Melillo, after which Levey popped out.

Sox Threaten; That's All.

If there had been a pay off on hits during the first six innings the Sox would have won something. During this time they amassed a total of four safeties against the pair given up by Chamberlain. Two of the first four off Hadley came together in the second, one a single by Appling; the other a double by English. The reason resulted from this outburst was that Appling died stealing before the two bagger happened along. There also were two hits in the third, but they

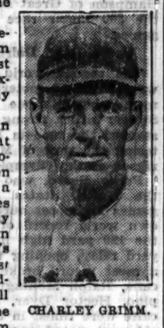
Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago tomorrow has a chance to show its faith or lack of faith in the integrity of the Cubs.



CHARLEY GRIMM.

The team returns today from one of the most turbulent trips experienced by any ball club.

The Boston Braves will be at Wrigley field tomorrow to open the first of a series of games the Cubs will play against eastern teams. Chicago's showing against the eastern invaders probably will determine the place the team will occupy in 1932 baseball. If the fans are as loyal to their National league representatives as this department believes they are, one of the largest week day crowds of the season will attend.

Since the Cubs left their home lot on July 25 they have acquired a new manager and have moved into first place after nearly every one had given them up for lost. More important, they have been the targets of scandalous gambling insinuations.

Charlie Grimm has been at the helm for too brief a period to appraise his managerial worth, but there is every indication he is going to be a success. There has been a spirit and a will to win about the club the last two weeks that was not apparent previous to his appointment.

Judging from letters and telephone calls that have swamped this office, the fans are fed up on unsubstantiated gambling charges. The St. Louis investigation developed no evidence to support accusations that any member of the present Cub squad was betting on horse races.

President William Veeck dismissed the quiz conducted by Commissioner Landis with these remarks:

"We are not concerned about a whitewash for our players. We know the team is honest and that is all that matters. What any other baseball official thinks doesn't concern us in the least."

The attendance and attitude of the crowd tomorrow will show where the public stands.

Whatever else may be said of Hornsby, the Cubs' deposed manager, they can't accuse him of an attack of sour grapes. He was emphatic in his statements exonerating Cub players of any betting deals and predicted they would carry on to a National league championship. And he added. "I hope they do."

It seems to have been Hornsby's lot to be the pivotal figure in many unexplained revolts. The Cardinals under his direction won their first world series pennant. He was paraded through the streets as a civic hero. Before the enthusiasm had cooled he was sent to New York. The Giants, who had yearned for his services, shipped him to Boston after he had led the team through a great victory march during the illness of John McGraw. He replaced the manager of the Braves in mid season. He had a similar experience in Chicago when the late William Wrigley elevated him to a manager's rôle before the completion of his second season as a Cub player.

Probably no man in baseball has had such consistent success and at the same time has had such difficulty holding down a job. Club owners have dropped him as enthusiastically as they hired him.

Nobody can deny his greatness as a player. Judged by his ability to keep his team at or near the top he has been a great manager. But obviously the owners of the Cardinals, Giants, Braves and Cubs didn't think so.

Whether or not Hornsby comes back to baseball, this much is certain—the boys will be talking about him for years to come. Maybe that in itself is evidence of genius.

Another man who had considerable experience, as a leader of men—Napoleon Bonaparte—said: "Better never to have lived than to leave no trace of one's existence."

The victory gave Lott and McKnight the first leg on the new doubles championship bowl. The bowl must be won two years in succession for permanent possession.

Gottfried von Cram Wins German Net Championship

TRACK STAR'S LEGS CRUSHED BENEATH TRAIN

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Byron Heinzel, 25, former Lincoln college and Bradley Tech star, fell beneath a freight train and suffered severely crushed legs today at El Paso, Tex., according to a message received by his mother, Mrs. Annabel Heinzel. He was en route home from the Olympic games. Heinzel qualified in the sectional contests at Chicago, but was not placed on the Olympic team and hitch hiked to Los Angeles for the preliminaries.

Champions, every one of them. These are the girls and boys whose swimming prowess entertained thousands in The Tribune's third annual 100 yard swimming races at Lincoln park yesterday. They are the best of 1,642 competitors in the ten events, five for girls and a like number for boys. Glennette Holmes of East Chicago, Ind., hurried away so quickly after winning the 13 and 14 year old championship for girls that she fails to appear in this gallery of 1932 champions. BY FRENCH LANE.

Almost like a bogie man, Equipoise, the champion of the turf, will come from out of the east within the next few days to disturb the tranquility of Hawthorne's summer racing season.

After scaring out most of the opposition and soundly whipping those which would not remove themselves from his path in two engagements at Saratoga, he comes back to Chicago to try for the Hawthorne Gold Cup. And as far as the western owners are concerned he will be just as welcome as a carload of rattlesnakes.

They don't fancy the idea of having their steeds chase the big horse around the Hawthorne track and some of them still think a good game horse's heart is broken when crushed by his master. So is it any wonder that John Schank and the other Hawthorne officials are becoming a bit alarmed as to how they are going to make a real contest out of the Gold Cup and where they are going to muster a force of sufficient strength to make it interesting for Equipoise in that mile and a quarter contest.

He'll Carry 126 Pounds.

The Gold Cup is a weight for age event. Equipoise and all other horses, 4 years olds and over will carry 126 pounds. Three year olds will pack 120 pounds. Fillies and mares get a three pound allowance. So the best horse wins the Gold Cup making it truly a championship affair.

Equipoise made two starts at Saratoga after his brilliant campaign at Arlington. They were both at weight for age. Only two horses dared face him in each race. He had all but lost them by the time his number was dropped in the winner's slot. And one of his beaten foes was Gusto, the Arlington Classic and American Derby winner, which is bidding for the 3 year old championship with Faireno.

It was the second time this year Equipoise had soundly beaten Gusto, so M. L. Schwartz, the owner of the 3 year old star, probably won't want any of Equipoise's game in the Gold Cup. Faireno has never taken a crack at the big horse. He likes the running strip at Hawthorne, having won a $25,000 handicap there a little more than a week ago. He carried 110 pounds in that race and didn't have an Equipoise to beat. Yet he might try it, even with 120 pounds up, for owners of race horses get queer notions of what their colorbearers can do. That's what makes horse racing.

Mate Is Ready.

Mate is one horse whose owner does not fear Equipoise. He's had one fling at Equipoise this year and failed. He was badly off form at the time. Since then he has been freshened up and his workouts lately show that he is the Mate of old. He will come from Saratoga at about the time Equipoise makes the trip.

Hambletonian Grand Circuit Meet Opens Today

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP)—In this village, celebrated as a harness horse racing center since the revolutionary war, trotters and pacers tomorrow open the five day Grand Circuit meeting, which will reach its peak on Wednesday with the $60,000 Hambletonian stake. A dozen or more of the fastest 3 year old trotters will vie in this richest of harness stakes.

It has been more than seventy-five years since Hambletonian X., grand sire of nearly all of the present line of trotters, was foaled near this historic county seat of Orange county.

The trotters that line up for the first heat of the Hambletonian before a crowd of possibly 20,000 will be the survivors of an original entry list of 591, named as yearlings in May, 1930.

Three days before the race The Marchioness, a filly owned by Mrs. Will Caton of Syracuse, N. Y., and driven by her trainer-husband, shapes up as the favorite. The fleet daughter of Peter Volo has won two of her three 1932 engagements, winding up her pre-Hambletonian campaign with a brilliant victory over Hollyrood Dennis, 2:02, at Hartford last week.

Until his defeat by The Marchioness, Hollyrood Dennis, owned by John L. Dodge of Lexington, was considered the class of the field. He trotted the first heat at Hartford in 2:02¼, after breaking 2:02 in two of his three winning heats at the Buffalo meeting.

Four Illinois Cricket association games were played at Washington park yesterday. The scores follow: Chicago 109, Lincoln 62; International 120, Melbourne 65; Washington Park 147, Pickwick 23; Lake Forest 71, Argyle 59.

British, U. S. Stars Set Two World Marks

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP)—World record time was exceeded in two events, equalled in another, and two other meet records broken as Olympic track athletes of the United States defeated a team from the British Empire, six events to four.

Four Empire half milers were timed in 7 minutes 40.2 seconds in the two mile relay, bettering the world mark of 7 minutes 41.2 made in 1928 by the Boston Athletic association. J. V. Powell, Great Britain, led off, followed by Phil Edwards, Canadian Negro star; A. Wilson of Canada, and Tom Hampson of Great Britain, winner of the 800 meter race at the Olympic games.

Beats Babe Didrikson's Mark.

The second world mark exceeded was in the 80 meter hurdles for women, when Simone Schaller, United States, with a strong wind to aid her, stepped the race in 11.6 seconds, bettering the time of Mildred Babe Didrikson at the Olympic games.

Pency Beard, who took second for the United States in the Olympic games 110 meter hurdles, equalled his own world record of 14.2 seconds in the 120 yard high hurdles. The 400 yard relay, opening track event, saw a meet record broken as the Americans, Ralph Montague, Emmett Toppino, Hector Dyer, and Ralph Metcalfe were timed in 37.5 seconds. The old meet record was 37.8.

Hill Breaks 5,000 Meter Mark.

Ralph Hill of Oregon, who was nosed out by Lauri Lehtinen of Finland in the 5,000 meter Olympic event, ran three miles in 14 minutes 23.3 seconds, breaking the meet record of 14 minutes 35.8 seconds.

Empire milers stepped out to take a surprise victory from the United States in the four mile relay in 17 minutes 39.4 seconds.

In addition to the two-mile and four-mile relays, the empire won the 880 yard relay in 1 minute 26.6 seconds, and the one mile medley relay in 3 minutes 24.9 seconds.

BILL KISER WINS TWO EVENTS AT EVANSTON TRACK

Bill Kiser was the star of the third weekly auto race meeting at the new Evanston motor speedway yesterday. He won a 10 mile heat handily, and took the 30 mile final in a driving finish with Cletus O'Rourke and Virgil Livingood.

O'Rourke beat Livingood twice, winning the first 10 mile elimination with Livingood second. The times made yesterday were several seconds faster than those of last week.

Kiser gave an exhibition of blindfold driving yesterday turning a lap at top speed. He has challenged Joe Russo, blindfold stunt driver, who this spring went around the Indianapolis track blindfold at 80 miles an hour. The race may be held at the Evanston speedway with next Sunday's races.

No Scandal in Hornsby Case, Veeck Insists

was questioning Hornsby about his betting. Hornsby admitted knowing a person of that name. He said this party vouched for the reliability of Smith, the book maker.

"A Town Hall detective gave a clue to the identity of John the Barber yesterday. He ran a barber shop at Sheridan road and Irving Park boulevard two or three years ago but was hit by the depression and closed his shop.

Banker Tells of Note.

Testifying to a $2,000 loan he negotiated on a note signed by Guy Bush, Hornsby said it was made through a Mr. Toptin at a downtown bank. Irving Paplan, an employé of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, 231 South La Salle street, said the loan had been negotiated for the Cub manager at the Personal Loan and Savings bank, Madison and Clark streets. According to Hornsby, Mr. "Toptin" signed the note with Bush.

Cub players yesterday pointed out that the Landis hearing brought out nothing to show that any member of the present squad had bet on the horse races in this or any other season. They express the belief that this lack of incriminating evidence had cleared them of all suspicion of ever having been involved in a gambling scandal.

Manager Charley Grimm was one of those who expressed no surprise at the outcome of the hearing.

"I knew that there couldn't be anything to the stories," he said. "The Cubs are one of the cleanest and most honorable groups of young men with whom I ever associated. Now that they are relieved of the strain of those phoney charges they are going to win the pennant."

Bush Still Indignant.

Bush was scarcely less indignant, though the case in so far as attacks on him were concerned curled up. The story in which it was alleged Bush had been seen in the company of two women outside a bookmakers' shop close to the Cub ball park, was another irritation which lingered with Guy. Landis, in referring to the apparently imaginary episode, described the women as "two ladies known as blondes."

Bush today kept repeating that there wasn't a thing to the whole story and that he wanted the world to know about it. He has been boiling over ever since Landis arrived in Pittsburgh last week.

Mrs. Bush, who is in St. Louis with the team, said she never doubted in the least that Guy was innocent, not only of the charges of association with ladies known as "blondes," but of gambling, too.

Pat Malone and Woody English, who also had made loans to the former manager, were tickled when they were cleared, though not in the least surprised at the flop of the charges.

There was speculation in baseball circles yesterday as to the future activites of Hornsby. Just whether he will be allowed to accept another baseball assignment after his Cub contract expires Dec. 31, 1932, is problematical.

Cubs Lose 2 to Cardinals; Lead Sliced

on Moore's sacrifice. He went to third while Reese was throwing out Grimm. Hartnett then fanned.

In the sixth Jurges opened with a single, and was sacrificed to second by Malone. There he stayed while Herman filed to Watkins and English fanned.

In the seventh Carleton drove in the Cards' second and last run. Watkins singled to left with one down and went to second on a wild pitch. He took third while Herman was throwing out Collins. Mancuso walked. Carleton singled to center, Watkins scoring. Reese walked, filling the bases, but Jurges threw out Gelbert.

Koenig Gets Single.

The first of the two belated Cub rallies developed in the eighth. Hartnett singled in that inning and Hemsley was sent in to run for him. Gudat batted for Jurges and fouled to Mancuso. Mark Koenig made his first appearance as a National leaguer, batting for Malone, and hit Carleton's first pitch to right for a single. Herman forced Koenig, Hemsley advancing to third. English fanned for the second successive time.

Jakie May pitched the eighth and retired the Cards in order, then came the heartbreaking let down in the Cub ninth.

SECOND GAME

Herman started the game with a single to center and stole second. English was called out on strikes and Cuyler and Stephenson went out swinging. In the Card half Bush threw out Reese and Gelbert. Frisch beat out a hit to Jurges, but was caught stealing.

Dean in the second fanned Moore and then Grimm and Hemsley were called out on strikes to make it six in a row. In the Cardinal second Bottomley led off with a single to right. Orsatti followed with a single to center, but Bottomley was caught at third on Moore's throw to English. Orsatti reached second on the throw and went to third on Watkins' fly to Moore. Then Collins fanned.

Dean had two strikes on Jurges toward the enterprise of tying Dazzy Vance's major league record of fanning seven in a row, but Bill thwarted him with a pop to Reese. Bush fouled to Bottomley and Herman filed to Watkins.

Error Leads to Cub Run.

English walked to start the fourth, but was forced on Cuyler's attempt to sacrifice. Cuyler was caught off first by Dean's quick throw and when Kiki sprinted for second base Bottomley threw the ball away, letting Cuyler get to third. Stephenson then doubled to right, scoring Cuyler. Orsatti came in fast to get Moore's fly and Grimm was out, Bottomley to Dean.

Bottomley got his second single with one down in the fourth and took second on a wild pitch. Orsatti singled to right and Bottomley came home with the tying run. Watkins bounced out to Grimm on a close play and Collins was out, Grimm to Bush.

Bush Escapes in Sixth.

Bush waded out of a terrific jam in the sixth. After Gelbert had fanned, Frisch singled, went to second on a passed ball and to third on a wild pitch. Bottomley walked. Orsatti tapped to Herman, who held Frisch on third and threw out the batter. Watkins then bounced out, Grimm to Bush.

English singled with one cut in the sixth. Reese made a nice one handed stab to get Cuyler's grounder and force English at second. Stephenson fouled to Watkins.

Herman singled to center with two out in the eighth for the fourth hit off Dean and was caught stealing.

Bottomley dropped a single in front of Cuyler with two down in the eighth, but Orsatti flied to Cuyler.

English pushed off the ninth with a line double to left center and Dean's first pitch hit Cuyler. Stephenson bunted and forced English at third, Dean to Frisch. Moore popped to Gelbert, but Dean hit Grimm with a pitched ball, filling the bases. Reese then knocked down Hartnett's hot grounder and threw him out.

Jurges Out at Plate.

In the last of the ninth, Watkins bounced out to Grimm, and Collins fanned for the third time. Mancuso doubled over third. The threat ended when Dean popped to Jurges.

Jurges doubled off the distant left field wall to open the tenth. He was sacrificed to third by Bush and then was caught at the plate on Herman's grounder to Frisch. Herman stole second and English walked. Bottomley made a great stop of Cuyler's smash and slid to the bag for the third out.

In the Cards' half of the tenth Reese grounded out to Herman. Then Gelbert shot a single past English. Frisch fouled to Hartnett, but Bottomley singled to center, putting Gelbert on third. Orsatti singled to right, scoring Gelbert with the winning run.

PRICE OF WHEAT HITS SNAG AT END OF WEEK

British Tariff Barrier Rumor Is Factor.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Active trading, with higher prices in all wheat markets of the world, was experienced early in the week, with a sharp decline in the last few days. The finish was at the lowest of the week.

At the top prices in Chicago were up 10c from the season's low. There was a late break of 5c or more from the extreme top, and the week closed with a distrustful feeling at net losses of 2¾@3⅛c as compared with a week ago.

September wheat in Chicago closed at 51⅝@1¼c, December 55⅛@55c, and May 59⅝@59½c. The advance early in the week threw American markets out of line with all others. On Friday cables reported that Canadian, Argentine, and Russian wheats sold in English markets at 59¾c a bushel, or only slightly above the price for December in Chicago.

Wheat Viewed as Lever.

Apparently the wheat market has been used as a lever by which other grains might be advanced to levels which would give the farmers more money, as every cent counts with them. As prices advanced pyramids were built by large speculators, but when outside buying power, which had largely increased, showed signs of falling off bullish enthusiasm waned and a realizing movement started, resulting in a break, which was accelerated at the last by big pyramiders unloading their lines.

A disturbing factor at the close was the rumor that Britain would impose a 6c wheat tariff that would give Canada a 3c differential as an advantage over the United States in selling in English markets. Traders considered that rumor as bearish. A leading operator suggests that England cannot consume all the 400,000,000 bu or more a year that Canada raises and Canada must look elsewhere for disposition of its surplus.

Hedging sales in the American northwest were of moderate volume as compared with receipts.

Federal Report Factor.

The government report decreased the yield of spring wheat about 20,000,000 bu for the month. That, however, had little effect as a market factor. The primary movement continues to be small as compared with recent years. Since July 1 it aggregates practically 58,000,000 bu, as compared with 144,000,000 bu for the same time last year.

Visible supply stocks have decreased for weeks. The total is largely under last year's. Foreign crop news was less favorable, particularly from Russia. Should late reports from there of reduced yields and probable small exportable surplus be confirmed it may have a strengthening influence on other markets. World shipments continue small and supplies on ocean passage to Europe are materially lighter than last year. Should anything happen to necessitate large purchases of American wheat by importing Europe it would be a great help to American and Canadian markets.

Corn Trade Mostly Bearish.

Based on the government report, suggesting 2,820,000,000 bu of corn, or 176,000,000 bu less than indicated in July, there will be plenty of corn. Last year's crop was 2,563,000,000 bu. There are large stocks of old corn in the country. At present that corn is being sold by farmers in Illinois at 23 to 25 cents, their aggregate sales to Chicago buyers for the week being over 2,500,000 bu, and it will be moved in the near future.

Consumptive demand for corn is not heavy, although shipments from Chicago have been large, but it was simply a removal to eastern markets, largely for storage purposes.

Price action of futures was erratic with a bulge following issuance of the government report, and a good break later. At the close net losses for the week were ⅝@1c, except for May, which gained ⅛c net, and closed at 37½c as compared with 32⅞@33c for December and 31⅝@31½c for September. Prices for the week follow:

Oats Lowest in Years.

The lowest prices in years were made on oats in Chicago last week with the close at around the bottom due to hedging pressure exceeding the absorbitive ability of the speculative trade. Receipts were heavy and they may continue for a week or so but the consumptive demand is only fair. Large shipments are being made from Chicago via lake to eastern markets for storage purposes. At the close losses were 1⅛ to 1⅛c. September 16⅝ to 16⅝c, December 19⅛ to 19c, and May 21⅛c. Prices for the week follow:

Act Today on Kreuger Deal in Stockholm

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 14.—Conferences will begin tomorrow in Stockholm, Sweden, among representatives of the Swedish government, United States and French creditors and British security holders of the Swedish Match company to determine the ultimate fate of that company prior to the expiration of the moratorium on Aug. 31.

When the conference convenes it is expected to have the final report of the British auditors, Price, Waterhouse & Co., and the Swedish investigators, upon which to formulate plans and base conclusions. All the interests represented, to which may be joined, if advisable, Swiss and other nationals, are desirous of effecting a prompt reorganization of the company.

J. Wallenberg and B. G. Prytz, leading Swedish finanficiers, and Assar Gabrielsson and other government appointed managers of Swedish Match, are expected to be the principal representatives of their country at the conference. Ferdinand Eberstadt, assistant to Owen D. Young at the Paris reparations conference and present head of F. Eberstadt & Co., New York, will represent the American banking creditors of Swedish Match, seventeen in number. Delegates of other countries are not yet known here.

Purpose of Meeting.

The primary purpose of the meeting will be an endeavor to keep intact the Swedish Match properties, including directly held properties in several foreign countries. The fate of Kreuger & Toll is of no concern at this conference. On the contrary, the placing of the late Ivar Krueger's company into bankruptcy following the enactment of special Swedish bankruptcy laws foreshadows a segregation of the match properties from the banking, telephone, gold mining, real estate, iron ore and other properties of the Kreuger & Toll group.

The fate of the Swedish Match company is a matter of the highest economic and political concern to Sweden. The company is the only one of the three chief Kreuger companies to bear the national name. It is distinctly a matter of national pride to keep the company intact and its products on the world's market. The creditors view it as their interest to adhere to this policy insofar as it is possible to offset the concrete and abstract losses resulting from the Kreuger suicide and the events leading to it.

May Try a Merger.

The next important step will be attempt to gain the assent of International Match interests to a joint reorganization or merger or close affiliation or some sort of operating arrangement. There is no plan at present providing any basis for negotiations to bring about coöperation in one of these degrees, but a representative of the American trustee in bankruptcy for International Match, the Irving Trust company, has been invited to attend the meetings.

In general, the viewpoint from this side of the Atlantic is that the Swedish Match group must set its own house in order and furnish tangible and complete data upon which a reunion of collaboration with International Match can be presented to representatives of creditors, security holders and others at interest. No such data are available but it will be the purpose of the Stockholm meeting to provide information as early as possible.

Bumper Crops May Give Work to Railroad Men

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Railroad officials, anticipating large movements of bumper crops in the west, middle west and south, said they contemplated calling furloughed men back to work. The Pennsylvania railroad said 2,000 employés already have been returned to their jobs and other lines expected to add men as the crop movement started.

WHOLESALE BUSINESS IN CHICAGO DISTRICT BOOMED BY MEETING

Cheering news continued to pervade Chicago and the Middle West last week, the principal beneficiary in actual dollars and cents being the wholesale trade selling to clothing, department, arts and giftwares, jewelry and similar retail outlets, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The increase of twenty-five per cent in the number of buyers at the Interstate Merchants' Council semi-annual buying event sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce was made significant by the relatively large orders the buyers left behind them. In addition to current business advance orders were placed at today's favorable prices in anticipation of autumn and winter increases. Wholesale houses awaited expectantly for a new buying wave of smaller proportions from a group of Texas buyers, due here this week by reason of exceptionally low fares arranged at the last minute by the Chicago Association of Commerce domestic trade and transportation departments.

The wholesale merchants had anticipated an increase but not in the proportions that reached them. They regarded the low point as having been passed five or six weeks ago and had stocked up in hope. Their expectations were exceeded and they will be pressed to accomplish deliveries in the next four weeks and are sure of some activity beyond that time in future orders.

GOLD OUTPUT OF TRANSVAAL SETS A RECORD

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Gold output of the Transvaal in July, amounting to 951,160 ounces, constitutes a new high record for all time, and compares with 959,011 for June, 916,846 for July last year, and with the previous high record of 965,644 reached last May. The seven months' output at 6,666,442 ounces compares with 6,272,720 for the corresponding period in 1931.

Every month this year has shown a substantial increase over last year and last year's record of 10,874,145 ounces should easily be surpassed this year.

RAW MATERIALS SHOW ADVANCES SINCE AUGUST 1

New York, Aug. 14.—Despite intermittent reversals during the last week, nearly every commodity vital to world trade and industry has registered a substantial appreciation in value since the beginning of the current month. In view of the fact that the rally in many of the commodities got under way even before the upturn in securities more than a month ago, this record is considered remarkable.

The roster of the staples which have made this encouraging showing includes cotton, wheat, sugar, copper, coffee, corn, rubber, silver, silk, and hides. Accompanying the advancing prices in nearly all cases has been a substantial increase in the trading volumes on the various exchange specializing in these commodities.

TAX SPENDERS BEAR HEAVILY ON FLAT OWNERS

Large Buildings Are Operated at Loss.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago tax eaters, who number about 46,000, are pressing hard for the last tax dollar from owners of large apartment buildings, according to the Chicago Real Estate board.

The board has tabulated the income and outgo on 15 apartment houses, all three stories high and ranging in size from 12 to 79 flats each. These are apartment structures of the so-called investment class.

The taxes on these buildings averaged $29.52 per room. All of the expenditures for fuel, gas, electricity, water, and insurance totaled only three-fourths as much as the taxes. This tax of $29.52 a room is impossible, under present conditions, according to the owners.

These 15 structures, with 100 per cent occupancy, have annual rentals of $314,408, but there was a loss of 13 per cent, or $56,393, on account of vacancies and tenants unable to pay rentals, so the gross income was only $258,015, and the owners paid out $204,881 before arriving at any interest or principal payments on mortgage loans.

Outgo for Taxes.

This outgo included $48,150.63 for taxes. This was paid on 1,631 rooms of which 293 were vacant.

Up to the point of interest and mortgage principal payments, the data show that these buildings had a net income of $53,133.55. Farther than that the real estate board has not gone in distributing the information through its weekly publication. Real Estate, but it is well known that there are mortgages on practically all of the apartment buildings in this investment class. Al lof that $53,133 went for interest on mortgages, without anything left to make payments on the principal.

Just prior to last March, Harry S. Cutmore and associates appraised 278 Chicago apartment buildings of 14 flats or more, with a total valuation of $18,539,000. In a speech, Mr. Cutmore—who is now chief deputy assessor of Cook county—said that 96 per cent of these apartment buildings had first mortgage loans of 70 per cent or more of their appraised value. He also said that 75 per cent of these buildings had first mortgage loans in excess of their present appraised value.

True of Other Buildings.

It is almost certain that what was true of the 278 buildings appraised by Mr. Cutmore and associates is also

Bond Market Holds Steady During Week

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The steadiness of bonds, in the face of heavy liquidation of stocks, was the feature of the loans market last week.

Wide fluctuations in railroad issues and a sharp drop in the United States treasury group unsettled the list in the brief Saturday session, but substantial recoveries before the noon hour brought a serene if not altogether happy ending.

Market Gains for Month.

The market had advanced, almost without interruption, for a month and a half. The average low for the year of 60 corporate securities was 57.5 on June 1, while the high of 78.1 was established March 10. Last Saturday the average closed at 71.8.

The low priced speculative rails were the stellar performers during the weeks, advances of several points a day in this group being common. The utilities and some of the industrials also were in demand. The spectacular gainers, however, suffered the largest declines when the long expected reaction arrived.

Federal Issues Affected.

The federal section generally was firm until a ruling by Attorney General Mitchell late Friday, to the effect that currency issued by banks against treasury 3¾'s, 3½'s and 3's under the Glass-Borah bill, must be canceled at the end of the three year period stipulated in the act. Treasury issues, consequently dropped, although the Liberties were comparatively steady.

Foreign obligations followed an irregular trend. The Germans were under some pressure, as were the Japanese. Argentine loans recovered substantially while bonds of France, Great Britain and Italy were fairly firm.

MAKER OF CEREAL FOODS BUILDING BIG NEW PLANT

Battle Creek, Aug. 14.—Immediate construction of a major addition to the Kellogg plants here to provide new manufacturing and other facilities as an expression of confidence in the future and to give further immediate employment was announced here by W. K. Kellogg, founder and president of the Kellogg company. Including the new $250,000 plant, factory improvements and additions now under way, represent an investment of more than half a million dollars. The new plant will be designed by Albert Kahn of Detroit, who also planned the Ann J. Kellogg school here. "We have implicit confidence in the soundness of this country and the return to prosperity," said Mr. Kellogg. "Our business is good now and we expect it to get better steadily."

MARKET ACTION IS PUZZLING TO PROPHETS

Business Fails to Match Advances.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 14.—Troubled days have come anew to speculative Wall street. Popular opinion has been scrambled by the stock market's contortions during the last week and for the first time since the big advance got under way back early in July the accredited prophets of the district, except the brokerage house letter writers, find themselves frankly at the crossroads without the semblance of a guidepost. They confess that they have no idea where things are going from here.

Obviously, if the recovery has been predicated solely on hopes of a business revival, as most commenators have been insisting, it is up to business to give some sign of response to the Herculean efforts exerted in its behalf if speculation on its account is to be carried much further, it is submitted. And so far there hasn't been the least discernible stir to signal its appreciation.

Few Gains Shown.

The major indices of business have registered no perceptible improvement in any quarter whatever. Indeed the records show that industrial activity bumped a new low in July about the time the stock market was setting forth to lead the way to Elysian fields, and since that time one of the most important of the accepted gauges of progress—electrical power consumption—has pointed to still lower levels.

The week-end steel reviews tell of a better "inquiry" for steel products, a slight increase in scrap steel prices and a "greater interest displayed in forward requirements," but that is about as far as they let their optimism go. One of the biggest automobile plants of the country is shutting down for three weeks and the sales of other companies are admittedly nothing to crow over.

Sharpest of Year.

Something of these discoveries figured in the sobered comment on the market's abrupt downturn in the last two sessions of the week. The break on Friday was the sharpest of the year, the fifty representative stocks figuring in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S average table suffering a net loss of $4.74. The selling was renewed on a heavy scale in the early trading Saturday, but the bullish forces which have been manipulating prices with such success for the last four weeks gained the upper hand anew toward the last and restored a large percentage of the initial losses in time to true of the 15 flat buildings listed by the Chicago Real Estate board.

The $48,150 taxes on these 15 buildings, at the average tax rate, indicates that their assessed value was $718,660. This is 37 per cent of the full appraised value of the 15 structures, so they had an aggregate value figure of $1,942,000, which gives an average cost per room of $1,191.40. Ninety-six per cent of the rooms, mortgazed for only 70 per cent of their full appraised value, would show mortgages totaling $1,305,000. At 6 per cent the interest would total $78,315 a year. So instead of having a net income of $53,133 on the 15 buildings, there was a probable loss of $25,182. This averages nearly $15 per room, with nothing paid on the principal of any mortgages.

Even with a 20 per cent decrease in real estate taxes, which the committee on public expenditures forecasts for 1931 taxes, these 15 investment buildings would have been $9.25 a room in the hole. That is what the real estate men call "impossible."

Another and a more vivid view of the same situation is as follows: At an appraised value of $1,191 per room the taxes of $29.52 per room average 2.48 per cent.

Calls It Impossible.

"That, too, is impossible," said a real estate operator of reputation yesterday, who asked that he be not quoted because of the large real estate interests he represents.

"I'll show you it is impossible. One hundred dollars pinced in a building is just as much $100 as the same amount deposited in a savings account of a bank. Mind you, I am not suggesting a tax on savings, but assume that some assessor attempted to take $2.48 away from the owner of a savings account of $100. Every one would rightfully say that is impossible, yet the depositor would have 52 cents left out of his year's earnings.

"Accordingly, every one recognizes it is impossible to tax 2.48 per cent of the full value when it is money in the bank, but those without experience fail to see that it is just as impossible when it is $100 in an apartment building. Your figures show that these owners, after paying 2.48 per cent taxes, actually lost $9.25 a year on each room, even if there had been a tax cut of 20 per cent.

Prudential Insurance Company of America.

I certainly appreciated your analyses of Equitable Insurance company and New York Life. I would also appreciate an analysis of Prudential Insurance company, as one of their solicitors is after me to take out a $10,000 policy, which appeals to me very much.—R. W. B.

Prudential Insurance Company of America was incorporated in 1873 as a stock company. It has since been mutualized. The company is managed by two trustees, Vivian Lewis and James Kerney, for the policyholders. Growth has been rapid and management capable. Policyholders' surplus is sufficient and the mortality rate is favorable. The reserve basis is strong.
